Quiet home turns into horror house for Halloween

MIRAMAR, Fla. (AP) — A dismembered body, a haunted cemetery, a guillotine over a screaming head, rain, thunder and lightning, cobwebs, and Frankenstein are surprises for the trick-or treater arriving at Bill Schuck's house.

Schuck, who calls himself "the Devil's Advocate," turned his parent's quiet residential home into an intricate, horror fantasy, and he opened it to hundreds of children — for free.

"Welcome to my creative nightmare," said Schuck, who turned 19 on Halloween Eve. The bearded Schuck, his hair dusted with gray coloring, wears a cape, ruffled shirt and other clothes reminiscent of garb worn in horror movies.

"Common sense tells us that none of this is real," he said. "But for a few seconds, common sense is shoved to the back of the mind."

He has converted the front yard into a weedy cemetery with real tombstones imported from West Virginia. Hidden sprinklers provide rain, strobe lights flash lightning and a tape recorder emits thunder.

A woman's head whispers ghoulish epithets from within a crystal ball — the result of a continuous tape player-movie projector under the table. Mirrors and lights combine to suggest ghosts and dismembered bodies. A real human skeleton rests in a black coffin. Fifteen life-like statues of characters ranging from Frankenstein to Regan of the "Exorcist" are in the yard.

Schuck said he created the display as part of an entrance requirement to an arts college.

He said the California Institute of the Arts, founded by Walt Disney at Valencia, Calif., asked him for a portfolio of his work.

"How could I be different? I thought perhaps I could combine my 'hamminess' with pleasing people," he said. "Then it came to me — obviously, a Halloween spectacular."

Over the weekend, as hundreds of persons converged on Schuck's home, Miramar Jaycees helped unsnarl traffic and local Citizen's Band radio operators handled security.

Large voter turnout seen

Registrars in both counties anticipate 82 per cent to vote

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

Some 200,000 registered voters valleywide Tuesday will be asked to mark ballots in three congressional, two senate and four assembly races, decide special issues in Diamond Bar, Claremont, the West End and Cucamonga, and participate in electing a President.

They'll be asked, too, to help elect one California state senator.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Registrars of voters in both Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties are anticipating 82 per cent voter turnouts. Pomona City Clerk Larry Thomas thinks that estimate is high.

"If they get a 70 per cent turnout they'll be very lucky," said Thomas.

For the handicapped who need transportation, the Claremont League of Women Voters will send drivers to those who call 624-9457 or 624-6363.

There has been a great deal of interest throughout this campaign in the race in the 35th Congressional District where incumbent Jim Lloyd of West Covina, seeking his second term, is being challenged by Covina businessman Louis Brutocao. Both have campaigned hard and a close finish is expected by the candidates.

This district serves Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, Walnut, Covina, West Covina, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino.

The 33rd Congressional District, which includes Diamond Bar and Walnut, is a contest between incumbent Del Clawson, Whittier Republican now seeking his eighth term in office, and Ted Snyder, Whittier Democrat, employed as director of communications and public relations at Rio Hondo College.

In the 26th Congressional District, which serves San Dimas, incumbent Republican John Rousselot is being challenged by South Pasadena Democrat George Donnelly, an assistant vice president with the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The new 33rd State Senatorial District, which serves the Diamond Bar and Walnut areas, was created in the 1973 reapportionment and has no incumbent. Hacienda Heights Republican Bill Campbell is giving up his 64th Assembly District seat to run for this office. His challenger is Santa Fe Springs Councilman Betty Wilson.

There is no election this year in the 32nd State Senatorial District which serves Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Chino and Upland. The incumbent is Ruben S. Ayala, a Chino Democrat.

In the 25th Senatorial District, which serves Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne, incumbent H. L. "Bill" Richardson, an Arcadia Republican, is challenged by West Covina Democrat Ronald Barbatoe, an attorney.

Assembly races to be decided are in the 62nd, 64th, 65th and 66th districts.

In the 62nd District, Republican incumbent William "Bill" Lancaster is challenged by West Covina Democrat Sandy Baldonado, a former Claremont school teacher. This district serves Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne.

In the 64th District which has no running incumbent, the candidates are La Mirada Democrat James Gonsalves, a former aide to Supervisor Pete Schabarum, and Hacienda Heights Republican M. David Stirling, an attorney. This district serves Diamond Bar, Walnut and Hacienda Heights areas.

In the 65th District, incumbent Bill McVittie, an Upland attorney, faces Pomona aerospace engineer Clyde Stephens. McVittie is a Democrat; Stephens, a Republican.

This district serves Pomona, Claremont, Upland, Ontario, Montclair and Chino.

The 66th District serves Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda, Mt. Baldy and Wrightwood. Democrat incumbent Terry Goggin of San Bernardino faces Republican Tamara Wolfinbarger, a Fontana businesswoman.

Diamond Bar voters will decide whether to form a Municipal Advisory Council (MAC). If the majority votes yes, they simultaneously will elect four councilmen. Seventeen candidates are on the ballot in that race.

Claremont voters will be asked whether they wish to annex additional land to their city.

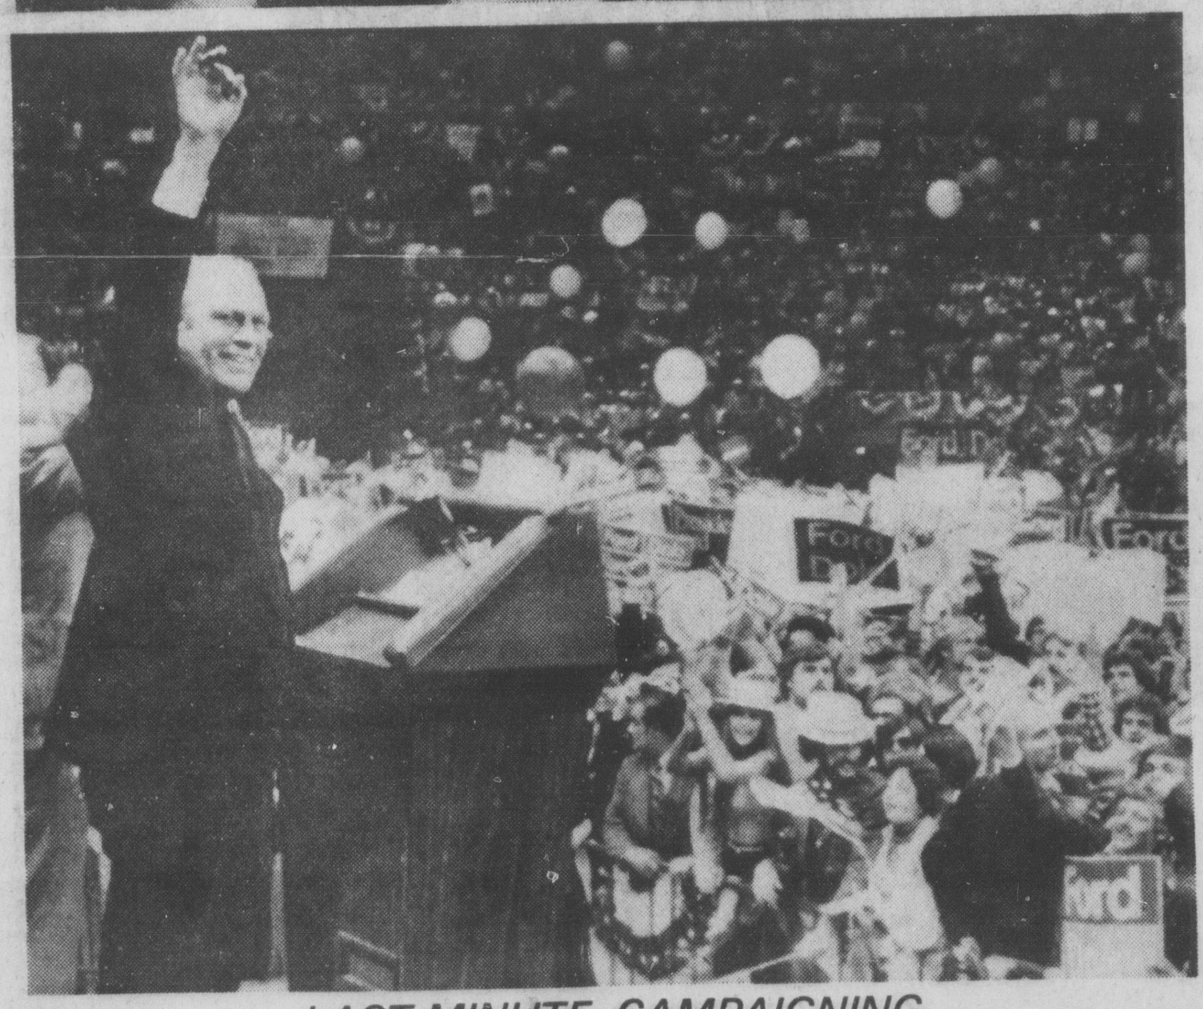

In the West End, voters will be asked to elect three members to the West End Resource Conservation District (RCD), an advisory agency authorized by the State Public Resources Code to do research and give advice in the areas of planning, pollution control and the conservation of soil, water, woodlands and wildlife.

Cucamonga voters, on Proposition O, will decide a $10 million school building bond measure.

At the state level, Sen. John Tunney, a Democrat, has a strong opponent in S. I. Hayakawa, 70, retired state college president, who won the Republican nomination.

At the last minute, poll takers say this race is too close to call.

LAST-MINUTE CAMPAIGNING

In San Francisco's Ghiradelli Square, the crowd surges forward (top) as Democratic President candidate Jimmy Carter wades out to shake hands following a rally Sunday night. Meanwhile, President Ford gives the crowd an okay (bottom) sign at a rally in Nassau Coliseum Sunday night in Uniondale, N.Y. President Ford spent the day campaigning on Long Island and in New York City.

Presidential campaigning to conclude in Michigan

By Associated Press

Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter wind up their campaigns tonight barely 100 miles apart in the President's home state of Michigan. And if the poll takers are right, the candidates are approaching Election Day in a virtual dead heat.

Too close to call is the forecast coming from most quarters in the hours before Americans go to the polls in the nation's bicentennial presidential election.

One major national poll gave Carter a one point lead. Another gave Ford a one point lead.

But it's the electoral vote rather than the national popular vote that will determine who occupies the White House starting next Jan. 20.

The electoral votes for each state are equal to the state's representation in Congress, the two senators plus the number of House members. And the candidate who carries the state gets all the electoral votes.

It takes 270 electoral votes to win the election and few surveys show either candidate with a firm lead in enough states to make him feel certain of victory.

133 reported dead following Jakarta quake

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The death toll from an earthquake that jolted remote mountain jungles in the center of the island of New Guinea has reached 133, officials said today.

A spokesman for the office here of Irian Jaya province said rescue teams were still digging bodies out of the debris left by Friday's quake.

An Interior Department official said a 10-man task force would meet in Jakarta on Tuesday to discuss relief steps. President Suharto earlier ordered rescue teams and medical personnel flown to the area.

John Karetji, deputy chief of the Mission Aviation Fellowship office in Jakarta, said it was difficult to get an exact figure of casualties because many districts are unreachable. He said Langda and Eipomek were the hardest hit districts.

The Irian Jaya office reported 47 dead in Langda, 25 in Tanimi and 20 in Eipomek.

The provincial office said some of the injured had been evacuated to a hospital in Wamena, a town in the stricken area.

Central New Guinea was still recovering from an earthquake in June that killed 1,000 people when Friday's tremor hit. It destroyed buildings and triggered a major landslide.

La Puente slaying

Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies were without a motive or suspect in the slaying late Sunday night of a 20-year-old man in La Puente.

They identified the victim as Carlos Thome, III, of 339 Workman Mill Road, La Puente. Investigators said he was killed shortly before midnight Sunday by a single shot in the head fired from a large-caliber rifle. They said the car had not crashed or gone off the road, indicating to them that it was parked when Thome was shot.

Weather

Clear today and Tuesday. High today 87, overnight low, 46. High Tuesday will be 86 with a low of 48. Saturday high was 77 with a low of 47. Sunday's high temperature was 84 with an overnight low of 51. Sunrise Tuesday 6:11, sunset 4:57.

Three killed in accidents

Upland man

An Upland man was killed and two other persons were injured early Sunday when their car hit a dirt embankment on Mt. Baldy Road near Mountain Avenue and slid on its top for 50 feet.

The victim wasn't immediately identified by highway patrolmen pending notification of the next of kin.

Injured in the accident were Michelle Fraschetti, 16, reported in fair condition at Doctors Hospital in Montclair, and Dale Wolfe, 20, listed in satisfactory condition at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The car was southbound on Mt. Baldy Road at a high rate of speed when it failed to make a turn in the road, said investigators. It crossed the northbound lane and started to climb an embankment when it hit a rock and flipped.

Covina cyclist

A Covina motorcyclist was killed and a San Dimas man was arrested in an early-morning collision Sunday at Arrow Highway and Garey Avenue in Pomona.

The motorcyclist, Michael Lynn Lemmon, 29, of 18579 E. Gallarno Drive, was pronounced dead a few minutes after he was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital following the accident. Lemmon suffered several fractures, including skull fractures, in the crash.

Police reported that the collision occurred when Robert Lawrence King, 23, made a left turn in front of Lemmon as Lemmon was eastbound in Arrow on his brother's motorcycle. The accident was at 1:15 a.m. and Lemmon was prounounced dead at 1:53 a.m.

Police later booked King on suspicion of manslaughter, felonious drunken driving and an additional charge of making an illegal left turn.

Lemmon was the 13th person killed in traffic accidents on Pomona streets this year.

Fontana girl

A five-year-old Fontana girl was killed when she and her sister and brother were thrown from the back of a station wagon in a collision with a pickup truck at Arrow Highway and Haven Avenue, Cucamonga, Sunday evening.

Lisa White of 9068 Sierra Ave., died at San Antonio Community Hospital of multiple head injuries an hour after the accident. Richard White Jr., 3, also suffered head injuries and was reported in fair condition at the hospital this morning. The third child, Cristen White, 6, was treated and released.

The highway patrol reported that Richard White Sr., was westbound on Arrow Highway when a pickup truck driven by Ronald I. Bond, 33, of 10212 La Gloria St., Alta Loma, ran a red traffic signal and hit the station wagon broadside. He was not hurt.

The CHP said investigation on possible manslaughter charges is pending.

Sen. Tunney wins Hayden endorsement

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Sen. John Tunney, locked in a tight race against Republican S.I. Hayakawa, received the endorsement Saturday of Tom Hayden, his opponent in the Democratic primary.

Hayden, who ran a sometimes bitter campaign against Tunney for the Democratic nomination, said at a Democratic rally Saturday, "I want to make it clear who I'm voting for — I'm voting for John Tunney."

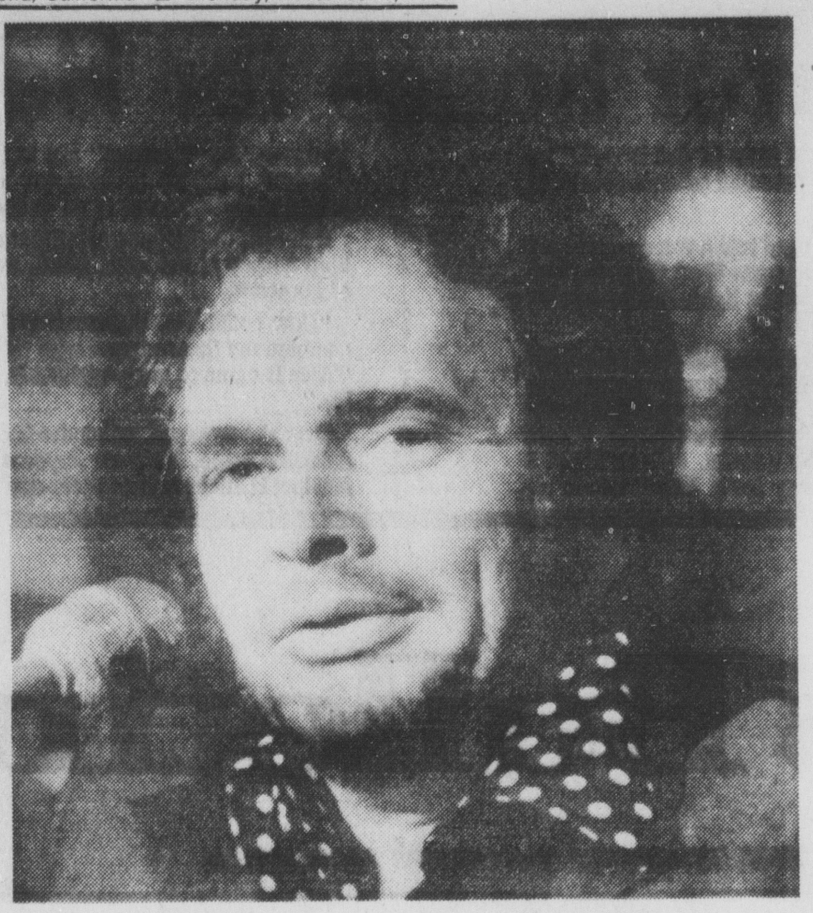

During the primary campaign, Hayden had accused Tunney of abandoning liberal stances on key issues, and since the election has offered little encouragement to the Tunney campaign.

Hayakawa hits taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Republican senatorial candidate S.I. Hayakawa has ended his campaign saying higher taxes are the result of major federal spending programs supported by his opponent, Sen. John V. Tunney.

"During the long weeks of campaigning, John Tunney and I have disagreed on many things," Hayakawa said in a statement issued by his campaign. "But our sharpest difference . . . is the immediate need to stop the alarming increase in property taxes."

Hayakawa, who did not campaign Sunday and had no appearances planned for Monday, said the property tax rates were being driven up by passage of federal programs.

MERLE HAGGARD MISSING

Singer fails to show

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Country-Western singer Merle Haggard failed to appear for concerts here Saturday night and in Denver on Friday, and a concert sponsor said Haggard's agent did not know the performer's whereabouts.

Henry Hilton, owner of radio station KSOP, sponsor of the Salt Lake concert, said Haggard's manager, Fuzzy Ownes, told him the singer and his driver got on Haggard's bus in Denver Friday at 2:30 p.m. and Haggard said he was going to buy a fiddle.

Owens has not seen nor heard from Haggard since, Hilton said. Haggard was billed as the major attraction at both concerts.

Voters decide Tuesday

County changes loom

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County voters Tuesday will have a chance to fundamentally change their county's government for the first time since 1912.

Voters here also will be able to create a new county — Canyon County — for the first time in 70 years.

Propositions A and B would change the shape of county government, while Proposition F would create a new county in the northwest section and possibly spur a host of similar secessions.

Prop. A would create a county mayor to be elected in 1978 while B — which could go into effect only if A passes — would expand the board of supervisors from five members to nine. There are now about 7 million people in the county, so each supervisor has roughly 1.2 million constitutents.

If voters approve both measures Tuesday, they will be putting the administrative reins mostly into the hands of one person and giving the supervisors a largely legislative role.

The creation of a county mayor has been discussed for several decades, but the drive to make the change gained momentum just last spring with the release of a public commission's report backing the restructuring.

Proponents of the change include Supervisors Ed Edelman. Hahn and Pete Schabarum; Sheriff Peter Pitchess; District Attorney John van de Kamp and Assessor Philip Watson. They argue the changes would improve government visibility and accountability, as well as produce more efficient use of county resources.

Opponents, including Supervisors James Hayes and Baxter Ward, fear the plan might create another layer of bureaucracy. Ward has claimed the plan would lead to a county "dictator" who would be indebted to special interests for campaign support.

Prop. F would create Canyon County only if it gets the nod from voters both inside and outside the planned area, which covers a 730-square-mile region roughly from Gorman and the Kern County line south to Newhall and Valenica and east almost to Palmdale.

Blaze damage

RIVERSIDE (AP) — Fire did an estimated $68,000 damage to the recreation room and dining hall at the Rose Garden Village retirement community here.

Fire department officials said the blaze apparently was started by an overheated blower motor.

Star wedded

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Actress June Allyson has married a dentist in a ceremony attended by actresses Rita Hayworth, Margaret O'Brien and Gloria De Haven.

The bridegroom was David Ashrow, 55, of Ventura, Calif. Their marriage Saturday was the third marriage for both.

Miss Allyson, now 52, was married for 18 years to actor Dick Powell who died of cancer in 1963. Later that year she married Powell's barber, Glenn Maxwell. The stormy second marriage ended in divorce in 1970.

Flu clinics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Swine flu clinics for the general public will open in Los Angeles County Monday, although no decision will be made until Nov. 5 on whether children from 3 to 18 will be given the vaccine.

More than 90,000 elderly and other high-risk persons were vaccinated last week, a lower turnout than health officials had hoped for, but still higher than in other parts of the country.

Woman killed

COLTON (AP) — A 23-year-old Colton woman was found shot to death in an olive grove near the Santa Fe Railroad yards here.

Police said Robin Zamorano apparently had been killed several hours before her body was found. They said they had found no motive for the murder and had no suspects.

On water rate increase

Utilities hearing set

The California Public Utilities Commission will conduct a hearing Nov. 17 in Claremont on an application of the Southern California Water Company for a 17.3 per cent general rate increase for portions of Pomona and other cities in its Pomona Valley District.

The company said the general rate increase request is the first sought since June, 1974 and is equal to an annual revenue increase of $211,600. For the average single family customer the proposed increase would mean 6.8 cents daily or $2.04 on the monthly bill.

The water company serves 7,900 customers in Claremont, Chino, Montclair, Pomona, Upland and in unincorporated areas of Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties.

The hearing on the rate application will open at 10:30 a.m., in the Claremont City Council Chambers, 207 Harvard Street, Claremont.

"The continuing yearly increases in inflation which at times reached double-digit figures since June, 1974 are responsible for the general rate increase request. In addition the Company's application seeks step increases in rates averaging $19,400 or 1.3 per cent annually for 1976 through 1979. These are held necessary to compensate for the still continuing yearly inflationary increases being experienced in the costs of doing business," said Clare Milton, the Pomona district superindendent.

The company also reported its rate increase application could make no forecast on either increases or decreases in a number of items that go into the costs of providing water service. These include purchases water, pumptaxes, energy to deliver the water, labor, postage, and payroll, property and income taxes. Therefore it said its rate application asked that whatever changes were in effect on these costs be included in the rates authorized at the time of the Public Utilities Commission decision.

What's going on around here

Museum tour planned

The Society for Antiquity and Christianity will sponsor a fall tour of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art on Nov. 13.

In addition to the museum's permanent exhibit of ancient art, the special attraction is the Bicentennial exhibit "The World of Franklin and Jefferson." This exhibit, which has appeared in leading museums in this country and Europe, was designed by the Southern California firm of Charles and Ray Eames. A member of its staff, Jeannine Oppewall who assisted in the research and design of the exhibit, has been invited to accompany the tour to provide commentary.

The tour will leave from the Institute for Antiquity and Christianity, Claremont, at 8:45 a.m. and travel by bus to the Museum of Art in Los Angeles. Following the visit to the museum the group will have lunch in Pasadena.

More telephones installed

General Telephone Co. gained 3,880 new telephones in its Pomona-area operation during the third quarter, an increase of 50.8 per cent over the same period last year.

Company-wide, the utility's third-quarter gain was 13 per cent over the same three-month period in 1975.

The Santa Monica based company added 122,099 telephones company-wide by the end of the first nine months of 1976, a pace that will put the utility far ahead of its 1975 total of 130,035 telephones gained, General's best year since 1968.

Traditionally, the third quarter operation sees strong gains due to the influx of college students and families relocating into General's territory prior to the start of school.

At the end of September, General Telephone had 3.2 million telephones in service, including 1.7 million primaries and 1.5 million extensions.

Ministers convocation

Ministers from Southern California will be meeting at the School of Theology at Claremont Friday and Saturday for the 28th annual Ministers' Convocation.

This year's theme is "Renewing America's Vision — The Role of Religion."

Leaders of the convocation include Colin W. Williams, dean of the Yale Divinity School; Cecil L. Murray, minister of the First African Methodist Episcopal Church, Seattle; and the president and dean of the Shoool of Theology at Claremont, Gordon E. Michalson, and Joseph Hough, Jr.

Ministers of all denominations are invited.

Williams and Murray will each present two lectures with opportunity for questions from the ministers.

Afternoon seminars will be conducted by faculty members Rolf Kneirim, "Personal Piety and Universal Responsibility,"; Allen J. Moore, "Recovery of the Teaching Ministry"; and John B. Cobb Jr., "The Holy Spirit in the Contemporary Church."

Lifeline information

Electricity customers of Southern California Edison Co., are asked to fill out the questionnaires in their October bills to notify the utilities if they use electricity to heat their homes and their water, said the California Public Utilities Commission.

If they don't, they may not be able to take full advantage of lifeline rates recently established by the commission.

Edison mailed declaration forms to their customers this fall and has received about 168,000 of the 250,000 expected replies.

Customers using electricity for space and water heating will be eligible for higher lifeline allowances, which over the next few years will mean lower electric bills.

Pursuant to the Miller-Warren Lifeline Act, residential users receive basic minimum amounts of energy at low rates for lighting, cooking, food refrigeration, water heating, and home heating.

New classes

The Blaisdell Institute has a series of classes in Hatha Yoga. Mrs. Doris Martin is the instructor.

Classes will be taught each Monday during the noon hour. The course fee is $20. For information, persons may call the Blaisdell Institute at 626-626-0521.

Bank promotion

Donald R. Wick, 42, of Riverside has been elected a vice president of United California Bank.

Wick is manager of UCB's Pomona main office.

Joining UCB in 1960, Wick held a number of commercial and corporate banking assignments. He became an assistant vice president in 1969, and in 1970 was promoted to manager of the bank's Riverside Office. He became manager of the Pomona main office in 1975.

Woman kidnaped, robbed

A 28-year-old Montclair woman was kidnapped and robbed of a moderate amount of cash Saturday from in front of Ozzie's Oasis at Kingsley Street and Central Avenue, Montclair.

Montclair police said that Josephine Parrialla was approached by a man and a woman about 11:45 a.m.

The man pulled a knife and ordered Mrs. Parrialla to drive her car around the Claremont and Pomona area for two hours. During the ride, the pair took cash from the woman's purse.

They finally ordered Mrs. Parrialla to stop in front of the Claremont Village Apartments at Arrow Highway and Towne Avenue about 1:30 p.m.

The pair fled on foot, leaving Mrs. Parrialla unharmed.

The man was described as being 19 to 20 years old, of medium height and build and with shoulder-length dirty blond hair. He wore a high school class ring, a dark blue tank top, jeans and desert shoes.

The woman was carrying an infant seat with a black sweater in it. She was about 17 or 18 years old, 5 feet, 1 inch tall, about 100 pounds and wearing a faded white printed blouse and blue jeans.

Burglary

A Montclair man is being questioned by Montclair and Monrovia police detectives in connection with a burglary at the Holiday Motor Lodge, 9191 Central Ave., Montclair, Saturday and several burglaries and an auto theft in Monrovia earlier in the week.

Allen was captured by the officers after a short foot chase.

Allen is being held in West End Jail for police.

Two booked

Two men were booked in the West End Jail in connection with the alleged burglary of an apartment at 115 E. Fourth St., Ontario, early Sunday morning, police reported.

Diegmar Carlo Alsmann, 26, of 222 Wagoner Ave., Claremont, and Stephen Alfred Wouters, 23, of 4833 Kingsley St., Montclair, were arrested by Ontario officer George Stipes shortly after the burglary was reported about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

According to police, a neighbor of the victim, Patty McLeod, 21, of the Fourth Street address called police after she heard noises coming from the nearby apartment.

When police arrived, they found the front door broken down and a number of items, including a television set, jewelry and money missing.

The neighbor managed to get a description of a pickup truck seen leaving the area with a television set in the truck bed.

Stipes spotted the truck and the television set in the area and stopped the suspects.

Marijuana seized near Hearst Castle; 14 held

SAN SIMEON (AP) — Sheriff's deputies said they smashed a major smuggling operation near the Hearst Castle today, arresting 14 men and confiscating about five tons of marijuana worth over $1 million.

San Luis Obispo County Undersheriff Tim Norton said the drug raid was the largest in county history. He predicted more arrests and marijuana seizures.

Sheriff's officials said they also seized four vehicles and a fishing boat in their midnight raid on a hidden cove near the entrance to the famed Hearst Castle here.

Judo club

Nuns learning rape defense

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Why don't you just forget we're sisters — we're women," called out one of the older Roman Catholic nuns in the class, as Franklin County Sheriff's Deputy Larry Greene began his rape defense seminar for 20 nuns at Ohio Dominican College.

"Your attitude has to be geared to that one moment," Greene told the sisters. "It goes against everything you've been taught."

Greene told the nuns a sexual assault is "no longer the simple rape. Rapists now torture, they are highly sadistic. They have a hatred toward women and will try to punish any woman they can."

Greene told the nuns "you're making yourselves vulnerable" by changing dress codes. The Dominican nuns he was addressing wear black and white habits that go well below the knee.

Determined to learn how to defend themselves, most of the women took to the mats, vigorously tossing each other and members of a judo club.

Greene advised the women that if attacked by an armed man, the best idea is to go along until he tries to begin a sexual assault.

At that point, when his face is near, "you have one chance — right in the eyes," Greene said.

"What if it's your luck to get a rapist with glasses? Just glide your fingers up his cheekbones and under the glasses."

Several nuns asked how to protect themselves if attacked while asleep, as was one of their order.

Greene showed the sisters how to throw an intruder off a bed to buy time to get away.

Rapists "don't like to leave witnesses," Greene warned. In any attack, "you have to assume your life is on the line.

"What I'm saying is there are ways out. Panic isn't necessary. And, with a little practice, giving up your life isn't necessary."

Phoenix missile recovered

LONDON (AP) — A U.S. Navy team conquered gale winds and heaving seas Sunday to retrieve a Phoenix missile that fell from an aircraft carrier six weeks ago and plunged to the bottom of the Atlantic off Scotland.

The rough weather prevented raising the F14 Tomcat jet fighter that sank with the highly classified missile off the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy on Sept. 14, the Navy reported. It will be attempted when the sea calms.

Discovery of the jet 10 days ago and Sunday's recovery of the Phoenix put an end to fears, minimized by the Navy, that Soviet ships might snatch the $20 million plane and $515,000 missile.

The missile had a nonnuclear warhead but capture of a Phoenix and F14 would have provided valuable technical data to a potential adversary.

"The important thing is we got it and nobody else has it," a Navy spokesman said. He reported the missile was "intact with only light damage," but it was too early to tell if it could be made useable.

The Phoenix-equipped Tomcat is one of the Navy's major weapons in defending ships against missles and planes.

A small nuclear submarine with a television camera and five crewmen located the 13-foot-long, 15-inch-diameter missile Saturday morning after a search of the muddy bottom that one officer likened to trying to find a needle in a haystack the size of London's 341-acre Hyde Park.

The sub, equipped with portholes so the crew could observe the 1,900-foot-deep ocean floor, extended a remote control arm and grasped the missile in a clam shell-like hand.

Navy divers descended into the icy waters and 10-foot waves 75 miles northwest of Scapa Flow, Scotland, and fixed straps to the missile. It was raised more than one-third of a mile to the surface and hoisted aboard the submarine support vessel Sunbird.

The Phoenix is for use against antiship missiles. An F14 can fire six at a time against separate targets up to 100 miles away. The system is reputed to be highly resistant to jamming.

The sunken Tomcat, which plunged off the Kennedy's flight deck when engine controls malfunctioned during a North Atlantic Treaty Organization maneuver, rests in about 1,500 feet of water about three miles from where the missile was pulled up.

The jet was towed that far last Wednesday when the recovery team was twice able to fix cables to it. But rough seas prevented its being brought to the surface.

House will remain unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House that voters will elect next Tuesday, by all indications, will show about the same party division as its predecessor — overwhelmingly Democratic. But it will not be a carbon copy.

At least one-third of the representatives sworn in next January probably will have not more than two years' previous service.

The outgoing House was split exactly two to one — 290 Democratic seats, 145 Republican.

Election prospect estimates by Democratic and Republican analysts, agree, at least privately, with those by outside estimators within a notably narrow range. Almost without exception, they point to a net shift of few more than a dozen seats, at the most.

Republicans are favored to make a small gain, if only because the post-Watergate election of 1974 swept in an abnormally large Democratic freshman class, some from normally Republican districts.

Newly elected in 1974 and in subsequent special elections to fill vacancies were 79 Democrats and 19 Republicans.

There will be an absolute minimum of 53 new members in the incoming House. That many seats are open because of death, retirement and primary defeat. Almost certainly there will be even more new faces. It is hardly possible that every incumbent seeking re-election will succeed.

So, depending on how the presidential election comes out, Jimmy Carter will be seeking the cooperation of, or President Ford will be confronting, a heavily Democratic House with a proportion of junior members unmatched in recent years.

It could be a yeasty House. The 1974 Democratic freshmen, working with some restless older members, made a major dent in the hallowed seniority system, toppling three committee chairmen and forcing changes in the House's ways of doing business, with the role of the party caucus strengthened.

First-termers are obvious targets when they come up for reelection. But the Democratic powers in the House have worked hard to help their freshmen dig in, emphasizing service to constituents with problems, and arranging for expert coaching in office organization and campaigning. Democratic spokesmen say no more than a handful of the freshmen are seriously threatened.

All 435 House seats are to be voted on Tuesday. But fewer than 100 of the contests are considered strenuous races, in which an incumbent, or the party of a departing member, is in much danger of losing.

Even of these races no more than half are seen as exceptionally tight. Forty-five Democrats and six Republicans have no major party opposition.

Unless the estimators are all wrong — and the extent of their agreement is impressive — the balance of wins and losses in about 50 races will determine the exact makeup of the new House. This would even allow for a few surprises.

Pomona woman escapes fire

Miss Edwina Todd, a retired Navy nurse, escaped unharmed when a fire at her home, 293 Garfield Ave., Pomona, early this morning caused extensive damage.

The fire which did an estimated $8,000 damage to contents and structure appeared to have started in the living room of the single-story structure.

Miss Todd, who just moved into the house Sunday, called Pomona firemen at 5:06 a.m. She then called her sister before leaving the house through the rear door and going to neighbors. Her small dog was also able to escape.

The fire caused extensive damage to the entire house, except for the bedroom in which Miss Todd had been sleeping.

Ontario garage gutted by flames

A fire of undertermined origin gutted a two-car garage adjoining a home at 930 N. Gardenia St., in Ontario causing an estimated $10,000 damage Sunday afternoon.

Firemen responded to the fire about 12:11 p.m. and managed to bring it under control within five minutes.

The home next to the garage sustained minor smoke damage.

Fire inspectors this morning said the fire appeared to have started at the rear of the garage and quickly spread through stored furniture, auto parts and garden tools.

Inspectors were at the scene this morning attempting to learn the origin of the blaze.

Russian move against Press defeated in U.N.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Soviet move to bring a controversial press issue before the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) general conference for an early vote was overwhelmingly defeated today.

The Soviets had demanded that committee discussion over possible amending of the draft declaration on "fundamental principles governing the use of mass media" be limited to two or three days, after which the proposal would automatically go before the full conference.

Western nations believe the declaration would muzzle world press freedom and place the press in many countries under state control.

Especially repugnant to Western nations and press organizations is a Soviet-inspired provision saying that "states are responsible for the activities in the international sphere of all mass media under their jurisdiction."

The Soviet tactic today was aimed at pressing for a quick vote, which the Communists apparently believed would be favorable to their side in view of the voting strength of the third world nations.

However, general sentiment seemed to have been swinging against such a vote at this time and shifting toward a desire to defuse the issue by continuing debate in committee.

When the Soviet proposal to limit committee discussion was put to a vote, it was defeated 70 to 17 with six abstentions. Communist nations of Europe and Asia, as well as Cuba, voted for the Soviet move, with the exception of China, whose delegates voted against it.

In face of this defeat, the Soviets withdrew their proposal.

Among Western officials speaking against the proposed press measure today was Austrian Foreign Minister Willibald Pahr.

"The view has been held that freedom of information has to remain subject to the concept of state sovereignty — a view with which my delegation cannot concur," Pahr told the UNESCO conference.

"We do not exclude that in the course of our deliberations a compromise could be reached," he said. "Such a compromise, however, would have to safeguard the free flow of information and the right to receive and impart information on the one hand and the right of the states, on the other hand."

Reg Prentice, Britain's minister of overseas development, said in rejecting the draft declaration: "In Britain, like many other Western countries, we are firm believers in free speech and freedom of the press. These concepts should be paramount in considering the issue raised as agenda item 69 (the declaration)."

However, Prentice said he favored "strengthening the information infrastructure of developing countries." This referred to proposals calling for establishment of a third world news agency — a move which is not being opposed by Western countries so long as it does not restrict the activities of existing international news agencies.

Tourist motel raided

VICTORIA FALLS, Rhodesia (AP) — Black guerrillas stormed a tourist motel on Saturday night, raking it with machinegun fire and tossing a grenade into a cocktail bar. One white vacationer was killed and two others were wounded, the government said.

The attack on the motel near the Zambian border was one of the most daring raids on a major Rhodesian population center in the battle between nationalist guerrillas and the forces of the white minority government. The motel is popular with tourists visiting Victoria Falls.

Before Saturday's attack, 50 whites had been killed in the four years of fighting.

Black leaders and white Prime Minister Ian Smith are currently attending a conference in Geneva, trying to work out a transfer of power to blacks, who outnumber whites by 6.4 million to 278,000.

Some black leaders have vowed the guerrilla war will continue despite the talks.

I couldn't believe my eyes, gentlemen...

at 2:30 a.m. this morning when I read your letter addressed to "Dear Republican Friend," endorsing Jim Lloyd for re election to Congress. And I couldn't sleep the rest of the night. When I got up I hopes I'd been having a nightmare and it would disappear, but it was still there.

Sure Jim Lloyd is a charmer, but if charm is to be the deciding criterion for a Congressman, then his wife Jackie should be our representative in Congress for she's even more charming than Jim! Sure Jim has put together a very responsive and professional staff in Washington and in the field. So have the 70 odd other Watergate freshmen democrats who were swept in during the 1974 Congressional disaster. And they've had a lot of help from AFL-CIO COPE since just as they have in their campaigns.

As the old pro says, "Let's take a look at the record." Jim has a 92% COPE rating. Only 8% of the time has he voted for anything other than COPE. Is this the pattern which you really want to perpetuate in our representation in Congress? On the other hand Jim has a 25% rating from Americans for Constitutional Action. Is this consistent with your views? Jim has consistently voted to override the President's vetos of wild spending legislation. Had the President's vetos not been sustained, his votes would have resulted in $220 billions of additional budget deficits in the next two years. Is this what you seek in endorsing Jim's re-election? Jim is consistent. He voted against Congressman John Rousselot's bill to require a balanced budget in peacetime. I can't believe that this voting record is what you seek in a Congressman.

Sure Louis Brutocao is abrasive. I don't like the tenor of his campaign rhetoric. I don't even like his useage of the English language. Using "duplicity" for "duplication" for example. I didn't like his sitting on his hands during the 1974 Veysey campaign, hoping for Vic to lose so he could run in '76. But I do like his political philosophy. Louis is deeply disturbed by the trend of things towards a socialized government in his native Canada. He can see the pattern of Mother England being repeated there and, with voting like Jim Lloyd's, it's coming here only too soon. If George Meany himself had written the script himself, he couldn't have done a better job than you to turn the Elephant Party into the Lemming Party.

Skiers protest Mt. Baldy land preserve

A controversy is developing over whether land high in the Angeles National Forest should be left primitive and preserved as a sheep mountain wilderness or developed as a ski resort to expand Southern California's recreational area.

The land is owned by the U.S. Forest Service and situated northeast of the valley and extends from the top of Mt. Baldy down the northeast face of the mountain.

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., siding with conservationists and particularly the Sierra Club, has succeeded in obtaining Presidential approval for a two-year feasibility study into the possibility of having a 52,000-acre area declared mountain wilderness for the protection of Big Horn sheep.

Charles Lewsadder, owner and operator of the Mt. Baldy Ski Lifts (under his company, Western Resorts, Inc.), along with two skiing clubs, objects vigorously to this action.

They would have no quarrel, Lewsadder said, if the northeast face of Mt. Baldy, an area extending about one mile downhill and 4,000 feet wide, were not included in the wilderness.

However, it is, and Lewsadder has a map with lines drawn to prove his point.

Siding with Lewsadder are members of the Woodstock Ski Club of Covina, and the Far West Ski Association which, he said, draws membership from throughout the country.

Lloyd, Lewsadder claims, has "lied to us. This is the first time I have ever been involved with a politician who has so misled me," he added.

Lewsadder claims Lloyd switched sides, that originally he was with the skiers. "I don't know whether we can win," said Lewsadder, "but we're in this fight all the way. I think Lloyd is misleading the people deliberately."

Lloyd could not be reached Saturday for comment. However, when he reported that the President had signed the bill funding the wilderness study, he said, "We can now begin a two-year study which will emphasize public input to determine if this area should be granted wilderness status."

Lloyd added that "it is extremely important to get the viewpoints of all groups that have an interest in this area, especially those concerned with ski areas nearby."

He said he did not want to see ski areas at Mt. Baldy or Wrightwood threatened because their recreational value to thousands of Californians.

"The need to preserve this rugged and naturally beautiful terrain is also vitally important to the millions of people who live within a two-hour drive, and for the preservation of the endangered Big Horn sheep living there," he added.

Lloyd said he would announce public hearing schedules as soon as dates are set.

Lewsadder opened the Mt. Baldy resort in 1969. He operates two lifts which take riders from Stockton Flats to the notch. He long has been interested in developing the third lift on the northeast face of Mt. Baldy, he said, and at one time had permission from the Forest Service to begin preliminary studies on the project. However, he said, "the Forest Service has renigged, and now will not admit that permission ever was granted."

Lewsadder said he and the ski club members feel the only reason the wilderness study is being undertaken is "to block the expansion of skiing areas in Southern California."

Actually, Lewsadder explained, "there is no conflict between sheep and skiing. "Sheep go where there is vegetation. Skiers stay away from vegetation," he said.

The ironic part of the whole wilderness proposal, Lewsadder added, is that "the Mt. Baldy hiking trail, which borders the northeast slope of Mt. Baldy, is excluded from the wilderness area. If hikers may go beside the area, why not skiers?" he asked.

Lewsadder calls the situation "the last stand for skiers. This is the last place left in Southern California where skiing could expand. It is beautiful, a natural area for skiing. It could, if developed, accommodate 10,000 skiers a day. It is only 90 minutes from downtown Los Angeles. It's high, 8,000 to 10,000 foot elevation, and would be higher than anything in Southern California," he said.

Hiking trails

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Ouachita National Forest in Arkansas and Oklahoma contains a number of short hiking trails, many of which are educational as well as recreational.

A one-mile loop at Walnut Creek, for example, interprets forest land use, passing through 55 species of plant life. At Crystal Recreation Area another one-mile trail will have markers describing a hardwood forest and a jumble of rocks through which it passes.

Other routes include a three-mile Youth Conservation Corps trail and still another one-mile loop that has markers dealing with the relationships between plant and animal life.

Fellowships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Endowment for the Arts recently announced fellowships totaling $990,000 to 165 creative writers.

Chairman Nancy Hanks said, "These fellowships will enable fiction writers, poets, playwrights and essayists to devote additional time to the development of their professional capabilities."

MERIT!

'Enriched Flavor'™ process prompts unprecedented response to taste of low tar MERIT.

Smokers are talking about a new kind of cigarette.

It's MERIT. The remarkable low tar cigarette made with the 'Enriched Flavor'™ process.

MERIT has only 9 mg. tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today. Yet, taste tests proved that MERIT delivers as much—or more—flavor than cigarettes having up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested in what people like yourself are writing to us about MERIT.

"I bought one package and was so surprised at the true taste of good tobacco."

—Mrs. Marjorie H. Belanger
Oxnard, California

"For years I was convinced you couldn't have low tar and taste. Thanks for proving me wrong."

—F. W. Hammerschmidt
Amityville, Long Island, New York

"I have tried your MERIT MENTHOL and you have sold me."

—Mary Felix
Miami Beach, Florida

"Finally, a good tasting cigarette low in tar and nicotine. And you feel like you're smoking something besides air."

—Susan Wilmington
Chicago, Illinois

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

"With great hesitancy, I tried your new low tar cigarette. I am happy to report that MERIT is a satisfying smoke. You have a confirmed MERIT smoker in me."

—Linda Harvey
Bronx, New York

"Thank you so very much for making a pleasing low tar and nicotine cigarette. I enjoy cigarettes again."

—Ed H. Bourne, Jr.
Sioux Falls, South Dakota

"I had tried just about all the low tar cigarettes on the market and did not care for any of them. So I tried a MERIT, found the taste very mild, enjoyed the cigarette and have been smoking them ever since."

—Mrs. Helen Shuyler
Winter Haven, Florida

"I have just tried your new MERIT cigarette and 'Bingo'! This is really the first low tar cigarette that I can taste. You have a regular customer on this end."

—James E. Yates, Jr.
Johnson City, Tennessee

"Thanks a lot for a cigarette that tastes like a cigarette instead of a lettuce leaf."

—Linda Taylor
Buffalo, Texas

"I read your ad, decided to try what I thought was just another gimmick, and was surprised. The taste is better than any low-tar cigarette I've ever smoked."

—Paul Burt
Stirling, New Jersey

"Thanks so much for a terrific tasting low tar cigarette! I've switched!!!"

—Ms. Maryann Griffin
Kennesaw, Georgia

"Thank you, thank you, thank you .... I have tried other brands but have never come across anything quite like MERIT."

—Ms. Tana S. Goodman
Whittier, California

"Believe me, the taste of MERIT supersedes other low tar cigarettes. It is not only mild, but good tasting. I love them."

—Mrs. Ethel Carnegie
Washington, D.C.

"When MERIT was advertised I tried it and what a surprise I got. It's hard to believe that such a cigarette could deliver such a rich flavor and taste."

—Jerry Lee Lowry
Indianapolis, Indiana

"MERIT is fantastic! I'd smoke it even if it wasn't low in tar and nicotine."

—Justine Ann Biele
Eastchester, New York

"Thank you for making the biggest breakthrough in smoking in all the years I have smoked. The taste and pleasure I get from MERIT is unbelievable."

—Marc A. Nolan
Akron, Ohio

"For the past 10 years I have been trying to find a smokeable low tar and nicotine cigarette. It only took one pack of MERIT to convert me."

—Mrs. Virginia Peyton Kirk
Havre de Grace, Maryland

"Saw a MERIT billboard: 'Low tar—Enriched Flavor'. Thought I'd try it. It's a fantastic cigarette! You have created a winner."

—Ira Goren

"Congratulations! You have managed to retain the quality of the flavor while reducing the tar and nicotine to very low levels."

—Laura Luther
El Segundo, California

"I asked an acquaintance for a cigarette and received a surprise—MERIT MENTHOL. I would like to thank you for adding taste to Menthol."

—Frank Winebrenner
York, Pennsylvania

"The name MERIT was perfectly warranted. A good thing is hard to find in this day and age, but you sure came up with a winner in my book."

—Mr. Kenneth R. Wilson
Akron, Ohio

"My husband brought home a pack of 'MERIT Filters' and told me to try one. I did—it was good. Had a nice, mild taste. I loved it."

—Mrs. Laurie Mack
Little Rock, Arkansas

"I can't tell you how shocked I was that Merit was really a low tar cigarette that really had flavor."

—Mrs. Judith Pietras

"Merit is the best yet—it hit my taste buds perfectly!"

—Ernest Walters
Lutherville, Maryland

"I have tried other brands of cigarettes and have the almost full packs in my cabinet to prove it. MERIT is the first different brand I have liked and the tar and nicotine level is hard to believe."

—Ms. Mary A. Shufon
Troy, New York

"Your new MERIT cigarettes are great. I have tried every low tar and nicotine brand on the market and have finally found one that truly tastes like a smoke should."

—Phil Hill
Kirkland, Washington

"I don't know how you got so much flavor into only 9 mg. of 'tar,' but I'm quite grateful you did."

—Molly Forde
San Rafael, California

"MERIT has a rich and satisfying flavor. Money could not get me to smoke another brand."

—Johnny Leach
Lily, Kentucky

"Smoking MERIT is a pleasure. This cigarette has got what we've all been looking for."

—Edward Levinson
Columbus, Ohio

"MERIT surely is everything you say it is, right down to the taste. I can have low tar and nicotine and pleasure too."

—Miss T. M. Fredericks
St. Louis, Missouri

"I have tried all the low tar cigarettes and I believe if they had a horse race for low tar cigarettes, MERIT would win by several lengths!"

—Ms. Victoria M. Lowry
Provo, Utah

"I was amazed! I can't believe that a low tar and nicotine cigarette can taste so good."

—J. Thomas Ellicott, Jr.
North Palm Beach, Florida

"I couldn't believe how good they taste and how low they are in tar and nicotine."

—Ms. Roselyn Hall
Minneapolis, Minnesota

"My husband and I tried switching to a brand lower in tar. Neither one of us could. Then we tried MERIT. We really like them and have been smoking them ever since."

—Mrs. Barry Brandon
Whitehall, Pennsylvania

"I have just discovered your new cigarette, 'MERIT', and am delighted!"

—Vera Spillane
Brooklyn, New York

"Man, was I surprised. This cigarette has taste. Your advertisements really mean what they say.... Thanks for doing the impossible."

—John E. Ehrenberg
Suitland, Maryland

"The very first pack of MERIT Menthol did it. I was immediately impressed with the taste."

—Raymond T. Abdoo
Suffield, Ohio

"I've always changed from brand to brand until I found your new Merit, and I really love it."

—Latu Popi Mafileó

85 Valley precincts are equipped to accommodate wheelchair voters

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Eighty-five of the 185 voting precincts on the Los Angeles County side of the valley will be equipped with wider booths to accommodate wheelchair-bound voters, Supervisor Peter Schabarum announced today.

The booths, first used at 500 polling places throughout the county in the June 8 primaries, are wider than the ones now in use everywhere else, he said.

They have adjustable shelves on which the vote recorders are housed and have enough space at the bottom to serve as footrests for the wheelchairs.

Thirty-two of the special booths are being installed in Pomona for next Tuesday's elections. In Claremont, 21 precincts will be equipped, while 13 precincts in San Dimas, nine in La Verne, six in Diamond bar and four in Walnut will have the special accommodations.

Schabarum said the installation of the special booths is part of the county's ongoing program of making active participation in the voting process as conveninet as possible for handicapped persons.

The supervisor also called attention to a new state law which permits precinct officers to take voting materials outside polling places so that handicapped voters can cast their ballots more easily. This is reserved for polling places where there is no easy access to the booths.

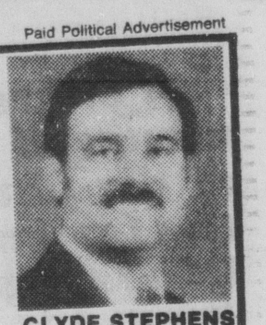

Polling place notification sheets sent to all voters earlier this month indicate whether their precincts have the wider booths. Those which do carry the international symbol of accessibility — a figure in a wheelchair — with the notation of "yes."

Those who want to check further may call their own city halls or the office of the county registrar-recorder, (213) 974-6707.

Scientists find long-lost Egyptian queen mummy

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Matching hair samples and X rays, scientists have found the long-lost mummy of King Tut's grandmother, Queen Tiye, one of ancient Egypt's most prominent royal personages.

An international team of scientists made the announcement Wednesday at the University of Michigan, describing at a news conference how they had identified a previously unnamed mummy as the lost queen.

Dr. James E. Harris, who headed the team, said the discovery was confirmed when electron probe analysis showed that a snip of the mummy's hair matched a lock of hair preserved 3,500 years in a miniature gold casket with Queen Tiye's name on it.

The minicasket was found in the tomb of her grandson, King Tutankhamen, which was opened in 1922.

Further confirmation of the queen's identity came by applying computer technology to profile X rays of the mummy's skull and comparing it with other royal mummies, Harris said.

What's going on in the Valley

A photographer from Riverside will be guest at Pomona Valley Camera Club Thursday 7:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church Pomona.

Patrick B. Cooney will present two color slide programs "Canyonland" and "How to Make Titles for Travelogue."

Cooney, exhibitor, lecturer and naturalist photographer specializes in photographing birds and insects.

He has served two terms as president of the Victoria Camera Club of Riverside and vice president and president of the Wind and Sun Council.

As a public service, the Pomona Valley Camera Club is offering slide programs free of charge to rest homes, senior citizens clubs as well to other organizations. The members of the club will put on the programs. For details, phone 628-3348.

New FMC sweeper

A new filtered air sweeper, the Wayne Model 72 has been introduced by FMC's sweeper plant in Pomona. The sweeper is a self-contained filtered air sweeper which mounts on a standard pickup truck chassis. An auxiliary power module positioned directly behind the pickup cab, powers the totally independent sweeping system.

It sweeps with high velocity air to clean streets, parking lots, aircraft ramps, industrial plant roads or any large paved surface. It keeps areas clean of general litter, including dust, dirt, small rocks, cans and bottles. The exclusive air control and filtering system are designed so no water is required to sweep virtually dust-free.

Sailing class starts

The La Verne Recreation Department will be offering a course in navigation starting Nov. 9.

The classes are held each Tuesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the conference room above the police station. The fee is $7 for eight lessons for persons 12 years old and older.

Registration is being accepted at the La Verne recreation office, 2039 Third Street, La Verne. This program is in cooperation with the U.S. Coast Guard. All registration must be made and paid prior to the start of the class.

Radio classes

A class leading to an amateur radio license will be held Wednesday nights at the Heathkit building, 1555 N. Orange Grove Ave., Pomona, beginning Jan. 5. Sessions will start at 7 p.m.

Persons who complete the 10 week course will be awarded the novice license, allowing them to communicate with other operators across the street or around the world. Nearly 300,000 persons in the U.S. are licensed amateurs.

The sign up session is Wednesday. For further information, contact Ray Shannon, 750 W. Bonita, Claremont, 91711, telephone 621-1966.

Special conference

A special conference for parents, teachers, nurses and others who deal with asthmatic children has been scheduled Nov. 9, at the City of Hope Medical Center Duarte, by the Lung Association of Los Angeles -County, the Christmas Seal agency.

Speaker at the 7:30 p.m. event will be pediatric allergist Dr. Roger M. Katz, according to Lung Association San Gabriel-Pomona Valley Regional council chairman Mrs. Jerry Welker of Azusa.

The conference is free to the public.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Christmas Seal office at 332-3442.

Upland slide show

"Canada East" is the title of a slide show tour to be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Willis Fackler Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the mulitpurpose room of Upland Public Library.

The public is welcome to the free show.

Mr. and Mrs. Fackler are a photographic team who like to share their researched travels through slides and movies. They are members of the Los Angeles 8mm Movie Club, the Los Angeles Cinema Club, the Pomona Valley Camera Club and the Euclid Avenue Camera Club.

Their slide show is presented with taped narration and appropriate music.

New hospital board

Charles R. Cook of West Covina, president of the C.R. Ford Tractors, Baldwin Park, has been elected president of the Covina Inter-Community Hospital board of trustees.

Cook replaces Gale O. Stafford who served as president this past year.

Other officers elected by the board were Rodney A. Baker, West Covina, vice president, and John R. Runmey, Baldwin Park, treasurer. Also elected to the executive board was William C. Leech, Covina. Dr. Mayer Blatt, president of the medical staff, will serve on the executive board as well as John D. Williams, hospital administrator, who serves as secretary.

New members to the board include Anthony La Fetra, Glendora; James R. Mulligan, City of Industry; Dr. Miguel A. Garcia and Dr. Jay I. Mulder, Covina; Mrs. Russell Teall, West Covina, past president of the auxiliary, and Fredric R. Kutner, Covina, president-elect of the medical staff.

Continuing board members are Mrs. Norman Keidel, William L. McIntyre Jr., and Dr. Charles W. Higgins immediate past president of the medical staff, all of Covina; Leo C. Nasser, Azusa; Dr. Donald S. Auten, San Dimas; Alfred Munoz, Hacienda Heights; and M.J. (Mel) Young, West Covina.

Thieves take 2 submachine guns

BERLIN (AP) — Thieves stole two police submachine guns from a locked weapons case built into a locked patrol car inside a locked precinct parking lot, West Berlin police said Monday.

They said the unknown robbers also got away with eight clips of ammunition loaded with a total of 200 rounds.

"Nothing else was stolen," a spokesman declared, adding it appeared the thieves specifically sought to steal the two rapid firing guns.

The patrol car was left parked Sunday night in the police lot in a quiet residential district. The robbery occurred while the two officers assigned to the car were inside the precinct house on a break, police said.

Officials said they suspect two persons were involved in the theft and that the thieves apparently climbed over a fence to get at the car and the weapons left locked up inside.

Shays rebel

Capt. Daniel Shays led an unsuccessful insurrection against Massachusetts because of economic conditions in 1786.

PITCHING IN — President Armen Sarafian of La Verne College pitches in to spruce up the campus during an all-day clean-up campaign. The college president felt that the grounds and buildings needed some renovation so he called off all classes for one day and the entire faculty and student body took up rakes, shovels and paint brushes to give the campus a new look.

Drinking hazardous to hearing

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Warning: a University of Utah professor of audiology has determined that drinking may be hazardous to your ears.

Martin Robinette said results of a six-week study he conducted at Wayne State University show the stapedius muscle of the middle ear, which normally contracts to protect the eardrum from loud noises, doesn't operate as well when a person is tipsy.

In the sessions of the study where alcohol was used, subjects suffered a greater amount of temporary damage to hearing ability, Robinette said.

The tests showed, he said, "a person has a greater risk of hearing loss from noise when there is alcohol in the system."

NATIONALLY KNOWN
SPEED READING COURSE
TO BE TAUGHT HERE IN POMONA ONTARIO AREA

POMONA ONTARIO AREA — (Spec.) Golden State Reading Lab will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the Pomona Ontario area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States.

Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks, but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life.

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's, or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's ever-changing, accelerating world, then this course is an absolute necessity.

In a few months, some students are reading 20-30 times faster, attaining speeds that approach 6000 words per minute.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the courses with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For thos who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.

These free meetings will be held at the following times and locations:

Seminar 'toughens' seniors

SEATTLE (AP) — Senior citizens are more than "no-deposit no-return bottles you just throw away," says a retired union organizer who's helping the elderly form a statewide lobby to make demands on the legislature.

"It's a sign of the times: Senior citizens aren't about to crawl away and die," said 55year-old Norm Schut in an interview.

"It's the same way the kids got together in Detroit and formed gangs," said retired teacher Frances Mayhew, a trainee in Schut's tough, practical school. "It's getting together with your own kind to meet your own needs."

Schut is teaching 10 seminars around the state this fall for representatives of senior citizen groups and retiree organizations.

He plans to form a statewide coordinating council — a unified voice to take on the 1977 legislature. It also will keep records of legislative voting and attempt to influence 1978 elections.

The council will ask the legislature to provide state aid for local programs for the elderly, including hot meals and health care, tax breaks, cost-of-living increases for retirees, subsidized housing and cheap transportation.

"We've been accepting inferiority and are no longer willing to accept that status," said Oscar Hearde, a member of the state Elder Citizens Coalition board.

Another trainee of Schut's is a woman who's looking for a cheaper apartment for an elderly friend on a fixed income.

"She's one reason I'm glad I'm learning this whole process," the trainee said. "In the past, it's been pretty much a big mystery. I'm learning you can't stand alone. We've got to work together."

Schut said that "like it or not, we have a government of pressure groups. If you want to achieve the goals of any cause, you need to successfully 'work' the political process as a pressure group."

State sets record straight on minimum wage, overtime

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State officials, saying there's confusion about the new $2.50 minimum wage and other new work orders, have issued a compilation of court actions — just to keep the record straight.

Donald Vial, state director of industrial relations, issued a statement Wednesday saying the average employer who wants to live up to his legal obligations is being confused by the court challenges of a few employer organizations.

State Labor Commissioner James L. Quillin said cases have been filed in six counties.

The superior courts in five counties have issued temporary stays, Quillin said. One of those, in Kings County, temporarily stayed enforcement of all provisions — including the minimum wage — in the transportation industry and the amusement and recreation industry.

But Quillin said otherwise, the $2.50 minimum wage and time-and-a half after 40 hours a week are being enforced for all industries and occupational groups.

The other four actions, which stayed only certain work rules in other industries, were described as follows:

—Orange County Superior Court temporarily stayed enforcement of nearly all provisions — except the $2.50 minimum wage and overtime pay after 40 hours a week — for these industries: Manufacturing; canning, freezing, and preserving; professional, technical, clerical, mechanical, and similar occupations; and industries handling products after harvest.

—Kern County Superior Court temporarily stayed enforcement of overtime provisions for industries handling products after harvest, for industries preparing agricultural products for market on the farm, and for agricultural occupations.

—San Francisco County Superior Court accepted a petition to stay enforcement of the section setting meal and lodging values in the state Industrial Welfare Commission's order for the public housekeeping industry, which includes restaurants and hotels.

—Monterey County Superior Court temporarily stayed provisions of commission orders applying to lettuce-wrapping machines operated by one employer.

Senior senator has doubts about surviving election

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "I suppose," says embattled U.S. Sen. Vance Hartke, "that in the realm of politics there are the winners, there are the losers and then there are those of us they call the survivors. I'm probably one of them."

It wasn't always that way for the 57-year-old Democratic incumbent.

Hartke was elected to the Senate in 1958 when he defeated Gov. Harold Handley by 242,000 votes. Six years later, he was re-elected by a healthy margin of 186,000 votes.

But in 1970, Hartke squeaked by Richard Roudebush by less than 5,000 votes and, this year, in his bid for a fourth term, the incumbent is considered an underdog against former Indianapolis Mayor Richard G. Lugar.

Hartke is known for his aggressive political style, one that includes numerous, sharp accusations against adversaries. This year, Hartke has also alluded to his precarious political position and, on occasion, even talked of past errors.

Winding up his presentation at a recent joint appearance with Lugar, Hartke said, for example: "I've been here a long time. I've made mistakes."

And then there is the Hartke radio spot that contains this section:

Announcer: "Ever hear (someone say) Vance Hartke's abrasive? (Pause). Sure. He's got to be. He's tough..."

If Hartke is tough, so are the political problems he faces.

Last January, the Congressional Quarterly linked Hartke's past political success to "good timing" and listed him as "vulnerable" to defeat.

The nonpartisan publication said Hartke's re-election in 1970 was a function of Roudebush's ineffective campaign and added: "For the 1976 election, it is questionable whether Hartke has built up his political strength. Several Indiana sources think he is weaker than ever."

Of Lugar, the publication concluded: "Lugar's reputation as 'Richard Nixon's favorite mayor' was a major drawback in his race in 1974 against (Sen. Birch) Bayh.

Can a man no longer trusted by the Co-Chairman of his National Steering Committee be trusted by you?

California State Finance Chairman Herb Hafif escorts Carter throughout the crowd on the night of the largest single fund-raiser of the Carter campaign.

A personal warning about Jimmy Carter

By Herbert Hafif

(The former California State Finance Chairman and Co-Chairman of the CARTER NATIONAL STEERING COMMITTEE)

Man's hardest act is to admit his mistakes. It is thus even harder for the Co-Chairman of the Carter National Steering Committee to publicly admit his mistaken support of Jimmy Carter.

I, together with so many of the friends who supported my 1974 campaign for the Democratic California Gubernatorial nomination, gave up our personal lives, our funds, and a good deal of our hearts in a successful effort to get the Democratic Presidential nomination for a man we believed represented a decent new force in responsive government.

Our support was strong enough not to note the mounting evidence that the Carter record and the promises did not quite match the image. We blindly ignored the revelations of Stephen Brill in Harpers, on Carter's traits of ruthlessness and the racist nature of the Georgian's 1970 gubernatorial campaign. Even when fellow Georgian Julian Bond publicly and often said our Jimmy lied, we plowed forward.

We disregarded exposure of the Carter record in Georgia where state employees rose 30% and spending rose over 50% in a single term. And when the editor of the Atlanta Constitution called our Jimmy "one of the four phoniest men I've ever known," we were already too deeply involved in our effort to believe.

We at the top, after all, were being personally reassured by the candidate himself who spoke publicly of never lying, who promised to conduct a campaign of love and compassion.

It was thus a greater shock for us to finally see a slipping Jimmy Carter become a mean, vindictive man, using language and tactics designed to destroy the integrity and person of Gerald Ford, when attacking Ford's policies should have provided target enough.

But lost in the disgust over such tactics lies the real truth about Jimmy Carter, and his campaign, a truth that I now feel compelled to speak to, and that is the real purpose of this open letter.

It is painful to spend over $8,000 of my personal funds to confess publicly, and in print, that I was wrong, but I keep thinking that if only one of the high-ranking Republicans who knew what Richard Nixon was really like, had sacrificed their personal advantage and party loyalty, the rest of us might have been spared the taint of the Nixon presidency.

I am a Democrat, and I would like to see a Democratic President, but I am now convinced that it would be a disaster if that Democratic President was Jimmy Carter. The reason of course, is not because he has promised all things to all people, nor is it because I witnessed such things as his private scheming to get farmers' money in California during the primary, only to see his change of position to get the farm worker vote after the primary, but rather the reason is because of one very important fact that most have ignored — independent of character flaws, the man is simply not capable by experience or ability to be President of this country.

Perhaps we have become conditioned to deviousness and deceit in politicians. Perhaps we can now swallow lustful ambition for public office. Perhaps we can pragmatically countenance a hypocritical man who would be our "saviour," when all we are looking for is a President, but can we accept the fact that this man and his small Nixon-like crew have neither the knowledge nor the background to run a broad-based, responsible presidency?

It will not be the Democratic party which runs this country, but rather a small clique of people, even more narrowly motivated and far less experienced than the Nixon crew. Hidden behind the smiles and hang-loose joking of the small Carter team is the fact that it is a team experienced only in campaigning with no higher goal, save getting their man the Presidency.

More even than Nixon, here is a man and organization that confuses dissent with disloyalty.

In response to private criticism of staff racism and intolerance, Carter's response is to get rid of the messengers whether they live in California or Ohio. It is no accident that what TIME'S Hugh Sidey called Carter's "seige mentality" on the press is also applied to members of the Democratic party. Everyone is an "outsider" to these people.

In the same way that Nixon ignored the Republican party, Carter has ignored the Democratic party. Good people like California Democratic officials Chuck Manat and Dick O'Neill are given titles but no delegated authority. It is no different for other outstanding Democratic leaders. A man who refuses to delegate even minor authority to good and honorable people, is a man who cannot run a country. Twenty-nine year old "old boys" from Georgia, jealously guarding the palace gates of power are more than reminiscent of Nixon's style, they constitute its substance.

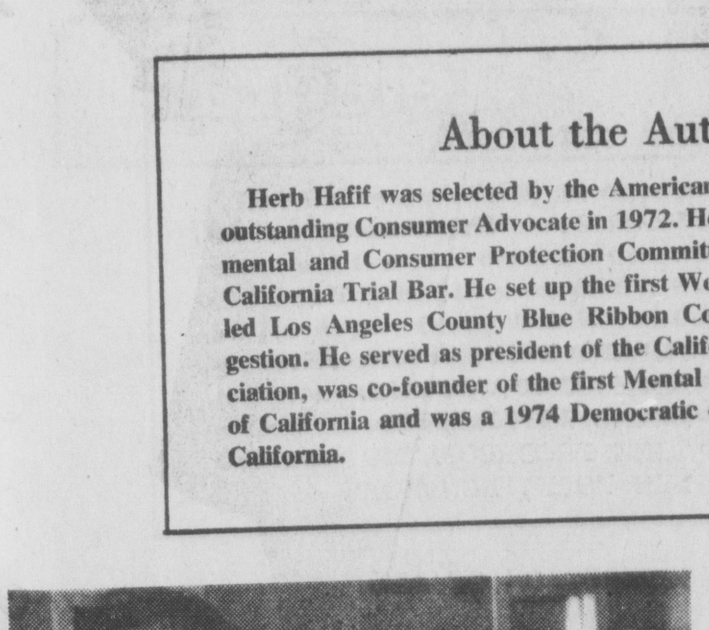

In short, this Country is not being asked to elect a Democratic president, but to elect another imperial president who will promise anything to get elected, but whose words stand in stark contrast to his records and actions.

This campaign threatens tragedy for the future of this country. I now join with such life-long Democrats as Mimi Harris, who was the chief fundraiser for Senator Cranston and Governor Pat Brown Sr,, in saying no to Jimmy Carter.

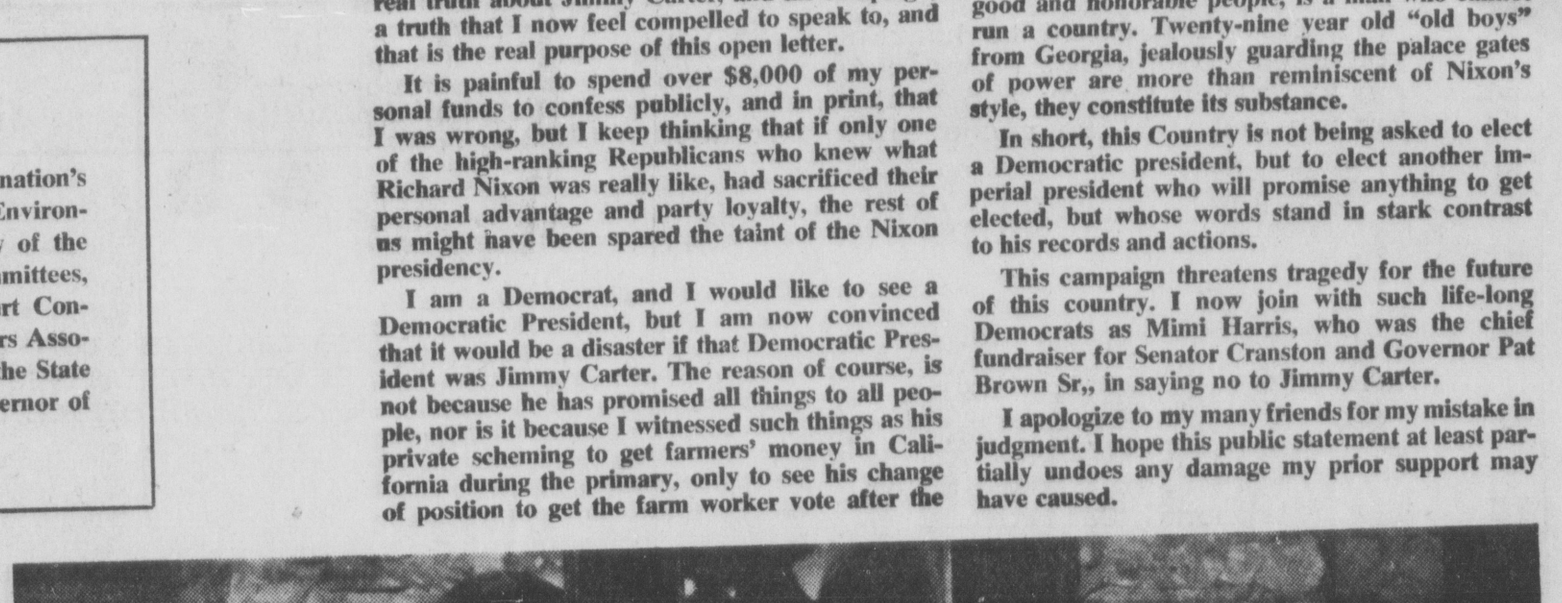

I apologize to my many friends for my mistake in judgment. I hope this public statement at least partially undoes any damage my prior support may have caused.

Herb Hafif was selected by the American Trial Bar as the nation's outstanding Consumer Advocate in 1972. He formed the first Environmental and Consumer Protection Committees in the history of the California Trial Bar. He set up the first Womens Rights Committees, led Los Angeles County Blue Ribbon Committees on Court Congestion. He served as president of the California Trial Lawyers Association, was co-founder of the first Mental Health groups in the State of California and was a 1974 Democratic candidate for Governor of California.

Herb Hafif and Rosalynn Carter complete a two-day campaign swing during the California primary.

Herb Hafif meets with a smiling Carter on the night Hafif and several key Carter supporters discuss the growing isolation of the candidate and disturbing hints of racism and disregard of minority positions in the Carter campaign. Smiles and compliments flow — Hafif promised a meeting with Hamilton Jordan to devise a more responsive national campaign structure for the general election — a promise to be broken within three days.

Brutocao Aide Charges Time Magazine Conspired to Break U.S. Election Law

By ROLLAND BARNES
Tribune Staff Writer

WEST COVINA — Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th, of West Covina, has admitted that members of his re-election committee violated a Time Magazine copyright by using the periodical's name and cover format on a Lloyd brochure.

The charge was made by Stan Harper, executive director of the (Louis) Brutocao for Congress Committee, in a letter to the Federal Elections Commission, in which he also charges Time violated federal election laws by allowing Lloyd to use the logo and format.

Big government, spending issues in 33rd district

Clawson cites bill on reform

DEL CLAWSON

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

"I want to return to Congress because I have a lot of unfinished business," said Rep. Del Clawson, R-33rd Congressional District, now seeking election to an eighth term in the House.

"Part of this unfinished business is our reform bill which will put Congress in a better position to control regulatory agencies which have been encroaching on private business. Businessmen are having a hard time complying with bureauracy of government.

"And, we need a whole new budget process. We've got to stop deficit spending or the United States could find itself in the same fiscal situation as New York City.

"If we continue these deficit spending programs, as laudable as they may be, we're going to find ourself bankrupt. The whole system could collapse.

"I want to see fiscal responsibility and a balanced budget.

"I'm also very concerned about our energy resources. We now are more dependent on foreign petroleum than ever before. We have failed to relieve domestic production from the rigid controls which keep them from exploring any resources we still may have in petroleum. Our whole economy is dependent on petroleum.

"If the foreign oil-producing countries should boycott us today our whole country would come to a standstill.

"We must develop new sources of power, including nuclear, solar and thermal. We need to use the coal available to us today. All of these things the federal government has a hand in today, and we need to use that hand in a productive way, rather than burden the private sector.

"We have already found a way to convert dirty coal into clean gas. We ought to be using every means at our command to do this. We have an almost 500-year supply of coal on hand now.

"And finally," said Clawson, "we need to get Congress and the executive branch of government streamlined and do away with all the duplication that is taking place, reduce the size of government.

"We cannot do that without a complete structural reform. This was tried three or four years ago and we failed to get it through Congress. We hope to accomplish this next session, with the help of our Democratic colleagues on the other side of the isle."

He was born in Thatcher, Ariz., on Jan. 11, 1914.

The 33rd Congressional District serves Diamond Bar, Walnut, Whittier, La Mirada, Norwalk, Santa Fe Springs and Downey.

There are 197,612 registered voters in the district of whom 53.9 per cent are Democrats and 40.6 per cent are Republicans.

Snyder calls for efficiency

"We need to make government more efficient," said Ted Snyder, Whittier Democrat seeking the 33rd Congressional District seat in Tuesday's election.

"Government has grown bigger, but not better. We need to begin toapply sound management techniques to achieve governmental efficiency.

"A part of achieving that efficiency includes the need to plan comprehensively on a long-range basis. This is a major thing in my campaign.

"I have said from the start that our real emphasis in this district will be the issue of the effectiveness of our representation in the House.

"My opponent has not served the interests of the kinds of communities we have in the 33rd District. Accountability ought to be one of the basics of our elective process in our democracy."

Snyder feels that jobs, taxes and inflation are issues the voters are most anxious about.

"Every citizen who wants to work should have the right to a job. We cannot tolerate nearly eight million Americans out of work," Snyder said.

"Unemployment costs more than we can afford to pay out in unemployment benefits, welfare, increased crime, human suffering and the destruction of American families.

"We must utilize the private sector as much as possible putting people back to work. But if necessary, government must support work that will benefit the nation.

"Taxes," said Snyder, "ought to be fair and equitable. They aren't today. Those who work for a living pay more than their share while those who make money because they have money pay too little.

"Plugging loopholes may help, but it won't solve the problem. I think we are going to have to do a major overhaul of the whole system."

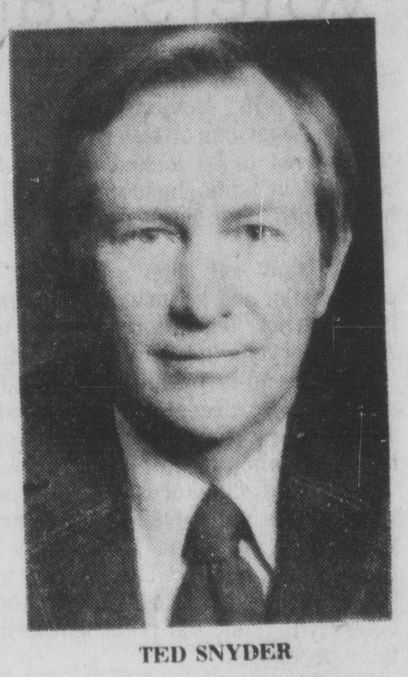

Snyder feels that inflation "hurts us all, but it is especially devastating to our senior citizens and others on fixed incomes. We must adopt strong and anti-inflationary measures in government and throughout our economy.

"Until we win the fight against inflation," he continued, "we must provide shelters from the ravages of inflation for those who now find that the savings of a lifetime are inadequate to meet their simple needs."

Because of the increasing crime rate, Snyder said, "predictions are that we soon must build more prisons. Vigorous law enforcement and swift justice are essential, but they are only a partial solution.

"We must attack crime on all fronts, including support for local law enforcement leaders who need help in maintaining programs of prevention."

Snyder is director of community and public relations at Rio Hondo College.

Source review rules

Air control hearing set Friday in Pomona

The Southern California Air Pollution Control District (SC-APCD) will hold a public hearing Friday in Pomona to take public testimony on a proposed set of "new source review rules" for the South Coast Air Basin.

The hearing will be held in Pomona City Council Chambers, 505 S. Garey Ave., beginning at 9 a.m.

The South Coast Air Basin encompasses Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

The hearing is being held despite the fact that the California Air Resources Board (CARD) already has adopted air pollution rules for the South Coast Air Basin. This action followed a public hearing by that body on Oct. 8 in Los Angeles.

However, as explained by SC-APCD officials, after more than a year of meetings and hearings, it appears that SC-APCD authorities and representatives of business and labor have drafted a set of regulations that are acceptable to all factions.

"Everyone agrees that it would be infinitely more desirable for rules to be drafted and adopted locally rather than being imposed on the area by a statewide agency," the SC-APCD spokesman said.

Nursing talk slated

"Nursing of the Dying Patient" will be discussed in three Monday seminars sponsored by the nursing inservice educatoin department and social service department at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The first meeting this evening will feature a talk by Paul Schurman, professor of pastoral counseling at the School of Theology in Claremont.

Other sessions are planned on Nov. 8 and 15. Topics to be covered include developing self awareness, meeting the patient's spiritual needs and techniques of communication.

LOSING HIS HEAD

The legendary Headless Horseman rode again on Halloween in Sleepy Hollow, Carbon Canyon, hurling his head (the jack-o'-lantern) at the terrified Ichabod Crane. The residents of the small community re-enact the famous scene from Washington Irving's "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" every Halloween.

For year of dragon

Valley Chinese slate court

Valley residents of Chinese descent will join their counterparts throughout the Southland Nov. 5 to present the first Asian headdress ball — the Emperor's Court — at the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles.

The event is jointly sponsored by the San Gabriel-Pomona Valley Chinese Cultural Association, and the Orange County Chinese Cultural Club.

Elaborate headdress creations by prominent Southern California floral and fashion designers will highlight the evening's festivities.

Focal point of the stage will be an authentic emperor's throne, being constructed under the direction of Richard Pettersen, director emeritus of the Clark Museum at Scripps College in Claremont.

Mrs. Lawrence Lau of Walnut and Mrs. Lock Gee Ding of Newport Beach are coordinators of the event.

To note the Year of the Dragon, the San Gabriel Valley association's dragon will make an appearance at the emperor's court.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the cultural and youth work of the sponsoring organizations as well as the newly organized Chinatown Senior Citizens Service Center in Los Angeles.

Reservations for the headdress ball close Oct. 27. Those who want more information may telephone 595-8920.

For gas company

Crawford named Pomona manager

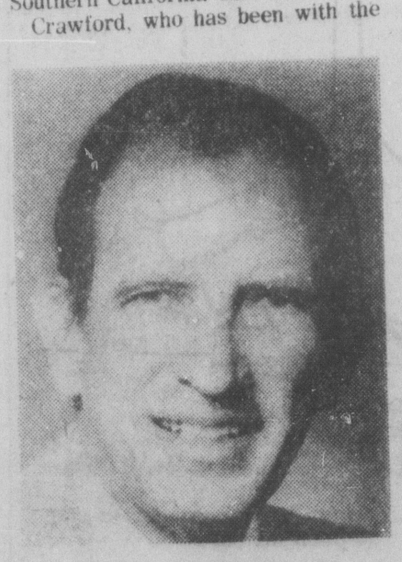

Don Crawford has been named Pomona area district manager for Southern California Gas Co.

Crawford, who has been with the company for 25 years, replaces Ben Wilson who has taken a position as retirement benefits counsel at the utility's Los Angeles headquarters.

Wilson had been a district manager in the valley for five years and is immediate past president of the Pomona Rotary Club.

Crawford will have his office at the division's headquarters at 196 E. Third St., Pomona, will be responsible for the cities of Pomona, Ontario, Chino, Montclair, La Verne and Claremont.

Prior to this assignment, he was appointed district manager in the division's San Bernardino office in March, 1975. Crawford's gas company career has centered in the Inland area. He has both field and office experience in customer services.

A place where voters care

There is one place where voter apathy will not be a problem on election day.

At 2:00 p.m., November 2, almost half the three million American citizens of Puerto Rico will allow themselves to be locked in school classrooms or confined in tents. Inside, they will wait up to two hours until their names are called in alphabetical order.

Then they will sign a register, receive a long paper ballot and go inside a curtained booth to vote for governor, legislators, mayors and councilmen. After everyone has voted, they will be free to go.

There is no law that says Puerto Ricans have to vote this way, except the law of custom. The unique balloting procedure has long been a tradition on the island commonwealth.

Wholesale disinterest in the political process simply does not exist among Puerto Ricans. This year, even as some forecasters predict that a minority of eligible U.S. voters will turn out on November 2, over 80 per cent of Puerto Rican voters will visit the polls, gathering en masse in their precincts.

This kind of turnout is not considered unusual, since fully 95 per cent of voting age citizens in Puerto Rico are registered to vote. This is almost as high as Australia, where although there is a fine for not registering to vote, registration has never exceeded 96 per cent.

There are other signs that participatory democracy is alive and well in Puerto Rico. Each of the four political parties has its own flag, and during the election campaign the party flags snap and flutter over nearly every house and alongside every roadside. Night rallies are well-attended events.

Yet with all their political enthusiasm, Puerto Rican voters have shown themselves to be somewhat conservative. Extremist actions by the New York-center FALN (nationalists) have been universally repudiated on the island itself. the vast majority favors continued close relations with the United States, either through statehood or the present commonwealth association.

Now if only we could import some of that Puerto Rican political enthusiasm to the mainland.

Gross neglect in the air

Under the law, a corporation is considered to be a "person," with many of the attributes, rights and duties of a natural person. But nobody has ever indicted a corporation for murder.

Murder may be too strong a word to describe the crash of a Turkish DC-10 jumbo jet near Paris in March 1974, history's worst air disaster in which 346 people died. It was more a matter of involuntary manslaughter, with contributory negligence on the part of executives in two corporations, McDonnell - Douglas and its subcontractor, the Convair Division of General Dynamics, as well as the Federal Aviation Administration.

As was brought out in congressional hearings in 1974, and as a new book — "Destination Disaster" — by a London Sunday Times investigative team has just recounted in dramatic detail, the designers and builders of the DC-10 had abundant forewarning of the crash.

As early as 1969, engineers were concerned that the plane's cargo door could blow out at high altitudes. This actually happened during a pressure test on the ground in 1970.

In June 1972, in a dress rehearsal of the Paris crash, the door on a DC-10 blew out over Windsor, Ontario. Fortunately, the plane's control cables were not severed, as was to be the case with the Turkish airliner, and the pilots were able to land the plane safely.

Despite this, under a "gentleman's agreement" with McDonnell - Douglas, the FAA did not issue a mandatory directive to correct the flaw.

At least 346 people paid with their lives for the FAA's gross neglect of its duty, and the unwillingness or inability of two corporations to face up to their responsibility to the public.

But economic pressures were substantial, say the authors. Design changes would have cost time and money and the DC-10 was a late comer in the competition with other jumbo jets.

And after all, a corporation is not really a person. Responsibility is diluted, the buck gets passed and it is all too easy to rationalize away engineering data in the face of market "realities."

Yet as one of the authors has stated, the fact that decent men could have made the decisions which made the disaster inevitable, or have failed to make the decisions which could have prevented it, is more disturbing than if it had been deliberately planned by evil men.

Since the 1974 tragedy, the DC-10's cargo door has been redesigned and all jumbo jets under U.S. control must be modified by the end of 1978 so that their control cables will not be damaged by an explosive decompression.

It can only be hoped that all those who were directly or indirectly involved in the disaster have also made some corrective modifications, beginning with their consciences.

Defends UC system

As director of the California Postsecondary Education Commission, I must take exception to Earl Waters' recent column on "UC's annual cost set at $18,000 per student."

Mr. Waters derived his startling cost per student figure by dividing the University's proposed budget of $2.2 billion by a projected enrollment of 120,000 students. The State of California is being asked to provide about one-third ($722.7 million) of the total, with the rest to come from federal funds, student fees, research contracts, and gifts and endowments.

While his arithmetic is correct, Mr. Waters' conclusion is highly misleading. What he fails to note is that only about 25 per cent of the total University budget will be used for instruction. Of that amount, over 65 per cent will go to meet the cost of graduate and health science instruction. These are high-cost programs, not just in California but in every other state. They are also the programs that supply the physicians, pharmacists, research scientists, and scholars essential to the continued functioning of our society.

It is undergraduate students, however, who make up the bulk of the University's enrollment. What is the cost to the state for their instruction? For next year, it will be around $2,200 per student. which is lower than the same cost for taxpayers in Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Georgia, Iowa, Texas, and Washington, among other states. Last year, in fact, California ranked twenty-fifth among all states in its per student support of higher education.

In addition to supporting the cost of instruction, the State also provides approximately $100 per student for campus health care, counseling and career guidance, cultural programs, and related student services.

While teaching is a primary mission of the University, it also serves Californians through its research activities in health, agriculture, marine sciences, and a host of academic fields. We can be sure that the $57.6 million the University is requesting for research next year will benefit all of us many times over.

The University's third primary mission is public service, which ranges from campus arts and lecture series to community service programs to cooperative extension, which includes our old friend, "ag extension." The State is being asked to contribute $17.6 million in support of these programs, or about 80 cents per Californian. A substantial part of the University's total budget is devoted to campus and research libraries, health clinics, and its five teaching hospitals. The State provides about one-seventh of that amount each year. The benefits both to students and the public are obvious.

Finally, the State supports the University's "housekeeping" activities — campus police, building maintenance, accounting services, utilities, and any number of other "noneducational" but essential services. The remaining two-thirds of the University's 1977-78 budget (2 out of every 3 dollars) will come from a variety of non-State sources, as I indicated earlier. Federal funds will account for some $800 million, most of which will be in the form of contracts and grants for specified governmental research, with a small percentage also going to student financial aid.

Gifts and endowments will provide another $54.1 million, primarily for student financial aid and University research. While Mr. Waters cites the "nearly $1 billion of endowment funds held by UC in investments," the current market value actually is only about $350 million.

Students themselves will contribute almost $131 million in fees to support financial aid programs, various student services, and the operation of the University. Patient fees from the University's hospitals and clinics will yield about $281.6 million, and fees from "auxiliary enterprises" such as dormitories and parking will amount to some $70 million.

This is by no means an exhaustive analysis of the University's proposed budget; that process will take place during the coming months as the Legislature and the Governor scrutinize, in the minutest detail, every aspect of the University's request for State funds. To me, however, it indicates clearly that the University is not, as Mr. Waters appears to imply, a financial millstone around the neck of the California taxpayer.

By focusing solely on the dollars in the University's proposed budget, Mr. Waters does a disservice to both his readers and to what is universally recognized as the world's finest system of public higher education. Over the years, our citizens have made an enormous financial and personal investment in the University of California; in turn, they and their children have been more than generously rewarded through outstanding teaching, research, and public service.

Neither space nor logic allow me to respond to Mr. Waters' "bargain education" plan, under which we would abolish the University of California and use the supposed "savings" to provide displaced students with tuition grants to other institutions, including those in other states. I assume Mr. Waters was merely indulging his sense of humor.

Will Coke or Pepsi win?

WASHINGTON — The voting on Tuesday will settle not only whether Gerald Ford or Jimmy Carter will occupy the White House but whether Pepsi Cola or Coca Cola will be the most favored beverage for the next four years.

Not that the election will change the drinking habits of many Americans. But it could determine whether the Russians must continue to satisfy their cola thirst with Pepsis or whether they will be given a chance to try Cokes.

There is even a tantalizing possibility that 800 million Chinese may start guzzling the cola with the right political connections. The cola habit might also spread to Cuba in the event of an accommodation with Fidel Castro.

Pepsi's Donald Kendall has had special entree to the White House during the Republican occupancy. He had the foresight in the 1960s to help set up Richard Nixon in a lucrative law practice in New York City.

After Nixon became President, he returned the favor by appointing Kendall as the top American on the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council — a position Kendall used to introduce Pepsis to Russia. He pushed Pepsis so aggressively, in fact, that it antagonized members of Henry Kissinger's staff.

They drafted a bitter memo and circulated it privately within government circles. The memo charges that Kendall "exploited his friendship with Nixon to further his international business interests.

"One example of this exploitation is in the delicate, controversial area of U.S.-Soviet trade. Kendall used his friendship with Nixon to obtain the position of U.S. co-chairman of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council . . . It has become so much a personal tool of Kendall's that Department of Commerce people refer to it as Kendall's Council."

Despite this undercover opposition, Kendall managed to survive Watergate and to achieve a close relationship with President Ford.

Coke's John Paul Austin, on the other hand, has the inside track with Jimmy Carter. By accident of geography, Coca Cola headquarters happens to be located in Atlanta where Carter presided as governor.

It was Austin's pleasure to provide free Cokes for Carter's political barbecues, to help underwrite the governor's Prayer Breakfast and to host at least one luncheon for the visiting governor from Pernambuco.

Perhaps encouraged by Carter's improved political fortunes, Austin has made three trips to Russia to explain the capitalist principle of competition to the Soviets. They, in turn, have been mightily impressed by Coke's connections with Carter. They have questioned members of the Coke delegation closely about the enigmatic Carter.

Austin offered to provide Cokes for the 1980 Olympics in Moscow if the Soviets would open their country to competition between the two rival colas. This possibility brought Kendall on a flying trip to Russia a few weeks ago.

He played it cool. Afterward, the U.S. embassy reported to the State Dept.: "In call on Ambassador, Kendall mentioned that Coca Cola is seeking Soviet authorization to sell its product at 1980 Olympic Games and had already offered $10 million for such rights, as contrasted with $3 million offered in Montreal.

"He noted that Soviet authorization of sale by Coca Cola would apply only to Olympic Games," continued the confidential cable. "Kendall stated he was not disturbed by this development and was not interested in selling Pepsi Cola at the Olympics. He said that Pepsico was interested in maintaining its longterm position in the U.S.S.R. and felt confident that it would do so."

Kendall has a barter deal with the Soviets; he trades Pepsi Cola for vodka. The U.S. embassy offered the State Dept. this additional, confidential report:

"Kendall told us that present trends indicate volume of vodka imports into U.S. could support the early construction of a total of 25 Pepsi Cola bottling plants in the U.S.S.R. He said his longterm goal was 50 plants."

A Pepsi spokesman said the State Dept. cable was wrong; he said the company has no plans beyond constructing five Pepsi plants in the Soviet Union. He also disputed the derogatory State Dept. memo; he said Kendall had worked unselfishly for the best interests of the United States on the trade council.

A Coca Cola spokesman said either Kendall or the cable was wrong; he said the offer to provide Cokes for the Olympics was between $3 million and $5 million, not $10 million.

Meanwhile, Austin is trying to introduce "the real thing" to Russia and Kendall is trying to keep it out. This great cola battle may be decided, indirectly, by the voters on Tuesday.

Footnote: Both Kendall and Austin have made an exploratory trip to the Chinese mainland. Both came back convinced that China isn't yet ready for colas. But both men are eager to introduce their favorite beverage to China, perhaps on a limited basis at first as a refeshment for tourists.

Kendall is ahead of Austin, according to State Dept. sources, in the backstage maneuverings to follow up a possible detente with Cuba.

MONTOYA'S TAXES: We broke the story last March that the Internal Revenue Service had begun quiet audits of the tax returns of Sen. Joseph Montoya, D.-N.M., whose subcommittee oversees the Internal Revenue budget.

This is the first time Montoya's taxes have been thoroughly audited since 1950. During the intervening quarter century, he has become a millionaire.

An earlier move to audit the senator's finances was blocked by Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander. His agency has now notified Montoya of the results of the audits of his 1974 and 1975 tax returns. For 1974, Montoya will receive a refund of $112.05. His 1975 return was pronounced perfect — no money owed, none refunded.

Just in jest

In America there is no such thing as human failure. If all seems lost, one just consults his psychiatrist. In fact, psychiatric counseling is now even available for college students who can't make the grade.

But there are still some self reliant individuals left in the country who are able to overcome obstacles on their own. — When she was asked: "Doesn't it ever bother you to make a public spectacle of yourself?", the strip tease artist answered: "Well sometimes — but I just grin and bare it."

There's an old saying, "What goes up must come down." —But don't you believe it! There are certain individuals in this world who are constantly demonstrating that there is a way to repeal the law of gravity. And among the most adept at defying that law are politicians and the promoters of garage sales. Their signs go up but seldom, if ever, do they come down.

Abuse heaped on candidates

With the Ford Campaign — (NEA) — The 1976 presidential campaign began two years ago when a New Hampshire barber threw Jimmy Carter out of his shop for disturbing the customers. It ends now, symbolically at least, with a small man who carries a large poster which regards Jerry Ford as a "Murderer!" for reasons unspecified.

Politics makes strange hostilities. The candidates have experienced a mosaic of abuse that wilts the senses. We are grown used to seeing the twisted faces of the desperate, crying out the most vile hates. One recalls that two citizens were so offended at the incumbent last winter they tried to kill his chances by killing him.

Overall, perhaps, it has not been so bad as the 1960s, when audiences would chant filth at Hubert Humphrey until he left the stage. But at least there was merely a single rally for those critics, the war. This time around there are as many issues as there are zealots to exploit them. Candidate Carter, for instance, has received outlandish condemnations from pro-abortionists, anti-abortionists and homosexuals who properly have no stake in the subject one way or another.

Time was when such degradation could be handled by politicians. Without mass media exposure a candidate might squelch abuse without appearing abusive himself. One recalls the story of the candidate for Congress, I've misplaced his name, who during a speech was interrupted by a spectator who shouted "liar!" The candidate paused, looked around, and said: "If the gentleman would give us his name as well as his calling, we'd be happy to recognize him." The audience roared.

Today such valor is impractical. Some weeks ago Nelson Rockefeller gave the finger to a group of hecklers, and was immediately criticized for loss of control. Actually, according to Johnny Carson, the vice president was misinterpreted. The comic says what really happened was that the hecklers had asked Nelson how many billions he owned, and the good gentleman was merely replying in sign language.

At any rate, contemporary prudence insists that politicians under fire be passive. And so Mr. Ford smiles dumbly as he hears a woman in the crowd call his wife immoral. And Mr. Carter waves even when he passes a gaggle of yippies who advise him what to do with his peanuts. The Yippies, by the way, are the most practiced of agitators; it was they who first combined the "F" in Ford with the "arter" in Carter to advertise their position against the election of either.

Yippies notwithstanding, it is clear that the candidates have not usually received equal assailment. Of the pair, President Ford has been far more often the target. Mostly without foundation, I might add. He is called a stumbler, though in fact he is the most coordinated physical specimen to occupy the White House in memory; he is called an ignoramus, though he was high in his Yale law class. Never mind the facts, though, they merely get in the way of popular assault.

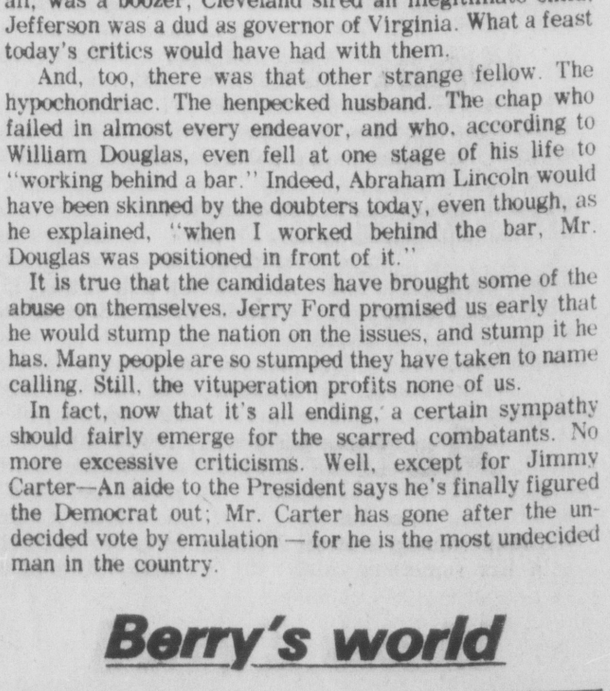

Listening to the noises, misinformed or not, the wonder is if anyone has ever been fit to be president. Grant, after all, was a boozer, Cleveland sired an illegitimate child, Jefferson was a dud as governor of Virginia. What a feast today's critics would have had with them.

And, too, there was that other strange fellow. The hypochondriac. The henpecked husband. The chap who failed in almost every endeavor, and who, according to William Douglas, even fell at one stage of his life to "working behind a bar." Indeed, Abraham Lincoln would have been skinned by the doubters today, even though, as he explained, "when I worked behind the bar, Mr. Douglas was positioned in front of it."

It is true that the candidates have brought some of the abuse on themselves. Jerry Ford promised us early that he would stump the nation on the issues, and stump it he has. Many people are so stumped they have taken to name calling. Still, the vituperation profits none of us.

In fact, now that it's all ending, a certain sympathy should fairly emerge for the scarred combatants. No more excessive criticisms. Well, except for Jimmy Carter—An aide to the President says he's finally figured the Democrat out; Mr. Carter has gone after the undecided vote by emulation — for he is the most undecided man in the country.

Ann Landers

Some couldn't care less

Dear Ann Landers: You settled an argument for us last year and it practically saved our marriage. Now, will you come to the rescue regarding a matter of lesser magnitude? We're fighting again.

My husband's favorite expression is, "I could care less." I say it should be "I COULDN'T care less." Who is right? — Waiting For The Verdict

Dear Waiting: You are. The Harper Dictionary of Contemporary Usage calls the increasing use of the expression "I could care less" an "ignorant debasement of the language." But I'll bet when you tell your husband, he'll say, "I could care less."

Dear Ann Landers: Dr. Thomas P. Johnson, a psychiatrist who works with the San Diego County Probation Department, wrote the following guidelines for parents. I hope you will print them in your column. Thanks, Ann. — A Parent Who Needs All The Help She Can Get

Dear Parent: Dr. Johnson's guidelines are well worth printing. I appreciate your sending them on.

1. Don't disapprove of what a child is — disapprove of what he does.
2. Give attention and praise for good behavior — not bad behavior.
3. Encourage and allow discussion, but remember it's the parents who should make the final decision.
4. Punishment should be swift, reasonable, related to the offense and absolutely certain to occur — it need not be severe.
5. Throw out all rules you are unwilling to enforce and be willing to change the rules if and when you think they need changing.
6. Don't lecture and don't warn — youngsters will remember what they think is important to remember.
7. Don't feel you have to justify rules, although you should try to explain them.
8. As your youngster grows older, many rules may be subject to discussion and compromise. The few rules you really feel strongly about should be enforced no matter what rules other parents have.
9. Allow a child to assume responsibility for his decisions as he shows the ability to do so.
10. Don't expect children to demonstrate more self-control than you do.
11. Be honest with your youngster — hypocrisy shows.
12. The most important factor in your youngster's self-image is what he thinks YOU think of him. His self-image is a major factor in how he conducts himself.

Dear Ann Landers: Is there homosexuality among animals? My friend says it isn't possible. She claims a homosexual gets twisted up at an early age because of the way he relates to his mother or father — or because one was absent or rejected him.

I say she is wrong, basing my judgment strictly on what I've seen.

Please settle this in the paper. If you wrote me a letter she would swear it was a put-up job. Thanks. — Bermuda Fan

Dear Berm: There is indeed homosexuality in the animal kingdom. Anyone who has ever visited a zoo need only observe.

According to the experts, monkeys are the gayest animals of all.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Lovers lane established

The townspeople of Canvey Island, Essex, England, worried about the safety of their young girls who parked with their boyfriends in remote lovers' lanes. How could the little ladies save themselves, if their dates misbehaved overmuch, or if evil intruders showed up? So said citizens set aside right in the middle of town a landscaped parking area especially designated only for couples who want to engage in that felicitous pastime once known as necking.

Those clothing manufacturers who make a study of tape measurements say the average American woman in the last 30 years has grown one inch in all directions. Then, she was 34-25-36. Now, she is 35-26-37.

Why neither the newspaper reporter nor the professional waiter has a life expectancy as long as the average man I just don't know.

LOVE AND WAR

Q. "Ask your Love and War man what percentage of wives admit they were not able to marry their original choices for husbands."

A. He sadly reports that 68 per cent tell the surveytakers that. A high proportion, what? Should be noted, though, that many say they're glad they didn't make the mistake of marrying the primary selection. I gather the best husbands, like the best quarterbacks, are not always the first round picks.

Efforts go on to find appropriate officers for the "My Name is a Poem" Club. Do you approve of the nomination for Corresponding Secretary of Judy Moody of Omaha, Neb.? Personally, I'd prefer to vote for Jerry Berry of Walla Walla, Wash., because he has such a dandy return address.

ANATOMY

No doubt everybody knows the anatomy textbooks in medical schools use illustrations of nude bodies. But were you aware it has been only in recent years that the females have been so illustrated to any significant extent? Most of the patients who visit private practitioners are women and children. But for many a decade their doctors had learned anatomy from pictures of males.

A snake's egg goes right on growing up to as much as a third larger after it is laid . . . Not most but some botanists still contend all the flowers in the world are descended from the simple little buttercup . . . Between the day you were born and your sixth birthday, your brain tripled in size, if typical.

Had that musical giant of Italy called Guiseppe Verdi moved to this country, he most probably would have become known by the translation of his name — Joe Green.

Rapid reply: No, sir, it takes only 14 seconds for a chicken plucking machine to remove all the feathers.

Whomper loves to eat pumpkin

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our own personal pumpkin patch really came through for us. As a result, we've ended up with a pumpkin surplus. We've had lots of pies, of course, and also have used it as a vegetable dish. We've discovered that Whomper, our dog, really loves it. How much squash or pumpkin can you safely feed a dog? — F.F.

DEAR F.F.: Whomper, or rather his digestive tract, can most accurately provide that answer. Most foods foreign to his digestive system including most vegetables, would probably cause diarrhea if fed in large amounts, particularly if they were not introduced gradually into the diet. When used to it, Whomper could probably handle a substantial portion of pumpkin in his diet without ill effects, though this would certainly affect its nutritional balance. Unless your pumpkin pie were exceptionally large, it's likely Whomper could help you wade through it without significant long-term effects. Feeding any such unusual food over a prolonged period, however, could cause a significant nutritional deficiency unless highly sophisticated changes were made in the balance of his rations. Fortunately, the season for fresh pumpkins is short.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What's it like to raise a baby wolf as a pet? We've got room for a big pen in the back yard. — N.S.

DEAR N.S.: It's like a big mistake, for many reasons. First, the wolf is an endangered species which means you can't legally go out and pick one up as a pet. States (and municipalities) are increasingly restricting the keeping of even nonendangered wild species. In any event, raising a wolf cub as a potential pet is an almust impossible task requiring fulltime dedication and considerable expertise. A large pen in the back yard is not the answer for raising an intelligent species of domestic pet, let alone an extremely intelligent wild one.

DEAR DR. MILLER: No matter how much Little Red, my cat, licks that sore spot on her side, it never heals up. What can I do to help? — E.D.

DEAR E.D: You can lead Little Red in to her doctor for some specific help, including ways to discourage her foom from licking that area. The spines on a cat's tongue make it an efficient "brush" when it comes to grooming, but it's anything but soothing to an inflamed skin area. The tendency to clean a sensitive area is instinctive to a cat, but Little Red's rough tongue may actually be the reason that sore spot can't heal.

Don't monkey with earthquakes

Many years ago, as man measures time, I was awakened from a deep dream of peace by the sound of my little girl's rocking chair playing "Rocka-Bye Baby" in the nursery. The moppet sized chair had a music box under one of the rockers, and it would play that dreary jingle when rocked. "What in the hell," I muttered, groping bleary-eyed for the light, "is she doing up at this hour of the dawn?"

Then I suddenly realized that the whole house was shaking in a grisly gavotte, lamps wobbling, books falling off the shelves. It was an earthquake!

I was reminded of that nocturnal recital this week when Stanford University announced that its chimpanzees could predict earthquakes. In spite of your opinion of Stanford undergraduates, the scientists were talking about REAL chimpanzees.

Here's how Stanford works — if that's not too strong a word. They have a School of Medicine which has an outdoor primate facility, what else? ("Facility" does not mean "John." It's not a primate privy.) So a geophysicist gets curious about the chimps going ape at earthquake time, and they call in a biostatistician to check out the pre-rumble monkeying around. The reports are announced to a psychiatrist and a geophysicist from the U.S. Geological Survey. (Have I missed anyone? Any discipline gone unmentioned?)

Stanford is a super place for educating chimpanzees and for measuring earthquakes, since it is practically a-straddle the San Andreas Fault. It may be the first Pac-8 university to be swallowed whole.

Well sir, the biostatisticians, geophysicists and psychiatrists discovered that the day before some recent tremblors in the Palo Alto area, the primates spent a lot more time on the ground than was usual, and they became restless and irritable like the undergraduates of the 60s.

The point, if you're still awake, is that when the chimpanzees in your neighborhood start acting flakey, chances are that an earthquake is soon going to set your plates a-rattling, both those on your shelves and those in your mouth.

The aforementioned biostatistician, Helena C. Kraemer, said, "We believe we have the first scientific evidence that there are animal behavioral changes that precede earthquakes. But she didn't want observers to lay it all on her precious primates. Less expensive creatures like chickens and livestock should also be studied for erratic behavior just before the skyscrapers topple.

Taking a leaf from her book, if the copyright laws allow, I have taken to observing our family dog, a large shaggy creature whose mother clearly had more than a nodding acquaintance with a werewolf. Duffy — for it indeed he — is a friendly, absent-minded canine who doesn't know cats from dogs and who prefers lettuce to hamburger. He barks at elderly ladies and greets masked burglars like long-lost brothers.

Using Duffy as a seismograph is hopeless. He is an earthquake all by himself. When he scratches fleas, the whole house shakes. When he smells bacon frying, every lamp in the house wobbles as he comes crashing down the stairs. If an earthquake hit while he was chewing a beef bone, we wouldn't know it until we read about it in the paper the next day.

So I hope the Stanford scientists are successful in observing their chimpanzees for early earthquake warnings. Personally, I think it would be a lot more fun to observe the Stanford coeds. Forget the earthquakes.

Dr. Lamb

Heat may help leg cramps

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 63 years old. At night I have leg cramps. I was wondering what might cause this and if I can do anything to help. Sometimes I have to get up five to six times a night and walk. I am overweight and have your weight losing diet. I have lost 14 pounds but need to lose 20 more pounds.

DEAR READER — Leg cramps at night can often be helped by making extra efforts to keep the feet and legs warm. You can wear some warm heavy long socks to bed at night. The legs cool off faster than any other part of the body because they are farthest from the heart.

You should have an examination of your legs to see if you have a circulation problem. When the arteries to the leg become obstructed with fatty-cholesterol deposits the circulation can be seriously compromised. If that is the case and the condition is causing severe problems many people can get relief from surgery. A graft is put in to detour the blood around the local obstruction.

The catch is that the obstruction must be localized so it can actually be detoured. If the entire length of the artery is blocked like a dead end street, there are no normal open arteries to detour to.

Losing weight will help in most circulation problems if a person is overweight. Weight loss helps clean out obstructed arteries, lowers blood pressure and decreases the work the body must do with normal physical activity. Others who want the same diet you have lost weight with can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am presently confined in a penitentiary. My problem is that for the past three months I have had a very high pulse rate (100) and after heart tests and X rays the doctors say that my heart is not bad and to stop worrying about it. What I would like to know is why the sudden change after having a pulse rate of 72 for the past 30 years?

I have been wondering if it could be because of how extremely nervous and uptight I have been for the past three months. Please, I'm begging you to give me any information pertinent to this problem.

DEAR READER — I am glad you have had a good examination. That helps to rule out many problems that could cause an increase in heart rate.

Yes, real anxiety, which your letter suggests you have, can really cause the heart rate to increase suddenly. Many people with anxiety have fast heart rates when there is absolutely nothing wrong with the heart. Of course, the anxiety needs to be dealt with. Just knowing that and being reassured that your heart is O.K. may help some.

There are some other causes for fast heart rates that could apply to your condition. Smoking a lot of cigarettes will often increase the heart rate around 10 beats per minute. If you drink coffee or smoke I suggest you quit.

Also, lack of physical activity can lead to a progressively higher resting heart rate. Eliminating coffee and cigarettes as well as getting started on a good physical fitness program may help you a great deal.

Says who?

Robert Schuller

Faith may need 'deep feeding'

Sometime ago, a florist came to deliver some flowers to my home and noticed that one of our palm trees was turning yellow. "It needs deep feeding," he said, adding, "Take a long pipe, probe two feet into the ground so it penetrates all around the roots." He went on: "On the surface you might not see anything, but it will feed the undernourished roots. Dig a hole, put the hose all the way down there and very slowly let the water ooze out. Do this every day and you might save it." I did, and the tree is prospering today!

If you are missing joy in life you, too, may be emotionally or spiritually undernourished. The roots of your faith may need a "deep feeding" treatment. Perhaps your religious practices have been the "shallow sprinkler treatment." Try giving your life the vitalizing injection of deep prayer.

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

Oswald: "There's nothing in bridge ethics that requires declarer to look unhappy merely because he sees that his contract is not likely to make. Why tell your opponents anything they aren't entitled to know?"

Jim: "South wasn't at all happy with three notrump and felt that his partner should have bid three spades instead of raising to three notrump, but South didn't mention the matter at all. Instead he took the diamond and promptly led a club toward dummy. East ducked the first and second club leads, whereupon South went after spades and made his contract with four spades, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs."

Oswald: "If South had stopped to tell his partner that he did not like his bidding, East might well have grabbed the first or second club and defeated the three-notrump contract."

Jim: "Actually, a very alert East would have grabbed that second club and beaten three notrump. The fact that South said nothing and just went about his business left East in a slightly somnolent state from which he did not quite recover."

Oswald: "Indidentally, the four-spade contract is not all wine and roses. If West opens his singleton club, the defense can score two aces and two club ruffs and beat four spades."

Ask the Jacobys

We recently answered a question as to which side wins the rubber in a manner to confuse some readers.

The answer is that the side that wins two games is given a rubber bonus of 700 points for a two-game rubber or 500 points for a two-out-of-three game rubber, but if after adding that bonus to their other points they still have less points than their opponents, they have collected the bonus, but lost the rubber.

S. F. voters facing kaleidoscope ballot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Voters here face a traditional kaleidoscope ballot on Nov. 2, with 20 propositions offering diverse changes in city practices, including district election of supervisors, dismissal of striking city workers, and an almost perennial Yerba Buena City Center measure.

Prop. T, the only voter initiative on the ballot, is hailed by proponents as a means to insure city neighborhoods direct representation on the Board of Supervisors.

Opponents of the measure, which include ten of eleven incumbent supervisors, claim the measure would encourage ward politics.

Prop. B would require the dismissal of any city employe who takes part in a strike.

Supervisor Terry Francois said in support of the proposition, "I see no difference between prostitutes and city employes who violate another law — the one against striking."

Vincent Courtney, head of the 8,000-member Service Employes International Union, branded the supervisors' decision to place B and other propositions before voters "the biggest anti-labor event in local history."

Voters will also decide these ballot measures:

—Prop. A authorizes $240 million of Sewer Revenue Bonds for improvement of the municipal sewage treatment and disposal system in accordance with the city's Wastewater Management Plan.

—Prop. C provides for employe dismissal hearings now held by department heads to be convened by contracted hearing officers.

—Prop. D requires the Civil Service to poll salary scales in five neighboring counties and to set the city's prevailing wage rates in the middle range for each typical job.

—Prop. E requires the hiring officer to choose from the top three eligible employes applying for civil service positions. Currently the hiring officer must take the person highest on the list of eligibles.

THERE COMES A TIME WHEN THE MAN AND THE IDEA COME TOGETHER

Louis Brutocao, the son of Italian immigrant parents, has a special love for America. That's the reason he'll make a great United States Congressman!!

LOUIS BRUTOCAO believes that America will solve its' unemployment problem through the free enterprise system . . . not with useless federal projects that are only Band-aids on a serious problem. He advocates a tax credit to any small business who will hire the unemployment and keep that unemployed person on the payroll for one year.

LOUIS BRUTOCAO believes we are falling behind in global power and that the dictatorships of the world only understand strength and determination. For this reason Lou Brutocao feels our emphasis should be on national defense . . . our Navy must be strengthened . . . Foreign aid has failed because you don't buy friends.

LOUIS BRUTOCAO feels that if bureaucrats were going to solve our problems every problem we have would have been solved ten times over. He will be a strong voice for the self-reliance of people, less bureaucracy and domination by those impersonal "people" in Washington who think they know more about our personal and private lives than we do.

LOUIS BRUTOCAO believes that America will only survive with honesty at every level of government . . . he will fight corruption in the Congress whether it is in his party or the other party. He feels that public service must be a public trust . . . and that no Congressman deserves a raise until he lowers the taxes for Americans.

ON TUESDAY SEND LOUIS BRUTOCAO TO CONGRESS. WE NEED A CHANGE . . . WE NEED A STRONG REPRESENTATIVE IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Tryouts set for musical

Valley Community Theater will hold auditions for "South Pacific" at the theater, 132 E. Third St., Pomona, at 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

David Alexander will direct Rodgers and Hammerstein's Pulitzer Prize musical. A former resident of the San Francisco Bay area, Alexander attended the prestigious American Academy of Dramatic Arts, where he performed in "The Crucible," "Anything Goes," "Look Homeward, Angel" and "Twelve Angry Men." He has also directed "The Night of the Iguana" "This Property Is Condemned" and "Barefoot in the Park." This is his first play for VCT.

Auditioners are asked to bring their own sheet music. An accompanist will be provided.

Currently playing at VCT is "The Hot l Baltimore." The final performance is Nov. 20. Information and reservations can be obtained at 622-6954.

Costly color

In ancient Rome, Emperor Nero proclaimed that only he could wear a purple fabric colored with extracts from murex shellfish. Seafaring Phoenician merchants made the regal dye and grew rich selling purple wool for the equivalent of $150 a pound.

Institute planned by scouts

Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council headquartered in Pomona has announced a three-day institute for program and training personnel among councils from 10 western states and the islands of Samoa, Midway, Guam and Wake. The event will be held at Claremont Methodist Church Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The conference, "Towards Tomorrow's Program," will explore ways to expand programs for today's and tomorrow's girls. New materials and national trends are on the agenda as well as an in-depth session about scouting for the younger girl.

Mrs. Marguerite Thoreson, staff coordinator, and May Lou Salyer, volunteer director, have emphasized that the focus of the institute will be on the needs of program and training personnel.

Region 6 director, Girl Scouts of the U. S. A., and Judy Cook, program director for the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., are among consultants directing segments of the event.

Missionary League sets gathering

The St. Luke Women's Missionary League will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, at the church.

Devotions will be led by Mrs. John Morgan. A pre-Christmas craft workshop will be presented by Mrs. David Hendrickson. Hostesses for the event will be Mrs. Paul Gordon and Mrs. Inga Sullivan.

The league is also sponsoring the gathering of new and used toys for the Joe Brown Mission in Mexico. Anyone interested in contributing to the project may call the church office, 624-8898.

BPW plans dinner meet

The La Verne-San Dimas Business and Professional Women's Club members will gather for dinner at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, at Sir George's Restaurant in Pomona.

Williston Wirt of Pilgrim Place in Claremont will give a dramatic reading, "The Life of Governor Bradford." The delegates to the district conference in Anaheim will give their reports.

Woman Achievers to be feted Nov. 10

The Progress Bulletin Woman Achievers for 1976 will be honored at a luncheon at Orlando's Nov. 10 at noon.

The honorees, Mrs. Jan Ellison, Mrs. Mary Montes, Miss Estelle Nesbit and Mrs. Carol Smith, will be joined by their many friends at the luncheon.

Luncheon reservations may be made by calling the Family News department at the PB after 10 a.m. throughout this week.

Trophies will be presented to the winners, and guests will have an opportunity to meet the judges, Mrs. JoAnn Fitzgibbons, Mrs. Barbara De Voss, H. Gordan Wells, Dr. Armen Sarafian and Richard Gorow.

NEW SIGNS — Pomona city workers Dave Herrera, left, and Joe Orlando bolt the street signs for the Gladstone Street-Harrison Avenue intersection into place. The new signs, a highly reflective blue design that should make them much more highly visible, will go up all over town in the next 18 months. The project is being funded under the federal Highway Safety Act, at a cost of about $140,000. School zone signs will also go up.

Zorn, Seahawks zapped by Rams

L.A. regains first place

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — "Our first appearance in Southern California was certainly disappointing. They whaled the tar out of us."

That was the way former Cal Poly Pomona quarterback Jim Zorn summed up Sunday's one-sided, 45-6, victory by the Rams over Zorn's Seattle Seahawks at the Coliseum.

While it was a disappointment for Zorn and his teammates, it was a good game for the Rams who regained first place in the NFC Western Division from the San Francisco 49ers who dropped an overtime tilt at St. Louis, 23-20.

It appears the race for the division title will be a dogfight right down to the wire. The Rams play Cincinnati (away), St. Louis, the 49ers (away), New Orleans, Atlanta and Detroit (away) to finish out the season.

The 49ers face Washington, Atlanta (away), the Rams, Minnesota, San Diego (away) and New Orleans (away).

For sure there will be no future games any easier than Sunday's easy win over the outmanned expansionists from the Pacific Northwest.

The offensive and defensive lines produced strong efforts. The Ram secondary and linebackers hawked the ball. James Harris played well in his first appearance in two weeks and Pat Haden sparkled again in a mop-up role in the fourth quarter.

Harris completed 14 of 25 passes for 208 yards and two touchdowns. Haden connected on two of three for 26 yards and one touchdown and scrambled for an 11-yard gain when his receivers were covered.

Unfortunately for Zorn, his statistics were as bad as Harris' and Haden's were good.

The left-handed scrambler, who didn't get to scramble Sunday, had a terrible first quarter during which Ram defenders overwhelmed Seattle's offensive line.

In the Seahawk's' first four series, they managed to run only 11 plays from scrimmage and showed a net of minus six yards.

Zorn's personal chart showed four passes, no completions, one interception (and subsequent touchdown) and another near and no scrambles. The score read Rams 24, Seahawks 0.

"We got behind and they came with everything," Zorn sighed. "The two ends (Jack Youngblood and Fred Dryer) waited for me to try to go outside. They just ran straight up field when the ball was snapped and waited for me so I could never get outside. They defensed us well the whole game."

Zorn finished the day with just four completions in 12 attempts for 39 yards. He was sacked four times for losses of 31 yards.

Bill Munson, who relieved Zorn in the first quarter, showed nine completions of 19 passes for 147 yards. He also was intercepted once (by Isiah Robertson) and sacked once.

After relieving Zorn, Munson got the 'Hawks moving immediately and took them from their own 20 to the Rams' 26 including a 44-yard pass. The drive stalled on the 26 and John Leypoldt kicked a 43-yard field goal.

However that was all Munson, himself a former Ram, could get for the Seahawks and when the second half started, Zorn was back in.

Coach Jack Patera was tight-lipped and short with his answers in the post-game interview. But he made it clear that Zorn is still the 'Hawks' quarterback.

"I think the Rams played very well," he said.

"As for our performance, I can't say there are many things we did well today. They did the best job against us of any team we played both offensively and defensively."

Since the Seahawks have played the likes of Dallas, San Francisco, St. Louis, and Washington, that was quite a compliment. But when the subject of Zorn came up, Patera's answers came like blue darts and the air about him crackled with electricity. Patera was asked if he regarded any changes at QB.

"Jim Zorn is our quarterback," he bristled. When asked why, he snapped, "because he is our best quarterback. Jim Zorn has been our quarterback for eight games and Jim Zorn is still our quarterback."

Patera said he made the change (which also included both running backs) because his team simply wasn't moving the ball.

If the visitors weren't, the Rams were. Harris drove them 38 yards in eight plays the first time they got the ball to set up a 20-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey. Jackson picked it took only four plays for another TD with Lawrence McCutcheon sprinting the final six yards to paydirt. Again Seattle was stopped (or couldn't start) and following a 38-yard punt, Harris took the Rams 49 yards in six plays, passing 15 yards to Ron for the score. That made it a 24-0 ball game and it was all over as far as Seattle was concerned.

McCutcheon left the game after his touchdown and did not return after suffering a knee strain. He gained 33 yards in six carries. John Cappelletti did not play the second half but reserves Jim Bertelsen and Rod Phillips were more than adequate replacements.

Phillips, the free agent from Jackson State who sparkled at the end of last season when Bertelsen was felled by a knee injury, wound up as the game's leading rusher with 86 yards in 12 carries.

However, McCutcheon will be needed against Cincinnati next Monday night.

RAMblings — Former Ram Ken Geddes was among the Seattle lame and halt after the game. Geddes suffered a hamstring pull.

Zorn revealed he has purchased a new home in Bellevue, a suburb of Seattle. "I really like it up there," he said. "The people are just great. I'll probably get into some kind of business since I'm making it my permanent home."

Haden continued to play the diplomat. "It was a good game for the team and a great game for that guy over there," he said pointing to Harris. "Shack had a fine game and I'm very happy for him.

Asked about his own performance, Haden grinned and said, "Well, when I went in they were sort of demoralized and we had good field position. (Tom) Geredine made a fine catch frankly."

When Haden went in, he was playing with a lot of other substitutes not the starters. Unless injuries decimate the receiving corps, you won't find Geredine among Harris' receivers.

But, starters or subs, Haden looked brilliant again.

UNDER PRESSURE Ram defensive ends Fred Dryer and Jack Youngblood apply pressure to Seattle Seahawks' quarterback Jim Zorn Sunday just as Zorn fires a pass attempt. Zorn, the former Cal Poly star, did not have a good day, nor did his mates. Rams won easily, 45-6.

Soph breaks NAIA record

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Eastern Montana sophomore Duke Williams set an NAIA single-game rushing record with 409 yards in 43 carries Saturday as the Yellowjackets whipped Montana Tech 35-14 in Frontier Conference football.

The old NAIA standard was 371 yards by Jim Baier of Wisconsin-River Falls against Wisconsin-Stevens Point on Nov. 5, 1966.

Williams scored four times on runs of 71, 10, 31 and 5 yards, helping his club to a 23-0 lead before Tech's Bill Barbee hit Bob Riehle with a five-yard scoring pass.

Lakers even record with good 2nd half

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Coach Jerry West was a little concerned with his Lakers' play during the first half, and the see-saw battle with the Detroit Pistons made him edgy.

"I told them at the half that we needed a stronger effort in the second half, and we came out blowing," a smiling West said Sunday after his Lakers broke the game open with a 37-point third quarter en route to a 121-101 victory over Detroit.

"We really turned the heat on in the third quarter, and played the type and style of game that I enjoy," West said after his team had evened its record at 3-3.

Los Angeles first-year coach also said playing at home helped the Lakers, who've won both their games in the Forum this young National Basketball Association season.

"The homecourt advantage means so much to teams like us who are not overpowering," West remarked. "We had two or three stretches in the third period when, if we had been on a visiting court, things might not have gone our way. The crowd definitely played a part."

Los Angeles got more tangible support from forwards Cazzie Russell and Don Ford during the third-period blitz that saw the Lakers break away from a one-point edge, 56-55, at the intermission.

Russell scored eight of his game-high 23 points in the third stanza, and Ford pumped in 11 of his total of 19.

Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, playing his usual dominating role in the middle, added 21 points.

The Pistons' Bob Lanier helped his team stay close the first half, pumping in 14 points, but he was held to just four points in the second half. Detroit guards Eric Money and Chris Ford each contributed 14 points in the losing cause.

Bears knock off Vikings

By Associated Press

Fran Tarkenton and the Minnesota Vikings came in from the cold—and they came in as losers.

Until Sunday, Johnny Unitas had passed for more yards than anyone else in the history of the National Football League. Tarkenton took care of that matter.

And until Sunday, only the Vikings were unbeaten this year. The Chicago Bears took care of that matter, nipping them 14-13 in nippy, windy Soldier Field.

The Bears couldn't kick in that earlier loss, when they missed two extra-point attempts. They didn't have anything to kick about this time.

In Sunday's other games, Dallas downed Washington 20-7, St. Louis edged San Francisco 23-20 in overtime, Detroit dumped Green Bay 27-6, Miami beat New England 10-3, Philadelphia shut out the New York Giants 10-0, Pittsburgh defeated San Diego 23-0, Cincinnati downed Cleveland 21-6, Oakland overhauled Denver 19-6, Los Angeles slugged Seattle 45-6, the New York Jets beat Buffalo 19-14, Atlanta topped New Orleans 23-20 and Kansas City tripped Tampa Bay 28-19. Houston is at Baltimore tonight.

Tarkenton, who scored the only Minnesota touchdown on a two-yard rollout, completed 24 of 46 passes for 272 yards. That gave him 40,421 yards—that's nearly 21 miles—in his career to Unitas' 40,239.

But it was hardly a consolation. "It means nothing," he said. "I wasn't thinking about breaking the record today. Hell, I only needed 91 yards and I knew I would get that sometime."

The other thing the Vikes got on the scoreboard were a pair of 24-yard Fred Cox field goals. What really got them, though, was a 17-mile-an-hour wind.

Neil Clabo, trying to kick into that wind, shanked a pair of punts. Both resulted in Chicago touchdowns. A 15-yarder was followed instantly by a 39-yard Walter Payton touchdown run in the first period. Clabo's 16-yarder in the fourth quarter gave the Bears the ball on the Minnesota 33 and they marched to the game-winning TD, when Johnny Musso ran three yards, fumbled at the goal line and recovered in the end zone.

"I felt sorry for Clabo," said Bobby Parsons, Chicago's punter. "I know how he feels. I work on kicking into the wind every day."

Clabo admitted the wind was a factor but said, "All kickers have bad days." Minnesota Coach Bud Grant added: "Kicking definitely was a factor. Ours was as bad as it has been since I can remember."

And overjoyed Chicago Coach Jack Pardee grinned: "Now the Vikings have lost one like everyone else in the league."

Cowboys 20, Redskins 7

Roger Staubach, playing with a taped broken pinky on his right hand, played better than most quarterbacks with unbroken fingers.

He completed 13 of 23 passes for 152 yards and also ran one yard for a touchdown. Doug Dennison scored from the three and Efren Herrera kicked two field goals as the Cowboys scored their first victory in Washington since 1971.

"It's sore, but it wasn't a factor," Staubach said of the broken pinky. "I had no trouble throwing the ball although I had to grip it differently."

Cardinals 23, 49ers 20

The Cardinals remained one game back of Dallas in the National Conference East on Jim Bakken's 21-yard field goal with 6:42 gone in sudden-death overtime.

St. Louis recovered a fumbled punt by San Francisco's Anthony Leonard at the 49ers' 43 yard-line, then Jim Otis carried five straight times to set up the kick.

"Our line just bulled them out," said Otis. "When it came down to who wanted the game, we wanted it the most."

Lions 27, Packers 6

Ray Jarvis and Greg Landry teamed on touchdown pass plays of 74 and 13 yards, rookie Lawrence Gaines scored on a 26-yard sprint and rookie Bennie Ricardo kicked two field goals in the Lions' rout of Green Bay.

"We were outplayed in all phases of the game—offense, defense and the special teams," said dejected Packers Coach Bart Starr. "Detroit played like we wish we could."

Dolphins 10, Patriots 3

Bill Arnsparger came back to Miami the way he went out nearly three years ago—a winner.

He built the "No-Name" defense into one of the best units in the league before becoming the Giants' head coach. Then he was fired a week ago by New York and returned to head up the Dolphins' defense. It responded with a vengeance against the Patriots.

"Any time you get somebody of his ability, the mere fact that he's there has to benefit you," said safety Dick Anderson.

Bob Griese's 16-yard TD pass to Jim Mandich in the second period was the winning score.

Eagles 10, Giants 9

John McVay came in as a head coach the way Arnsparger went out—a shutout loser. The Giants, who lost 27-0 to Pittsburgh a week ago, were blanked again as their scoreless string stretched to 10 quarters. Mike Boryla flipped a 13-yard TD pass to Harold Carmichael for the Eagles.

Steelers 23, Chargers 0

Pittsburgh limited San Diego's sometimes-potent offense to just 124 offensive yards, 44 of them on the ground, and the Steelers blew open a close game with three touchdowns in the final period. Terry Bradshaw, out for two games with a neck injury, returned to action and scored the first TD on a one-yard plunge.

Bengals 21, Browns 6

Running back Boobie Clark, who has often complained about his lack of use in Cincinnati's aerial-oriented game, couldn't complain after what he did to the Browns. He rushed for 100 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Quarterback Ken Anderson kicked in with a 69-yard touchdown pass to Isaac Curtis.

Raiders 19, Broncos 6

Oakland struggled for three quarters against second-place Denver before Ken Stabler broke a 6-6 tie with a 31-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff.

"A victory meant a three-game lead and a defeat would have meant a one-game lead. Figuring that out didn't require a lot of math. We're in pretty good condition now," said Coach John Madden of the Raiders.

Jets 19, Bills 14

The Jets, who had beaten only Buffalo through their first seven games, did it to the Bills again. Richard Todd, starting in place of injured Joe Namath, tossed a 20-yard TD pass to David Knight.

Falcons 23, Saints 20

Scott Hunter entered the game in the second half and passed for touchdowns of 17 yards to Alfred Jenkins and five to Haskell Stanback that wiped out New Orleans' 14-0 lead, then Stanback scored on a one-yard plunge to snap Atlanta's four-game losing spin.

Chiefs 28, Bucs 19

Mike Livingston's pair of third-quarter touchdown passes woke up Kansas City's sluggish offense aganst Tampa Bay, offsetting a pair of Steve Spurrier touchdown tosses for the winless Bucs in the fourth period.

Pac-8 race heating up

By The Associated Press

Sophomore Theotis Brown of UCLA had a Ricky Bell-type game, Bell of Southern Cal had some problems, but the two Los Angeles schools remained neck-and-neck in the Pacific-8 football lead.

The 220 rushing yards of Brown, who carried 35 times, and the 123 added by teammate James Owen all were needed by the Bruins who beat Washington in Seattle for the first time in 18 years, 30-21.

Bell was held to 78 net yards on 24 carries and lost his national rushing lead, but a sore ankle was partly responsible, along with California's defense. His sensational backup man, freshman Charles White, took over in the second half and finished with 91 yards in the Trojans' 20-6 victory over Cal.

"I can't tell one from the other," Cal Coach Mike White said of USC's tailbacks. He added, "The best defense we saw up until today was Oklahoma's. USC is every bit in that class, and better."

UCLA, third-ranked nationally, and fourth-ranked USC are each 4-0 in the Pacific-8. Stanford is 3-1 after its 24-3 victory over Oregon State and the Trojans visit Stanford Stadium next weekend.

"Stanford is the best passing team we've faced," said OSU Coach Craig Fertig. "USC is bigger and more physical. It should be a donnybrook."

Guy Benjamin passed for three touchdowns, with Tony Hill making the 14th and 15th touchdown catches of his career to break a Stanford record, and Duncan McColl made two key fumble recoveries for the Cardinals against Oregon State.

In the only other Pac-8 game, Jack Thompson of Washington State hit Dan Doornink on a two-point conversion pass with 19 seconds remaining to make the Cougars 23-22 victors over Oregon. Only one Pacific Coast Athletic Association game was played, and Coach Jim Sweeney's second-place Fresno Bulldogs used three quarterbacks in their 35-7 victory over Pacific.

PCAA leader San Jose State trounced Santa Clara 50-15 with the help of Steve DeBerg's three touchdown passes, Hawaii's Norris Birdsong ran for 111 yard as the Rainbows downed the PCAA's Fullerton State 27-7, Long Beach State broke a 7-7 tie on John Washington's 79-yard pass reception and beat Wichita State 21-14, and San Diego State came from behind in the third quarter on Steve LaPlant's 37-yard field goal and Charlie Crews' touchdown to beat Texas-El Paso 27-16.

UCLA has Oregon and Oregon State, who have only one Pac-8 victory between them, to play before the Nov. 20 Los Angeles Coliseum showdown with Southern Cal. The Trojans, after the trip to Stanford, will be home against Washington.

Bell has played less than four periods over the past two weeks but expects to be ready for Stanford. He sprained an ankle Saturday, a week after suffering a hip injury.

"The sprain wasn't that bad, but Coach (John) Robinson said there was no sense in my hurting it anymore," he said after turning the football-carrying chores over to White Saturday.

Duane Bobick not happy with showing

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Heavyweight contender Duane Bobick might be ready to try to step up in class and fight Ken Norton, but the former Olympian was not happy with his latest performance.

Bobick, after winning a nationally televised 10-round decision Saturday over Fred "Young Sanford" Houpe, said, "That wasn't one of my better performances. I couldn't get untracked."

Trainer Eddie Futch discussed a possible bout against England's Joe Bugner and mentioned a bout against Norton.

"I think in a year, Bobick could be ready for a title challenge," said Futch. Norton, outpointed by Muhammad Ali in the most recent heavyweight title fight, talked about the possibility of fighting Bobick.

"I need a fight to get back on the track," Norton said.

The unbeaten Bobick won his 38th pro fight, but he lost the first three rounds to Houpe, of Oakland, who went into the ring with a 12-0 record.

Then Bobick's body blows took their toll, as he outweighed his rival 214 to 195. Bobick, from Bowlus, Minn., and now managed by former world champion Joe Frazier, won on all cards.

College bowl picture confused

By Associated Press

If the college football picture has you confused, imagine how the bowl people feel. Of all the vacant berths that don't automatically go to conference champs, only Pitt in the Orange Bowl against the Big Eight king seems set.

Of the so-called big four bowls—Rose, Orange, Cotton, Sugar—that apparently leaves two open spots—one in the Cotton, one in the Sugar—with four teams in the running...and two of them going to be shut out.

The four attractive teams are the Michigan-Ohio State Big Ten loser, the UCLA-Southern Cal Pacific-8 loser, undefeated Maryland and once-beaten Notre Dame.

"The picture is getting a little clearer, but it's still pretty mixed-up," says one bowl official.

Invitations can't be officially extended until Nov. 20 but bowl scouts have been doing almost as much campaigning as Ford and Carter and there's no law against speculation.

If the status remains quo— i.e., the rankings don't change too much over the next few weeks—look for second-ranked Pitt and Tony Dorsett to wind up in Miami. The Orange Bowl payoff, roughly $1 million per team, trails only the Rose Bowl, which, of course, has the Big Ten and Pac-8 champs locked up.

Dorsett, the all-time rushing king, ran for 241 yards and two touchdowns in boosting his career total to 5,447 as the Panthers downed Syracuse 23-13. Pitt has an 8-0 mark and doesn't figure to be severly tested by Army or West Virginia before the bowl deadline.

The Panthers are idle Nov. 20, finishing against tough Penn State Nov. 26. By then, though, their Miami reservations should be signed and sealed.

The Big Ten and Pac-8 losers might be more attractive to the Cotton and Sugar Bowls than an unbeaten Maryland team. The fifth-ranked Terrapins also stand 8-0 following a 24-14 triumph over Kentucky but they are hampered by a patsy schedule and an injury to star runner Steve Atkins.

With the Cotton and Sugar Bowls competing head-to-head for the national television audience, names like Michigan, Ohio State, Southern Cal, UCLA and Notre Dame probably would be more saleable than Maryland...and the Terrapins know it.

"I've never seen a team wanting to go to a bowl as bad as Maryland," says one bowl official. "They're sending releases, phoning around and inviting folks up to see them."

The Terps bounced favored Florida in last year's Gator Bowl and are after bigger and better things.

"If we go to a bowl game," says quarterback Mark Manges, "we'll go to win the national championship, not to prove we belong in the Top Ten."

But Ohio State and Michigan boast famous, headline-making coaches, Southern Cal has a super runner in Ricky Bell and Notre Dame and UCLA are, well, Notre Dame and UCLA.

Top-rated Michigan and eighth-ranked Ohio State remained deadlocked for the Big Ten lead with lopsided victories. The No. 1 Wolverines routed Minnesota 45-0 while the Buckeyes pulled away from a 12-7 halftime struggle to crush Indiana 47-7.

Meanwhile, third-ranked UCLA and No. 4 Southern Cal continued their battle for Pac-8 honors and the Rose Bowl's host spot. The Bruins turned back Washington 30-21 as Theotis Brown galloped for 220 yards and three touchdowns while Southern Cal defeated California 20-6. Both teams have 4-0 league records.

Notre Dame, ranked No. 11, had a rougher time than expected in defeating Navy 27-21 and the once-beaten Irish can control their own bowl destiny. A victory over Alabama on Nov. 13 probably will mean a major bid; a loss, with Southern Cal remaining to be played in Los Angeles on Nov. 27, and they can probably forget it.

"Notre Dame is the real swing team in the whole thing," says a bowl veteran. "If they're 9-1 with USC to go, I think one of the big bowls will gamble on them."

If they lose to Alabama, it's unlikely the proud Irish will say yes to anything smaller than the Gator Bowl...and even that might depend on the caliber of the opponent.

Sixth-ranked Texas Tech remained unbeaten—and tied for the Southwest Conference lead with No. 14 Arkansas—by coming from behind to beat No. 15 Texas 31-28 on Billy Taylor's touchdown plunge in the final period.

Arkansas kept pace with Tech for the host spot in the Cotton Bowl by whomping Rice 41-16 as Ron Calcagni scored one touchdown and set up two others. Tech and Arkansas meet on Nov. 27.

Seventh-ranked Georgia took a break from Southeastern Conference action—the SEC champ goes to the Sugar Bowl—and trimmed No. 20 Cincinnati 31-17. Meanwhile, No. 12 Florida, the SEC leader, ran its league mark to 4-0—Georgia is 3-1— with a 24-19 decision over Auburn. Georgia and Florida hook up next Saturday.

The frantic Big Eight scramble was reduced from a five-way tie to a mere triple deadlock among ninth-ranked Nebraska, No. 16 Oklahoma State and No. 19 Colorado. Nebraska drubbed Kansas 31-3, Oklahoma State squeaked past No. 10 Missouri 20-19 behind Terry Miller's 228 rushing yards after trailing 16-0 in the third period and Colorado bumped off No. 13 Oklahoma 42-31. The setback made defending national champion Oklahoma a two-time loser for the first time since 1970.

No. 17 Alabama appears to be out of the SEC chase for the first time in memory with a 3-2 league record but the Crimson Tide impressed the scouts with a 34-17 triumph over No. 18 Mississippi State. Representatives of the Gator, Liberty and Peach Bowls clambered to congratulate Bear Bryant after that one.

"They should have after a win like this," roared the Bear, who won't be determining the top-level bowl set-up this year. But the Crimson Tide probably will be somewhere in the post-season picture—the Gator, Liberty, Fiesta are interested—for the 18th year in a row.

"Alabama is a very interesting team," is the way one bowl official puts it. "If they get by Louisiana State and Notre Dame the next two weeks they'll be a very hot team."

The Big Eight and Southwest Conferences figure to provide plenty of teams for the 12-bowl field. For example, Southern Methodist's Ron Meyer, a 36-0 loser to unranked Texas A&M, says the twice-beaten Aggies are "an awesome team...the best team in the Southwest Conference."

Colorado State threw the Western Athletic Conference, which provides the host team for the Fiesta Bowl, into confusion by handing league-leader Wyoming its first WAC setback 19-16. The Cowpokes have a 4-1 mark to Brigham Young's 3-1 and Arizona's 2-1.

Cavs' Fitch is tough to please

By The Associated Press

Bill Fitch is a hard man to please. Maybe that's why his Cleveland Cavaliers are a hard team to beat.

Always the perfectionist, Fitch was not even happy after a 106-92 victory over the New Orleans Jazz Sunday night.

"We only played seven good minutes," said Fitch after unbeaten Cleveland's fifth victory of the National Basketball Association season. "There are a lot of areas we're going to have to be better in. We had too many turnovers (16). That's what really rankles me."

Despite the impressive margin of victory, the Cavs almost faltered. They dropped their guard in the last quarter and lost most of a big lead before regrouping.

This lack of killer instinct upset the highly-critical Fitch.

"The worst thing to do is get a belt-and-suspenders attitude with a 15-point lead," Fitch said. "You should keep running, but you've got to be smart."

One thing Fitch couldn't complain about was the rebounding. For the fifth straight game, the Cavs topped their opponents in that department—this time by a 57-48 margin.

"There's no team in the league deeper than we are," noted Bobby Smith, Cleveland's high scorer with 17 points.

In other NBA games, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Detroit Pistons 121-101 and the Seattle SuperSonics topped the Atlanta Hawks 126-112.

Led by Smith, Cleveland put seven men in double figures, offsetting a 27-point performance by the Jazz' Pete Maravich. The Cavaliers hit 11 of their first 12 shots, jumping into a 25-11 lead with 4:37 left in the first period.

Maravich scored 14 of his game-high total during a third quarter spurt that brought the Jazz within 66-58, midway through the period. But center Jim Chones connected on two quick jumpers for the Cavs, who took a 13-point lead by the end of the third period and coasted the rest of the way.

SuperSonics 126, Hawks 112

Forward Bruce Seals scored 21 points, leading Seattle over Atlanta. The victory was the SuperSonics' third straight Seattle Coliseum triumph this season and their 19th consecutive regular-season victory at home over two seasons.

Oak Tree meet in final week

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The 23-day Oak Tree meet at Santa Anita heads into its final week today, with Any Time Girl crowned queen of the 2-year-old fillies.

Attention now focuses on Saturday's $350,000 invitational handicap, The Champions.

Stakes winners King Pellinore, Riot in Paris, Honest Pleasure and possibly Festive Mood are among the probable starters in the 1¼-mile Champions.

Washington-bred Any Time Girl scored an upset in Sunday's Oak Leak Stakes, winning $73,140 out a purse of $121,900. It was the richest purse in the West for the 2-year-old distaff set.

Any Time Girl was bred in Washington's Yakima Valley by owner Wilbur Stadleman, a fruit grower.

It was her third stakes triumph, as she paid $23 to win.

Telferner, seeking her fourth stakes win, faded in the stretch and finished fourth as the solid favorite.

Any Time Girl raced wide in the stretch — so wide she seemed bent on collecting the autograph of actor John Wayne as he waited in the winner's circle to crown the victor.

Lady TV was second, and Glenaris was third in the field of eight.

Vagabonda won Saturday's Las Palmas Handicap for older fillies and mares. Favored Bastonera II was second, and Accra II was third.

Blazers' Neal healthy again

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Forward Lloyd Neal, sidelined with preseason knee surgery, will resume practice with the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association later this week.

Q. "WHY DOES THE MOON HAVE PHASES?"

KEVIN DOUCETTE
RAYNHAM, MA

A. THE MOON'S ROTATION AROUND THE EARTH CAUSES THE PHASES. AS THE MOON CIRCLES THE EARTH, MORE AND MORE OF THE SUNLIT SIDE CAN BE SEEN FROM THE EARTH.

© 1976 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.
DICK ROGERS
11/1

As we watch the moon night after night, it seems to change its shape. These different appearances are called phases.

The moon s rotation around the earth causes the phases.

The moon gives off no light of its own. It reflects the light from the sun. The sun can light up only one half of the moon at a time.

The phase that we see from the earth at any time depends on how much of the lighted side is turned toward us.

When the moon is between the earth and the sun, its dark side is turned toward the earth. At this time, the moon is almost invisible. It is called the new moon.

A thin crescent appears as we begin to see part of the sunlit side. Each night the crescent gets a little larger. After a week, it is a half moon.

At full moon, the moon has circled far enough for us to see all the sunlit half.

As it completes its journey around the earth, the moon again passes through all its phases.

BONK!

Children fascinated by real life Willie Wonka

OAKLAND (AP) — The hands on the chocolate clock read 10:30 a.m. Below them, a corporate president dressed in a purple velvet tuxedo, ruffled shirt and top hat sits pondering his customers' requests:

"Dear Bubble Gum King, Could you make a candy that's carbonated so it pops in your mouth?"

"Dear Willie Wonka, Could you make a gum that never loses its flavor and turns colors when you chew?"

At first glance, it may seem unlikely that these juvenile flights of fancy will ever make it to the marketplace. But then, this is the United States Chewing Gum Manufacturing Co., "where accidents become products," and it may all come true.

After all, nearby machines painted like rocketships and choochoo trains are turning out powies, puckeroos and purple poppers. And despite three degrees (law, economics and business administration), the 34-year-old executive introduces himself as "Uncle Al, the Kiddies' Pal" and explains his workstyle by saying, "I like to play."

The purple-garbed president, Allan Silverstone, is playing the candy game quite well. Since buying U.S. Chewing Gum two years ago, his flamboyant marketing has tripled sales and produces daydreams that include an anticipated $250,000 in profits this year.

All this is a far cry from investment banking, Silverstone's previous calling. But he found the financial world of a plush Beverly Hills securities firm "frustrating and boring" and wanted "a business I could have fun with."

So, Silverstone opened a candy and gumball machine store called The Penny Arcade in Beverly Hills, then "acquired one of my suppliers, moved up here and started turning the (candy) industry on to new things."

The creative process was somewhat haphaphazard. When a batch of giant gumballs came out slightly streaked, Silverstone decided they looked like prehistoric eggs. He marketed them as "Pterodactyl Eggs," complete with hatching instructions, and stores sold more than 250,000 of them at $2 each in less than six months.

Then a batch of eggs came out lumpy and a supervisor was about to discard them.

"Wait, that's non-melting ice cream," said Silverstone, rushing out for cones to verify the size. "Non-Melting Ice Cream," with a reusable plastic cone, is now on the market in 31 flavors.

Silverstone's serendipitous success has caused some ripples. Children, perhaps understandably, associate him with the fun-loving candymaker played by Gene Wilder in the movie, "Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory." But, Quaker Oats, which owns the rights to the character, objected through their lawyers and Silverstone now tells visitors, "I want you to understand that I'm not Willie Wonka. I hope that clarifies my position on the matter."

Such questions are probably above the head of the third-grader who heard of Silverstone's real-life candy factory and wrote:

"My teacher says as soon as she gets her plane fixed, she will fly us to your factory. I don't believe her but there's always hope."

Pomona project to be displayed

Activities and programs of the secondary mathematics component of Pomona Unified School District's Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) project will be displayed at the 17th annual conference of the California Mathematics Council, Southern Section, next Friday and Saturday in Anaheim.

Pomona's project was selected for display as an example of an exemplary program. It may be viewed in the north lobby of the Convention Center from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days.

It includes a slide presentation of a typical day in the life of an ESAA secondary math student, a display of games, computers, worksheets, filmstrips and learning centers used to teach math concepts and an explanation of the total program.

Charles Alviso, Denis Hegarty, Gwen Johnson and Frances Primus, ESAA resource teachers, will be on hand to discuss the program and answer questions.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Chief Engineer, Room 1000, District Transportation Building, 120 South Spring Street, Los Angeles, California, until 2 o'clock p.m. on November 18, 1976, at which time they will be publicly opened and read in Room 2 of said building, for construction on State highway in accordance with the specifications therefor, to which special reference is made, as follows:

Los Angeles County, in Los Angeles from Euclid Avenue to Indiana Street (07-L.A.-60-R0.9/R1.9), manual irrigation system to be converted to automatic operation.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein.

Plans, specifications, and proposal forms for bidding this project can only be obtained at the office of the Chief Engineer, Transportation Building, Sacramento, California, and may be seen at the offices of the Chief Engineer at Sacramento, and the District Directors of Transportation at Los Angeles, San Francisco, and the district in which the work is situated.

The successful bidder shall furnish a payment bond and a performance bond.

The Department of Transportation hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in consideration for an award.

Minimum wage rates for this project as predetermined by the Secretary of Labor are set forth in the special provisions. If there is a difference between the minimum wage rates predetermined by the Secretary of Labor and the prevailing wage rates determined by the Department of Transportation for similar classifications of labor, the Contractor and his subcontractors shall pay not less than the higher wage rate.

Pursuant to Section 1770 of the Labor Code, the Department has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages in the county in which the work is to be done, to be as listed in the Department of Transportation publication entitled Equipment Rental Rates And General Prevailing Wage Rates, dated October, 1976.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF OPPORTUNITY FOR A DESIGN HEARING AND THE AVAILABILITY OF THE DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL STUDY FOR THE IMPROVEMENT AND WIDENING OF FIRST STREET FROM CLAREMONT BOULEVARD TO INDIAN HILL BOULEVARD IN THE CITY OF CLAREMONT, CALIFORNIA.

PROPOSAL

The City of Claremont proposes to improve First Street between Claremont Boulevard and Indian Hill Boulevard. Included in the improvement is the reconstruction and widening of First Street to four lanes between Claremont Boulevard and College Avenue. Also included is the construction of a landscaped median on First Street between College Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard. Funds to finance a portion of the proposed improvement have been requested from the Federal Government under the Federal-Aid-Urban program.

PURPOSE

The proposed street improvement will replace a badly deteriorated pavement and increase the capacity and safety of First Street by adding travel lanes.

INFORMATION

An environmental assessment of the impact of the improvement was made and a determination of non-major action was prepared by the City of Claremont with the concurrence of the Federal Highway Administration. The determination of non-major action is available for review at the City Engineer's office, City of Claremont, 207 Harvard Avenue, Claremont, California 91711. Copies of the determination of non-major action are available upon written request. Written comments regarding the determination of non-major action from any group or individual should be mailed to Paul E. Cook, City Engineer, at the above address prior to November 14, 1976. Information concerning the project can also be obtained from the City Engineer's office or by telephone at 624-4531.

HEARING

If, after obtaining information about the above proposal, a Design Hearing is desired to discuss any or all aspects of the proposed improvement, it may be requested in writing by any interested agency or member of the general public. The hearing will provide the public with an opportunity to consider and comment on the above proposal. Written requests for a hearing should be submitted no later than November 14, 1976.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF JOINT PUBLIC HEARING BY THE POMONA REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY AND THE POMONA REDEVELOPMENT COMMISSION ON THE PROPOSED REDEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR THE MOUNTAIN MEADOWS PROJECT AREA.
CITY OF POMONA

Notice is hereby given that the Redevelopment Agency of the City of Pomona and the Pomona Redevelopment Commission will hold a joint public hearing on the proposed Redevelopment Plan for the Mountain Meadows Project Area in the City of Pomona on Monday, November 22, 1976 at the hour of 8:00 P.M. in the Council Chambers of the City Hall at 505 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, California.

Legal description of the boundaries of the area designated in the proposed Redevelopment Project for the Mountain Meadows Project Area is as shown below:

That certain parcel of land, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California being a portion of the Rancho San Jose as per map recorded in Book 2, pages 292 and 293 of Patents in the office of the County Recorder of said County, described as follows:

Beginning at the most northerly corner of Lot 4 of the Naranja Val Vista Tract as per map recorded in Book 36, pages 18 and 19 of Maps, in the said County Recorder's office; thence southwesterly along the westerly line of said lot and its southwesterly prolongation to the intersection with the center line of Val Vista Street (50 feet wide) as said street is shown on said Tract map; then northwesterly along said centerline to the intersection with the centerline of Dudley Street (shown as an unnamed roadway lying westerly of and immediately adjacent to the westerly line of lots 7 and 12 of said Tract); thence southerly along said centerline of Dudley Street and its southerly prolongation to the intersection with the centerline of the San Bernardino Freeway (Interstate Route 10) as said intersection is shown on the California State Department of Transportation Right-of-Way Map Number F1868 from San Dimas Avenue (Post Mile 42.4) to Dudley Street (Post Mile 44.2); thence westerly along said Freeway centerline to the intersection with the centerline of Ganesha Boulevard as said Boulevard existed on January 1, 1976; thence northeasterly along said last mentioned centerline to the intersection with the centerline of McKinley Avenue (formerly Walnut Avenue) as said Avenue and point of intersection shown on Los Angeles County Surveyor's Map Number B-1391 (Ganesha Boulevard from Arroyo Avenue to Walnut Avenue) on file in the office of the County Engineer of said County; thence southeasterly along said centerline of McKinley Avenue to the intersection with the northeasterly prolongation of the easterly line of that certain parcel of land described in the deed to Ora and Clair Enquist and recorded on October 5, 1955 as document number 842 of Official Records in said County Recorder's Office; thence south 22 degrees 15' 40" West 214.09 feet more or less said prolongation and said easterly line to the most southerly corner of said last mentioned parcel of land; thence south 59 degrees 37' 50" East 316.73 feet to the intersection with the westerly line of Lot 18 of the El Pariso Tract as per map recorded in Book 28, Page 60 of Maps in said County Recorder's Office, said last mentioned intersection being monumented with a 2" pipe as shown on the map of Tract Number 8147 recorded in Book 121, Pages 76 and 77 of Maps in said Recorder's Office; thence southwesterly along said westerly line of Lot 18 to the northwest corner of Lot 60 in Tract Number 9687 as per map recorded in Book 136, Pages 67 to 70 inclusive; thence continuing southwesterly along the west line of said Lot 60 to the southwest corner of said Lot 60, said southwest corner also being the most northerly corner of said Lot 4 of the Naranja Val Vista Tract and the point beginning.

A general statement of the scope and objectives of the proposed Redevelopment Plan for the Mountain Meadows Project Area is as follows: The general objective of the Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Plan is to eliminate blight within the Project Area. Specific objectives to be accomplished by this plan are:

1. The elimination of those conditions which are causing economic disuse and dislocation in Project area.
2. The assemblage and provision of land which is suitable for use of new residential developments which will improve economic conditions in the Project Area.
3. The enhancement of the visual image of a major area of the City of which the community can be proud.
4. To establish landscaping and structural conditions on the reuses in accordance with modern and competitive development practices.
5. Providing for the assembly of parcels which are adequate in size, configuration and contain reasonable access to streets and utilities so as to encourage new construction through private investment, thereby enhancing opportunities for the development of the Project Area into a viable, master planned residential entity.

On the day and at the hour and place above specified, all persons having any objections to the proposed Redevelopment Plan or who deny the existence of blight in the proposed Redevelopment Project Area or the regularity of any of the prior proceedings may appear and show cause why the Redevelopment Plan should not be adopted. Those persons who wish to express support for the Plan may also appear and be heard at that time.

GIVEN BY ORDER of the Pomona Redevelopment Agency and the Pomona Redevelopment Commission.

2000	520,000
2001	540,000

INTEREST: The bonds shall bear interest at a rate or rates to be fixed upon the sale thereof but not to exceed eight percent (8%) per annum, payable annually the first year and semiannually thereafter.

PAYMENT: Said bonds and the interest thereon are payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the principal office of United California Bank in the City of Los Angeles, California, and at the paying agents of the District at The Northern Trust Company in the City of Chicago, Illinois, or at Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. in the City of New York, New York, at the option of the holder thereof.

REGISTRATION: The bonds will be coupon bonds registrable either as to principal only or as to both principal and interest, and the form of registration may be changed, or the bonds discharged from registration, all in accordance with provisions in the resolution providing for the issuance of said bonds.

CALLABLE: The bonds maturing on or prior to November 1, 1987, shall not be subject to call or redemption prior to maturity. All bonds maturing on or after November 1, 1988, or any of them, may be called before maturity and redeemed, at the option of the Board of Directors, on November 1, 1987, or on any interest payment date thereafter prior to maturity (hereinafter sometimes called the "redemption date"). Bonds called prior to maturity shall be redeemed at the principal amount thereof, plus a premium equal to one-fourth of one percent (¼ of 1%) for each twelve (12) month period or portion thereof from the date of redemption to the maturity date thereof. All or any of the bonds subject to call may be called for redemption at any one time. If less than all of the bonds are redeemed at one time, such bonds shall be redeemed only in inverse order of maturity years and by lot within each maturity.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The bonds are to be issued to finance the acquisition, construction, improving and financing of water treatment and distribution facilities to serve Improvement District No. 3 of the Walnut Valley Water District.

SECURITY: Said bonds are issued pursuant to California Water District Law (Division 13 of the Water Code) and shall be paid from an unlimited annual assessment upon taxable land within Improvement District No. 3 or charges which, in the discretion of the Board, are fixed and collected in lieu thereof and all land shall be and remain liable to be assessed for these payments.

LEGAL INVESTMENT: Said bonds will, before the delivery thereof, be certified for investment under and pursuant to the provisions of the Districts Securities Commission Law, Division 10 of the Water Code.

TERMS OF SALE

Interest Rate: The maximum rate bid may not exceed eight percent (8%) per annum, payable annually the first year and semiannually thereafter. Each rate bid must be a multiple of one-twentieth of one percent (1/20 of 1%). No bond shall bear more than one interest rate, and all bonds of the same maturity shall bear the same rate. Only one coupon will be attached to each bond for each installment of interest thereon, and bids providing for additional or supplemental coupons will be rejected. The rate on any maturity or group of maturities shall not be more than two percent (2%) higher than the interest due on any other maturity or group of maturities.

Award: The bonds shall be sold for cash only. All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds hereby offered for sale and each bid shall state that the bidder offers par and accrued interest to the date of delivery, the premium, if any, and the interest rate or rates shall not exceed those specified herein, at which the bidder offers to buy said bonds. Each bidder shall state in his bid the total net interest cost in dollars and the average net interest rate determined thereby, which shall be considered informative only and not a part of the bid.

Highest Bidder: The bonds will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder or bidders considering the interest rate of rates specified and the premium offered, if any. The highest bid will be determined by deducting the amount of the premium bid (if any) from the total amount of interest

Quiet home turns into horror house for Halloween

MIRAMAR, Fla. (AP) — A dismembered body, a haunted cemetery, a guillotine over a screaming head, rain, thunder and lightning, cobwebs, and Frankenstein are surprises for the trick-or treater arriving at Bill Schuck's house.

Schuck, who calls himself "the Devil's Advocate," turned his parent's quiet residential home into an intricate, horror fantasy, and he opened it to hundreds of children — for free.

"Welcome to my creative nightmare," said Schuck, who turned 19 on Halloween Eve. The bearded Schuck, his hair dusted with gray coloring, wears a cape, ruffled shirt and other clothes reminiscent of garb worn in horror movies.

"Common sense tells us that none of this is real," he said. "But for a few seconds, common sense is shoved to the back of the mind."

He has converted the front yard into a weedy cemetery with real tombstones imported from West Virginia. Hidden sprinklers provide rain, strobe lights flash lightning and a tape recorder emits thunder.

A woman's head whispers ghoulish epithets from within a crystal ball — the result of a continuous tape player-movie projector under the table. Mirrors and lights combine to suggest ghosts and dismembered bodies. A real human skeleton rests in a black coffin. Fifteen life-like statues of characters ranging from Frankenstein to Regan of the "Exorcist" are in the yard.

Schuck said he created the display as part of an entrance requirement to an arts college.

He said the California Institute of the Arts, founded by Walt Disney at Valencia, Calif., asked him for a portfolio of his work.

"How could I be different? I thought perhaps I could combine my 'hamminess' with pleasing people," he said. "Then it came to me — obviously, a Halloween spectacular."

Over the weekend, as hundreds of persons converged on Schuck's home, Miramar Jaycees helped unsnarl traffic and local Citizen's Band radio operators handled security.

Large voter turnout seen

Registrars in both counties anticipate 82 per cent to vote

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

Some 200,000 registered voters valleywide Tuesday will be asked to mark ballots in three congressional, two senate and four assembly races, decide special issues in Diamond Bar, Claremont, the West End and Cucamonga, and participate in electing a President.

They'll be asked, too, to help elect one California state senator.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Registrars of voters in both Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties are anticipating 82 per cent voter turnouts. Pomona City Clerk Larry Thomas thinks that estimate is high.

"If they get a 70 per cent turnout they'll be very lucky," said Thomas.

For the handicapped who need transportation, the Claremont League of Women Voters will send drivers to those who call 624-9457 or 624-6363.

There has been a great deal of interest throughout this campaign in the race in the 35th Congressional District where incumbent Jim Lloyd of West Covina, seeking his second term, is being challenged by Covina businessman Louis Brutocao. Both have campaigned hard and a close finish is expected by the candidates.

This district serves Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, Walnut, Covina, West Covina, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino.

The 33rd Congressional District, which includes Diamond Bar and Walnut, is a contest between incumbent Del Clawson, Whittier Republican now seeking his eighth term in office, and Ted Snyder, Whittier Democrat, employed as director of communications and public relations at Rio Hondo College.

In the 26th Congressional District, which serves San Dimas, incumbent Republican John Rousselot is being challenged by South Pasadena Democrat George Donnelly, an assistant vice president with the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The new 33rd State Senatorial District, which serves the Diamond Bar and Walnut areas, was created in the 1973 reapportionment and has no incumbent. Hacienda Heights Republican Bill Campbell is giving up his 64th Assembly District seat to run for this office. His challenger is Santa Fe Springs Councilman Betty Wilson.

There is no election this year in the 32nd State Senatorial District which serves Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Chino and Upland. The incumbent is Ruben S. Ayala, a Chino Democrat.

In the 25th Senatorial District, which serves Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne, incumbent H. L. "Bill" Richardson, an Arcadia Republican, is challenged by West Covina Democrat Ronald Barbatoe, an attorney.

Assembly races to be decided are in the 62nd, 64th, 65th and 66th districts.

In the 62nd District, Republican incumbent William "Bill" Lancaster is challenged by West Covina Democrat Sandy Baldonado, a former Claremont school teacher. This district serves Claremont, San Dimas and La Verne.

In the 64th District which has no running incumbent, the candidates are La Mirada Democrat James Gonsalves, a former aide to Supervisor Pete Schabarum, and Hacienda Heights Republican M. David Stirling, an attorney. This district serves Diamond Bar, Walnut and Hacienda Heights areas.

In the 65th District, incumbent Bill McVittie, an Upland attorney, faces Pomona aerospace engineer Clyde Stephens. McVittie is a Democrat; Stephens, a Republican.

This district serves Pomona, Claremont, Upland, Ontario, Montclair and Chino.

The 66th District serves Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda, Mt. Baldy and Wrightwood. Democrat incumbent Terry Goggin of San Bernardino faces Republican Tamara Wolfinbarger, a Fontana businesswoman.

Diamond Bar voters will decide whether to form a Municipal Advisory Council (MAC). If the majority votes yes, they simultaneously will elect four councilmen. Seventeen candidates are on the ballot in that race.

Claremont voters will be asked whether they wish to annex additional land to their city.

In the West End, voters will be asked to elect three members to the West End Resource Conservation District (RCD), an advisory agency authorized by the State Public Resources Code to do research and give advice in the areas of planning, pollution control and the conservation of soil, water, woodlands and wildlife.

Cucamonga voters, on Proposition O, will decide a $10 million school building bond measure.

At the state level, Sen. John Tunney, a Democrat, has a strong opponent in S. I. Hayakawa, 70, retired state college president, who won the Republican nomination.

At the last minute, poll takers say this race is too close to call.

LAST-MINUTE CAMPAIGNING

In San Francisco's Ghiradelli Square, the crowd surges forward (top) as Democratic President candidate Jimmy Carter wades out to shake hands following a rally Sunday night. Meanwhile, President Ford gives the crowd an okay (bottom) sign at a rally in Nassau Coliseum Sunday night in Uniondale, N.Y. President Ford spent the day campaigning on Long Island and in New York City.

Presidential campaigning to conclude in Michigan

By Associated Press

Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter wind up their campaigns tonight barely 100 miles apart in the President's home state of Michigan. And if the poll takers are right, the candidates are approaching Election Day in a virtual dead heat.

Too close to call is the forecast coming from most quarters in the hours before Americans go to the polls in the nation's bicentennial presidential election.

One major national poll gave Carter a one point lead. Another gave Ford a one point lead.

But it's the electoral vote rather than the national popular vote that will determine who occupies the White House starting next Jan. 20.

The electoral votes for each state are equal to the state's representation in Congress, the two senators plus the number of House members. And the candidate who carries the state gets all the electoral votes.

It takes 270 electoral votes to win the election and few surveys show either candidate with a firm lead in enough states to make him feel certain of victory.

133 reported dead following Jakarta quake

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The death toll from an earthquake that jolted remote mountain jungles in the center of the island of New Guinea has reached 133, officials said today.

A spokesman for the office here of Irian Jaya province said rescue teams were still digging bodies out of the debris left by Friday's quake.

An Interior Department official said a 10-man task force would meet in Jakarta on Tuesday to discuss relief steps. President Suharto earlier ordered rescue teams and medical personnel flown to the area.

John Karetji, deputy chief of the Mission Aviation Fellowship office in Jakarta, said it was difficult to get an exact figure of casualties because many districts are unreachable. He said Langda and Eipomek were the hardest hit districts.

The Irian Jaya office reported 47 dead in Langda, 25 in Tanimi and 20 in Eipomek.

The provincial office said some of the injured had been evacuated to a hospital in Wamena, a town in the stricken area.

Central New Guinea was still recovering from an earthquake in June that killed 1,000 people when Friday's tremor hit. It destroyed buildings and triggered a major landslide.

La Puente slaying

Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies were without a motive or suspect in the slaying late Sunday night of a 20-year-old man in La Puente.

They identified the victim as Carlos Thome, III, of 339 Workman Mill Road, La Puente. Investigators said he was killed shortly before midnight Sunday by a single shot in the head fired from a large-caliber rifle. They said the car had not crashed or gone off the road, indicating to them that it was parked when Thome was shot.

Weather

Clear today and Tuesday. High today 87, overnight low, 46. High Tuesday will be 86 with a low of 48. Saturday high was 77 with a low of 47. Sunday's high temperature was 84 with an overnight low of 51. Sunrise Tuesday 6:11, sunset 4:57.

Three killed in accidents

Upland man

An Upland man was killed and two other persons were injured early Sunday when their car hit a dirt embankment on Mt. Baldy Road near Mountain Avenue and slid on its top for 50 feet.

The victim wasn't immediately identified by highway patrolmen pending notification of the next of kin.

Injured in the accident were Michelle Fraschetti, 16, reported in fair condition at Doctors Hospital in Montclair, and Dale Wolfe, 20, listed in satisfactory condition at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The car was southbound on Mt. Baldy Road at a high rate of speed when it failed to make a turn in the road, said investigators. It crossed the northbound lane and started to climb an embankment when it hit a rock and flipped.

Covina cyclist

A Covina motorcyclist was killed and a San Dimas man was arrested in an early-morning collision Sunday at Arrow Highway and Garey Avenue in Pomona.

The motorcyclist, Michael Lynn Lemmon, 29, of 18579 E. Gallarno Drive, was pronounced dead a few minutes after he was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital following the accident. Lemmon suffered several fractures, including skull fractures, in the crash.

Police reported that the collision occurred when Robert Lawrence King, 23, made a left turn in front of Lemmon as Lemmon was eastbound in Arrow on his brother's motorcycle. The accident was at 1:15 a.m. and Lemmon was prounounced dead at 1:53 a.m.

Police later booked King on suspicion of manslaughter, felonious drunken driving and an additional charge of making an illegal left turn.

Lemmon was the 13th person killed in traffic accidents on Pomona streets this year.

Fontana girl

A five-year-old Fontana girl was killed when she and her sister and brother were thrown from the back of a station wagon in a collision with a pickup truck at Arrow Highway and Haven Avenue, Cucamonga, Sunday evening.

Lisa White of 9068 Sierra Ave., died at San Antonio Community Hospital of multiple head injuries an hour after the accident. Richard White Jr., 3, also suffered head injuries and was reported in fair condition at the hospital this morning. The third child, Cristen White, 6, was treated and released.

The highway patrol reported that Richard White Sr., was westbound on Arrow Highway when a pickup truck driven by Ronald I. Bond, 33, of 10212 La Gloria St., Alta Loma, ran a red traffic signal and hit the station wagon broadside. He was not hurt.

The CHP said investigation on possible manslaughter charges is pending.

Sen. Tunney wins Hayden endorsement

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Sen. John Tunney, locked in a tight race against Republican S.I. Hayakawa, received the endorsement Saturday of Tom Hayden, his opponent in the Democratic primary.

Hayden, who ran a sometimes bitter campaign against Tunney for the Democratic nomination, said at a Democratic rally Saturday, "I want to make it clear who I'm voting for — I'm voting for John Tunney."

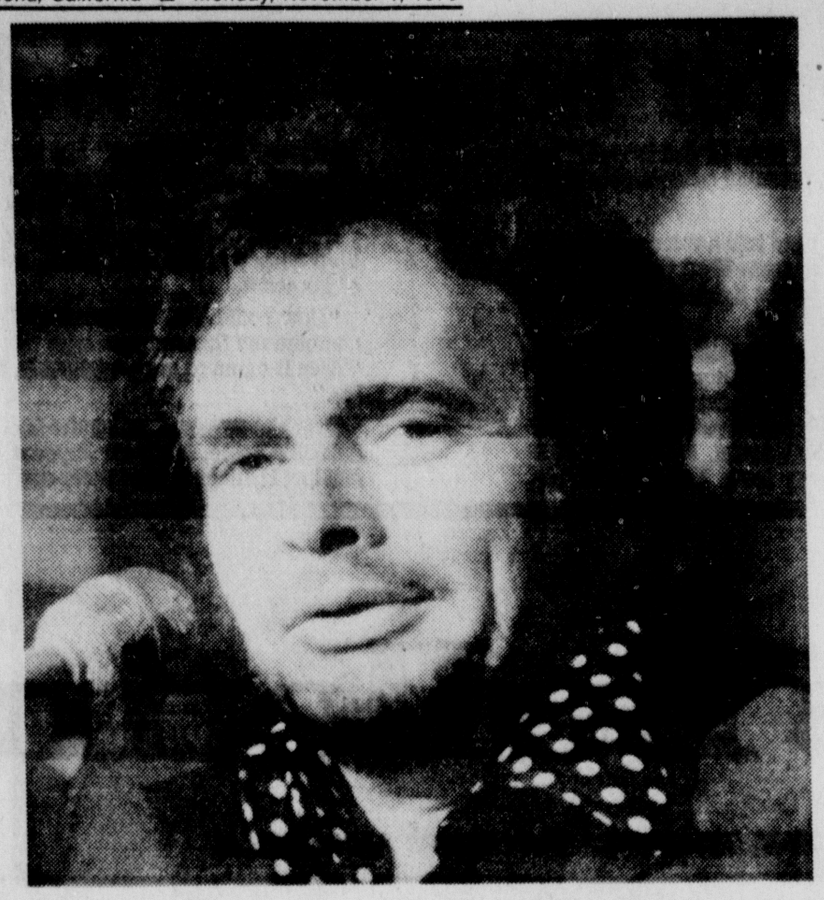

During the primary campaign, Hayden had accused Tunney of abandoning liberal stances on key issues, and since the election has offered little encouragement to the Tunney campaign.

Hayakawa hits taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Republican senatorial candidate S.I. Hayakawa has ended his campaign saying higher taxes are the result of major federal spending programs supported by his opponent, Sen. John V. Tunney.

"During the long weeks of campaigning, John Tunney and I have disagreed on many things," Hayakawa said in a statement issued by his campaign. "But our sharpest difference . . . is the immediate need to stop the alarming increase in property taxes."

Hayakawa, who did not campaign Sunday and had no appearances planned for Monday, said the property tax rates were being driven up by passage of federal programs.

MERLE HAGGARD MISSING

Singer fails to show

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Country-Western singer Merle Haggard failed to appear for concerts here Saturday night and in Denver on Friday, and a concert sponsor said Haggard's agent did not know the performer's whereabouts.

Henry Hilton, owner of radio station KSOP, sponsor of the Salt Lake concert, said Haggard's manager, Fuzzy Ownes, told him the singer and his driver got on Haggard's bus in Denver Friday at 2:30 p.m. and Haggard said he was going to buy a fiddle.

Owens has not seen nor heard from Haggard since, Hilton said. Haggard was billed as the major attraction at both concerts.

Voters decide Tuesday

County changes loom

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County voters Tuesday will have a chance to fundamentally change their county's government for the first time since 1912.

Voters here also will be able to create a new county — Canyon County — for the first time in 70 years.

Propositions A and B would change the shape of county government, while Proposition F would create a new county in the northwest section and possibly spur a host of similar secessions.

Prop. A would create a county mayor to be elected in 1978 while B — which could go into effect only if A passes — would expand the board of supervisors from five members to nine. There are now about 7 million people in the county, so each supervisor has roughly 1.2 million constitutents.

If voters approve both measures Tuesday, they will be putting the administrative reins mostly into the hands of one person and giving the supervisors a largely legislative role.

The creation of a county mayor has been discussed for several decades, but the drive to make the change gained momentum just last spring with the release of a public commission's report backing the restructuring.

Proponents of the change include Supervisors Ed Edelman. Hahn and Pete Schabarum; Sheriff Peter Pitchess; District Attorney John van de Kamp and Assessor Philip Watson. They argue the changes would improve government visibility and accountability, as well as produce more efficient use of county resources.

Opponents, including Supervisors James Hayes and Baxter Ward, fear the plan might create another layer of bureaucracy. Ward has claimed the plan would lead to a county "dictator" who would be indebted to special interests for campaign support.

Prop. F would create Canyon County only if it gets the nod from voters both inside and outside the planned area, which covers a 730-square-mile region roughly from Gorman and the Kern County line south to Newhall and Valenica and east almost to Palmdale.

Blaze damage

RIVERSIDE (AP) — Fire did an estimated $68,000 damage to the recreation room and dining hall at the Rose Garden Village retirement community here.

Fire department officials said the blaze apparently was started by an overheated blower motor.

Star wedded

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Actress June Allyson has married a dentist in a ceremony attended by actresses Rita Hayworth, Margaret O'Brien and Gloria De Haven.

The bridegroom was David Ashrow, 55, of Ventura, Calif. Their marriage Saturday was the third marriage for both.

Miss Allyson, now 52, was married for 18 years to actor Dick Powell who died of cancer in 1963. Later that year she married Powell's barber, Glenn Maxwell. The stormy second marriage ended in divorce in 1970.

Flu clinics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Swine flu clinics for the general public will open in Los Angeles County Monday, although no decision will be made until Nov. 5 on whether children from 3 to 18 will be given the vaccine.

More than 90,000 elderly and other high-risk persons were vaccinated last week, a lower turnout than health officials had hoped for, but still higher than in other parts of the country.

Woman killed

COLTON (AP) — A 23-year-old Colton woman was found shot to death in an olive grove near the Santa Fe Railroad yards here.

Police said Robin Zamorano apparently had been killed several hours before her body was found. They said they had found no motive for the murder and had no suspects.

On water rate increase

Utilities hearing set

The California Public Utilities Commission will conduct a hearing Nov. 17 in Claremont on an application of the Southern California Water Company for a 17.3 per cent general rate increase for portions of Pomona and other cities in its Pomona Valley District.

The company said the general rate increase request is the first sought since June, 1974 and is equal to an annual revenue increase of $211,600. For the average single family customer the proposed increase would mean 6.8 cents daily or $2.04 on the monthly bill.

The water company serves 7,900 customers in Claremont, Chino, Montclair, Pomona, Upland and in unincorporated areas of Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties.

The hearing on the rate application will open at 10:30 a.m., in the Claremont City Council Chambers, 207 Harvard Street, Claremont.

"The continuing yearly increases in inflation which at times reached double-digit figures since June, 1974 are responsible for the general rate increase request. In addition the Company's application seeks step increases in rates averaging $19,400 or 1.3 per cent annually for 1976 through 1979. These are held necessary to compensate for the still continuing yearly inflationary increases being experienced in the costs of doing business," said Clare Milton, the Pomona district superindendent.

The company also reported its rate increase application could make no forecast on either increases or decreases in a number of items that go into the costs of providing water service. These include purchases water, pumptaxes, energy to deliver the water, labor, postage, and payroll, property and income taxes. Therefore it said its rate application asked that whatever changes were in effect on these costs be included in the rates authorized at the time of the Public Utilities Commission decision.

What's going on around here

Museum tour planned

The Society for Antiquity and Christianity will sponsor a fall tour of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art on Nov. 13.

In addition to the museum's permanent exhibit of ancient art, the special attraction is the Bicentennial exhibit "The World of Franklin and Jefferson." This exhibit, which has appeared in leading museums in this country and Europe, was designed by the Southern California firm of Charles and Ray Eames. A member of its staff, Jeannine Oppewall who assisted in the research and design of the exhibit, has been invited to accompany the tour to provide commentary.

The tour will leave from the Institute for Antiquity and Christianity, Claremont, at 8:45 a.m. and travel by bus to the Museum of Art in Los Angeles. Following the visit to the museum the group will have lunch in Pasadena.

More telephones installed

General Telephone Co. gained 3,880 new telephones in its Pomona-area operation during the third quarter, an increase of 50.8 per cent over the same period last year.

Company-wide, the utility's third-quarter gain was 13 per cent over the same three-month period in 1975.

The Santa Monica based company added 122,099 telephones company-wide by the end of the first nine months of 1976, a pace that will put the utility far ahead of its 1975 total of 130,035 telephones gained, General's best year since 1968.

Traditionally, the third quarter operation sees strong gains due to the influx of college students and families relocating into General's territory prior to the start of school.

At the end of September, General Telephone had 3.2 million telephones in service, including 1.7 million primaries and 1.5 million extensions.

Ministers convocation

Ministers from Southern California will be meeting at the School of Theology at Claremont Friday and Saturday for the 28th annual Ministers' Convocation.

This year's theme is "Renewing America's Vision — The Role of Religion."

Leaders of the convocation include Colin W. Williams, dean of the Yale Divinity School; Cecil L. Murray, minister of the First African Methodist Episcopal Church, Seattle; and the president and dean of the Shoool of Theology at Claremont, Gordon E. Michalson, and Joseph Hough, Jr.

Ministers of all denominations are invited.

Williams and Murray will each present two lectures with opportunity for questions from the ministers.

Afternoon seminars will be conducted by faculty members Rolf Kneirim, "Personal Piety and Universal Responsibility,"; Allen J. Moore, "Recovery of the Teaching Ministry"; and John B. Cobb Jr., "The Holy Spirit in the Contemporary Church."

Lifeline information

Electricity customers of Southern California Edison Co., are asked to fill out the questionnaires in their October bills to notify the utilities if they use electricity to heat their homes and their water, said the California Public Utilities Commission.

If they don't, they may not be able to take full advantage of lifeline rates recently established by the commission.

Edison mailed declaration forms to their customers this fall and has received about 168,000 of the 250,000 expected replies.

Customers using electricity for space and water heating will be eligible for higher lifeline allowances, which over the next few years will mean lower electric bills.

Pursuant to the Miller-Warren Lifeline Act, residential users receive basic minimum amounts of energy at low rates for lighting, cooking, food refrigeration, water heating, and home heating.

New classes

The Blaisdell Institute has a series of classes in Hatha Yoga. Mrs. Doris Martin is the instructor.

Woman kidnaped, robbed

A 28-year-old Montclair woman was kidnapped and robbed of a moderate amount of cash Saturday from in front of Ozzie's Oasis at Kingsley Street and Central Avenue, Montclair.

Montclair police said that Josephine Parrialla was approached by a man and a woman about 11:45 a.m.

The man pulled a knife and ordered Mrs. Parrialla to drive her car around the Claremont and Pomona area for two hours. During the ride, the pair took cash from the woman's purse.

They finally ordered Mrs. Parrialla to stop in front of the Claremont Village Apartments at Arrow Highway and Towne Avenue about 1:30 p.m.

The pair fled on foot, leaving Mrs. Parrialla unharmed.

The man was described as being 19 to 20 years old, of medium height and build and with shoulder-length dirty blond hair. He wore a high school class ring, a dark blue tank top, jeans and desert shoes.

The woman was carrying an infant seat with a black sweater in it. She was about 17 or 18 years old, 5 feet, 1 inch tall, about 100 pounds and wearing a faded white printed blouse and blue jeans.

Burglary

A Montclair man is being questioned by Montclair and Monrovia police detectives in connection with a burglary at the Holiday Motor Lodge, 9191 Central Ave., Montclair, Saturday and several burglaries and an auto theft in Monrovia earlier in the week.

Allen was captured by the officers after a short foot chase.

Allen is being held in West End Jail for police.

Two booked

Two men were booked in the West End Jail in connection with the alleged burglary of an apartment at 115 E. Fourth St., Ontario, early Sunday morning, police reported.

Diegmar Carlo Alsmann, 26, of 222 Wagoner Ave., Claremont, and Stephen Alfred Wouters, 23, of 4833 Kingsley St., Montclair, were arrested by Ontario officer George Stipes shortly after the burglary was reported about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

According to police, a neighbor of the victim, Patty McLeod, 21, of the Fourth Street address called police after she heard noises coming from the nearby apartment.

When police arrived, they found the front door broken down and a number of items, including a television set, jewelry and money missing.

The neighbor managed to get a description of a pickup truck seen leaving the area with a television set in the truck bed.

Stipes spotted the truck and the television set in the area and stopped the suspects.

Marijuana seized near Hearst Castle; 14 held

SAN SIMEON (AP) — Sheriff's deputies said they smashed a major smuggling operation near the Hearst Castle today, arresting 14 men and confiscating about five tons of marijuana worth over $1 million.

San Luis Obispo County Undersheriff Tim Norton said the drug raid was the largest in county history. He predicted more arrests and marijuana seizures.

Sheriff's officials said they also seized four vehicles and a fishing boat in their midnight raid on a hidden cove near the entrance to the famed Hearst Castle here.

Judo club

Nuns learning rape defense

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Why don't you just forget we're sisters — we're women," called out one of the older Roman Catholic nuns in the class, as Franklin County Sheriff's Deputy Larry Greene began his rape defense seminar for 20 nuns at Ohio Dominican College.

"Your attitude has to be geared to that one moment," Greene told the sisters. "It goes against everything you've been taught."

Greene told the nuns a sexual assault is "no longer the simple rape. Rapists now torture, they are highly sadistic. They have a hatred toward women and will try to punish any woman they can."

Greene told the nuns "you're making yourselves vulnerable" by changing dress codes. The Dominican nuns he was addressing wear black and white habits that go well below the knee.

Determined to learn how to defend themselves, most of the women took to the mats, vigorously tossing each other and members of a judo club.

Greene advised the women that if attacked by an armed man, the best idea is to go along until he tries to begin a sexual assault.

At that point, when his face is near, "you have one chance — right in the eyes," Greene said.

"What if it's your luck to get a rapist with glasses? Just glide your fingers up his cheekbones and under the glasses."

Several nuns asked how to protect themselves if attacked while asleep, as was one of their order.

Greene showed the sisters how to throw an intruder off a bed to buy time to get away.

Rapists "don't like to leave witnesses," Greene warned. In any attack, "you have to assume your life is on the line.

"What I'm saying is there are ways out. Panic isn't necessary. And, with a little practice, giving up your life isn't necessary."

Phoenix missile recovered

LONDON (AP) — A U.S. Navy team conquered gale winds and heaving seas Sunday to retrieve a Phoenix missile that fell from an aircraft carrier six weeks ago and plunged to the bottom of the Atlantic off Scotland.

The rough weather prevented raising the F14 Tomcat jet fighter that sank with the highly classified missile off the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy on Sept. 14, the Navy reported. It will be attempted when the sea calms.

Discovery of the jet 10 days ago and Sunday's recovery of the Phoenix put an end to fears, minimized by the Navy, that Soviet ships might snatch the $20 million plane and $515,000 missile.

The missile had a nonnuclear warhead but capture of a Phoenix and F14 would have provided valuable technical data to a potential adversary.

"The important thing is we got it and nobody else has it," a Navy spokesman said. He reported the missile was "intact with only light damage," but it was too early to tell if it could be made useable.

The Phoenix-equipped Tomcat is one of the Navy's major weapons in defending ships against missles and planes.

A small nuclear submarine with a television camera and five crewmen located the 13-foot-long, 15-inch-diameter missile Saturday morning after a search of the muddy bottom that one officer likened to trying to find a needle in a haystack the size of London's 341-acre Hyde Park.

The sub, equipped with portholes so the crew could observe the 1,900-foot-deep ocean floor, extended a remote control arm and grasped the missile in a clam shell-like hand.

Navy divers descended into the icy waters and 10-foot waves 75 miles northwest of Scapa Flow, Scotland, and fixed straps to the missile. It was raised more than one-third of a mile to the surface and hoisted aboard the submarine support vessel Sunbird.

The Phoenix is for use against antiship missiles. An F14 can fire six at a time against separate targets up to 100 miles away. The system is reputed to be highly resistant to jamming.

The sunken Tomcat, which plunged off the Kennedy's flight deck when engine controls malfunctioned during a North Atlantic Treaty Organization maneuver, rests in about 1,500 feet of water about three miles from where the missile was pulled up.

The jet was towed that far last Wednesday when the recovery team was twice able to fix cables to it. But rough seas prevented its being brought to the surface.

House will remain unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House that voters will elect next Tuesday, by all indications, will show about the same party division as its predecessor — overwhelmingly Democratic. But it will not be a carbon copy.

At least one-third of the representatives sworn in next January probably will have not more than two years' previous service.

The outgoing House was split exactly two to one — 290 Democratic seats, 145 Republican.

Election prospect estimates by Democratic and Republican analysts, agree, at least privately, with those by outside estimators within a notably narrow range. Almost without exception, they point to a net shift of few more than a dozen seats, at the most.

Republicans are favored to make a small gain, if only because the post-Watergate election of 1974 swept in an abnormally large Democratic freshman class, some from normally Republican districts.

Newly elected in 1974 and in subsequent special elections to fill vacancies were 79 Democrats and 19 Republicans.

There will be an absolute minimum of 53 new members in the incoming House. That many seats are open because of death, retirement and primary defeat. Almost certainly there will be even more new faces. It is hardly possible that every incumbent seeking re-election will succeed.

So, depending on how the presidential election comes out, Jimmy Carter will be seeking the cooperation of, or President Ford will be confronting, a heavily Democratic House with a proportion of junior members unmatched in recent years.

It could be a yeasty House. The 1974 Democratic freshmen, working with some restless older members, made a major dent in the hallowed seniority system, toppling three committee chairmen and forcing changes in the House's ways of doing business, with the role of the party caucus strengthened.

First-termers are obvious targets when they come up for reelection. But the Democratic powers in the House have worked hard to help their freshmen dig in, emphasizing service to constituents with problems, and arranging for expert coaching in office organization and campaigning. Democratic spokesmen say no more than a handful of the freshmen are seriously threatened.

All 435 House seats are to be voted on Tuesday. But fewer than 100 of the contests are considered strenuous races, in which an incumbent, or the party of a departing member, is in much danger of losing.

Even of these races no more than half are seen as exceptionally tight. Forty-five Democrats and six Republicans have no major party opposition.

Unless the estimators are all wrong — and the extent of their agreement is impressive — the balance of wins and losses in about 50 races will determine the exact makeup of the new House. This would even allow for a few surprises.

Pomona woman escapes fire

Miss Edwina Todd, a retired Navy nurse, escaped unharmed when a fire at her home, 293 Garfield Ave., Pomona, early this morning caused extensive damage.

The fire which did an estimated $8,000 damage to contents and structure appeared to have started in the living room of the single-story structure.

Miss Todd, who just moved into the house Sunday, called Pomona firemen at 5:06 a.m. She then called her sister before leaving the house through the rear door and going to neighbors. Her small dog was also able to escape.

The fire caused extensive damage to the entire house, except for the bedroom in which Miss Todd had been sleeping.

Ontario garage gutted by flames

A fire of undertermined origin gutted a two-car garage adjoining a home at 930 N. Gardenia St., in Ontario causing an estimated $10,000 damage Sunday afternoon.

Firemen responded to the fire about 12:11 p.m. and managed to bring it under control within five minutes.

The home next to the garage sustained minor smoke damage.

Fire inspectors this morning said the fire appeared to have started at the rear of the garage and quickly spread through stored furniture, auto parts and garden tools.

Inspectors were at the scene this morning attempting to learn the origin of the blaze.

Russian move against Press defeated in U.N.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Soviet move to bring a controversial press issue before the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) general conference for an early vote was overwhelmingly defeated today.

The Soviets had demanded that committee discussion over possible amending of the draft declaration on "fundamental principles governing the use of mass media" be limited to two or three days, after which the proposal would automatically go before the full conference.

Western nations believe the declaration would muzzle world press freedom and place the press in many countries under state control.

Especially repugnant to Western nations and press organizations is a Soviet-inspired provision saying that "states are responsible for the activities in the international sphere of all mass media under their jurisdiction."

The Soviet tactic today was aimed at pressing for a quick vote, which the Communists apparently believed would be favorable to their side in view of the voting strength of the third world nations.

However, general sentiment seemed to have been swinging against such a vote at this time and shifting toward a desire to defuse the issue by continuing debate in committee.

When the Soviet proposal to limit committee discussion was put to a vote, it was defeated 70 to 17 with six abstentions. Communist nations of Europe and Asia, as well as Cuba, voted for the Soviet move, with the exception of China, whose delegates voted against it.

In face of this defeat, the Soviets withdrew their proposal.

Among Western officials speaking against the proposed press measure today was Austrian Foreign Minister Willibald Pahr.

"The view has been held that freedom of information has to remain subject to the concept of state sovereignty — a view with which my delegation cannot concur," Pahr told the UNESCO conference.

"We do not exclude that in the course of our deliberations a compromise could be reached," he said. "Such a compromise, however, would have to safeguard the free flow of information and the right to receive and impart information on the one hand and the right of the states, on the other hand."

Reg Prentice, Britain's minister of overseas development, said in rejecting the draft declaration: "In Britain, like many other Western countries, we are firm believers in free speech and freedom of the press. These concepts should be paramount in considering the issue raised as agenda item 69 (the declaration)."

However, Prentice said he favored "strengthening the information infrastructure of developing countries." This referred to proposals calling for establishment of a third world news agency — a move which is not being opposed by Western countries so long as it does not restrict the activities of existing international news agencies.

Tourist motel raided

VICTORIA FALLS, Rhodesia (AP) — Black guerrillas stormed a tourist motel on Saturday night, raking it with machinegun fire and tossing a grenade into a cocktail bar. One white vacationer was killed and two others were wounded, the government said.

The attack on the motel near the Zambian border was one of the most daring raids on a major Rhodesian population center in the battle between nationalist guerrillas and the forces of the white minority government. The motel is popular with tourists visiting Victoria Falls.

Before Saturday's attack, 50 whites had been killed in the four years of fighting.

Black leaders and white Prime Minister Ian Smith are currently attending a conference in Geneva, trying to work out a transfer of power to blacks, who outnumber whites by 6.4 million to 278,000.

Some black leaders have vowed the guerrilla war will continue despite the talks.

I couldn't believe my eyes, gentlemen...

at 2:30 a.m. this morning when I read your letter addressed to "Dear Republican Friend," endorsing Jim Lloyd for re election to Congress. And I couldn't sleep the rest of the night. When I got up I hopes I'd been having a nightmare and it would disappear, but it was still there.

Sure Jim Lloyd is a charmer, but if charm is to be the deciding criterion for a Congressman, then his wife Jackie should be our representative in Congress for she's even more charming than Jim! Sure Jim has put together a very responsive and professional staff in Washington and in the field. So have the 70 odd other Watergate freshmen democrats who were swept in during the 1974 Congressional disaster. And they've had a lot of help from AFL-CIO COPE since just as they have in their campaigns.

As the old pro says, "Let's take a look at the record." Jim has a 92% COPE rating. Only 8% of the time has he voted for anything other than COPE. Is this the pattern which you really want to perpetuate in our representation in Congress? On the other hand Jim has a 25% rating from Americans for Constitutional Action. Is this consistent with your views? Jim has consistently voted to override the President's vetos of wild spending legislation. Had the President's vetos not been sustained, his votes would have resulted in $220 billions of additional budget deficits in the next two years. Is this what you seek in endorsing Jim's re-election? Jim is consistent. He voted against Congressman John Rousselot's bill to require a balanced budget in peacetime. I can't believe that this voting record is what you seek in a Congressman.

Sure Louis Brutocao is abrasive. I don't like the tenor of his campaign rhetoric. I don't even like his useage of the English language. Using "duplicity" for "duplication" for example. I didn't like his sitting on his hands during the 1974 Veysey campaign, hoping for Vic to lose so he could run in '76. But I do like his political philosophy. Louis is deeply disturbed by the trend of things towards a socialized government in his native Canada. He can see the pattern of Mother England being repeated there and, with voting like Jim Lloyd's, it's coming here only too soon. If George Meany himself had written the script himself, he couldn't have done a better job than you to turn the Elephant Party into the Lemming Party.

Skiers protest Mt. Baldy land preserve

A controversy is developing over whether land high in the Angeles National Forest should be left primitive and preserved as a sheep mountain wilderness or developed as a ski resort to expand Southern California's recreational area.

The land is owned by the U.S. Forest Service and situated northeast of the valley and extends from the top of Mt. Baldy down the northeast face of the mountain.

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., siding with conservationists and particularly the Sierra Club, has succeeded in obtaining Presidential approval for a two-year feasibility study into the possibility of having a 52,000-acre area declared mountain wilderness for the protection of Big Horn sheep.

Charles Lewsadder, owner and operator of the Mt. Baldy Ski Lifts (under his company, Western Resorts, Inc.), along with two skiing clubs, objects vigorously to this action.

They would have no quarrel, Lewsadder said, if the northeast face of Mt. Baldy, an area extending about one mile downhill and 4,000 feet wide, were not included in the wilderness.

However, it is, and Lewsadder has a map with lines drawn to prove his point.

Siding with Lewsadder are members of the Woodstock Ski Club of Covina, and the Far West Ski Association which, he said, draws membership from throughout the country.

Lloyd, Lewsadder claims, has "lied to us. This is the first time I have ever been involved with a politician who has so misled me," he added.

Lewsadder claims Lloyd switched sides, that originally he was with the skiers. "I don't know whether we can win," said Lewsadder, "but we're in this fight all the way. I think Lloyd is misleading the people deliberately."

Lloyd could not be reached Saturday for comment. However, when he reported that the President had signed the bill funding the wilderness study, he said, "We can now begin a two-year study which will emphasize public input to determine if this area should be granted wilderness status."

Lloyd added that "it is extremely important to get the viewpoints of all groups that have an interest in this area, especially those concerned with ski areas nearby."

He said he did not want to see ski areas at Mt. Baldy or Wrightwood threatened because their recreational value to thousands of Californians.

"The need to preserve this rugged and naturally beautiful terrain is also vitally important to the millions of people who live within a two-hour drive, and for the preservation of the endangered Big Horn sheep living there," he added.

Lloyd said he would announce public hearing schedules as soon as dates are set.

Lewsadder opened the Mt. Baldy resort in 1969. He operates two lifts which take riders from Stockton Flats to the notch. He long has been interested in developing the third lift on the northeast face of Mt. Baldy, he said, and at one time had permission from the Forest Service to begin preliminary studies on the project. However, he said, "the Forest Service has renigged, and now will not admit that permission ever was granted."

Lewsadder said he and the ski club members feel the only reason the wilderness study is being undertaken is "to block the expansion of skiing areas in Southern California."

Actually, Lewsadder explained, "there is no conflict between sheep and skiing. "Sheep go where there is vegetation. Skiers stay away from vegetation," he said.

The ironic part of the whole wilderness proposal, Lewsadder added, is that "the Mt. Baldy hiking trail, which borders the northeast slope of Mt. Baldy, is excluded from the wilderness area. If hikers may go beside the area, why not skiers?" he asked.

Lewsadder calls the situation "the last stand for skiers. This is the last place left in Southern California where skiing could expand. It is beautiful, a natural area for skiing. It could, if developed, accommodate 10,000 skiers a day. It is only 90 minutes from downtown Los Angeles. It's high, 8,000 to 10,000 foot elevation, and would be higher than anything in Southern California," he said.

Hiking trails

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Ouachita National Forest in Arkansas and Oklahoma contains a number of short hiking trails, many of which are educational as well as recreational.

A one-mile loop at Walnut Creek, for example, interprets forest land use, passing through 55 species of plant life. At Crystal Recreation Area another one-mile trail will have markers describing a hardwood forest and a jumble of rocks through which it passes.

Other routes include a three-mile Youth Conservation Corps trail and still another one-mile loop that has markers dealing with the relationships between plant and animal life.

MERIT!

'Enriched Flavor'™ process prompts unprecedented response to taste of low tar MERIT.

Smokers are talking about a new kind of cigarette.

It's MERIT. The remarkable low tar cigarette made with the 'Enriched Flavor'™ process.

MERIT has only 9 mg. tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today. Yet, taste tests proved that MERIT delivers as much—or more—flavor than cigarettes having up to 60% more tar.

If you smoke, you'll be interested in what people like yourself are writing to us about MERIT.

"I bought one package and was so surprised at the true taste of good tobacco."

—Mrs. Marjorie H. Belanger
Oxnard, California

"For years I was convinced you couldn't have low tar and taste. Thanks for proving me wrong."

—F. W. Hammerschmidt
Amityville, Long Island, New York

"I have tried your MERIT MENTHOL and you have sold me."

—Mary Felix
Miami Beach, Florida

"Finally, a good tasting cigarette low in tar and nicotine. And you feel like you're smoking something besides air."

—Susan Wilmington
Chicago, Illinois

"With great hesitancy, I tried your new low tar cigarette. I am happy to report that MERIT is a satisfying smoke. You have a confirmed MERIT smoker in me."

—Linda Harvey
Bronx, New York

"Thank you so very much for making a pleasing low tar and nicotine cigarette. I enjoy cigarettes again."

—Ed H. Bourne, Jr.

"I had tried just about all the low tar cigarettes on the market and did not care for any of them. So I tried a MERIT, found the taste very mild, enjoyed the cigarette and have been smoking them ever since."

—Mrs. Helen Shuyler
Winter Haven, Florida

"I have just tried your new MERIT cigarette and 'Bingo'! This is really the first low tar cigarette that I can taste. You have a regular customer on this end."

—James E. Yates, Jr.
Johnson City, Tennessee

"Thanks a lot for a cigarette that tastes like a cigarette instead of a lettuce leaf."

—Linda Taylor
Buffalo, Texas

"I read your ad, decided to try what I thought was just another gimmick, and was surprised. The taste is better than any low-tar cigarette I've ever smoked."

—Paul Burt
Stirling, New Jersey

"Thanks so much for a terrific tasting low tar cigarette! I've switched!!!"

—Ms. Maryann Griffin
Kennesaw, Georgia

"Thank you, thank you, thank you .... I have tried other brands but have never come across anything quite like MERIT."

—Ms. Tana S. Goodman
Whittier, California

"Believe me, the taste of MERIT supersedes other low tar cigarettes. It is not only mild, but good tasting. I love them."

—Mrs. Ethel Carnegie
Washington, D.C.

"When MERIT was advertised I tried it and what a surprise I got. It's hard to believe that such a cigarette could deliver such a rich flavor and taste."

—Jerry Lee Lowry
Indianapolis, Indiana

"MERIT is fantastic! I'd smoke it even if it wasn't low in tar and nicotine."

—Justine Ann Biele
Eastchester, New York

"Thank you for making the biggest breakthrough in smoking in all the years I have smoked. The taste and pleasure I get from MERIT is unbelievable."

—Marc A. Nolan

"For the past 10 years I have been trying to find a smokeable low tar and nicotine cigarette. It only took one pack of MERIT to convert me."

—Mrs. Virginia Peyton Kirk
Havre de Grace, Maryland

"Saw a MERIT billboard: 'Low tar—Enriched Flavor'. Thought I'd try it. It's a fantastic cigarette! You have created a winner."

—Ira Goren
Tamarac, Florida

"Congratulations! You have managed to retain the quality of the flavor while reducing the tar and nicotine to very low levels."

—Laura Luther
El Segundo, California

"The name MERIT was perfectly warranted. A good thing is hard to find in this day and age, but you sure came up with a winner in my book."

—Mr. Kenneth R. Wilson
Akron, Ohio

"I can't tell you how shocked I was that Merit was really a low tar cigarette that really had flavor."

—Mrs. Judith Pietras
Streamwood, Illinois

"I asked an acquaintance for a cigarette and received a surprise—MERIT MENTHOL. I would like to thank you for adding taste to Menthol."

—Frank Winebrenner
York, Pennsylvania

"My husband brought home a pack of 'MERIT Filters' and told me to try one. I did—it was good. Had a nice, mild taste. I loved it."

—Mrs. Laurie Mack

85 Valley precincts are equipped to accommodate wheelchair voters

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Eighty-five of the 185 voting precincts on the Los Angeles County side of the valley will be equipped with wider booths to accommodate wheelchair-bound voters, Supervisor Peter Schabarum announced today.

The booths, first used at 500 polling places throughout the county in the June 8 primaries, are wider than the ones now in use everywhere else, he said.

They have adjustable shelves on which the vote recorders are housed and have enough space at the bottom to serve as footrests for the wheelchairs.

Thirty-two of the special booths are being installed in Pomona for next Tuesday's elections. In Claremont, 21 precincts will be equipped, while 13 precincts in San Dimas, nine in La Verne, six in Diamond bar and four in Walnut will have the special accommodations.

Schabarum said the installation of the special booths is part of the county's ongoing program of making active participation in the voting process as conveninet as possible for handicapped persons.

The supervisor also called attention to a new state law which permits precinct officers to take voting materials outside polling places so that handicapped voters can cast their ballots more easily. This is reserved for polling places where there is no easy access to the booths.

Polling place notification sheets sent to all voters earlier this month indicate whether their precincts have the wider booths. Those which do carry the international symbol of accessibility — a figure in a wheelchair — with the notation of "yes."

Those who want to check further may call their own city halls or the office of the county registrar-recorder, (213) 974-6707.

Scientists find long-lost Egyptian queen mummy

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Matching hair samples and X rays, scientists have found the long-lost mummy of King Tut's grandmother, Queen Tiye, one of ancient Egypt's most prominent royal personages.

An international team of scientists made the announcement Wednesday at the University of Michigan, describing at a news conference how they had identified a previously unnamed mummy as the lost queen.

Dr. James E. Harris, who headed the team, said the discovery was confirmed when electron probe analysis showed that a snip of the mummy's hair matched a lock of hair preserved 3,500 years in a miniature gold casket with Queen Tiye's name on it.

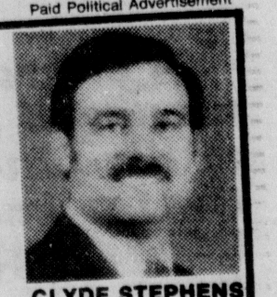

The minicasket was found in the tomb of her grandson, King Tutankhamen, which was opened in 1922.

Further confirmation of the queen's identity came by applying computer technology to profile X rays of the mummy's skull and comparing it with other royal mummies, Harris said.

What's going on in the Valley

Photo program

A photographer from Riverside will be guest at Pomona Valley Camera Club Thursday 7:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church Pomona.

Patrick B. Cooney will present two color slide programs "Canyonland" and "How to Make Titles for Travelogue."

Cooney, exhibitor, lecturer and naturalist photographer specializes in photographing birds and insects.

He has served two terms as president of the Victoria Camera Club of Riverside and vice president and president of the Wind and Sun Council.

As a public service, the Pomona Valley Camera Club is offering slide programs free of charge to rest homes, senior citizens clubs as well to other organizations. The members of the club will put on the programs. For details, phone 628-3348.

New FMC sweeper

A new filtered air sweeper, the Wayne Model 72 has been introduced by FMC's sweeper plant in Pomona. The sweeper is a self-contained filtered air sweeper which mounts on a standard pickup truck chassis. An auxiliary power module positioned directly behind the pickup cab, powers the totally independent sweeping system.

It sweeps with high velocity air to clean streets, parking lots, aircraft ramps, industrial plant roads or any large paved surface. It keeps areas clean of general litter, including dust, dirt, small rocks, cans and bottles. The exclusive air control and filtering system are designed so no water is required to sweep virtually dust-free.

Sailing class starts

The La Verne Recreation Department will be offering a course in navigation starting Nov. 9.

The classes are held each Tuesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the conference room above the police station. The fee is $7 for eight lessons for persons 12 years old and older.

Registration is being accepted at the La Verne recreation office, 2039 Third Street, La Verne. This program is in cooperation with the U.S. Coast Guard. All registration must be made and paid prior to the start of the class.

Radio classes

A class leading to an amateur radio license will be held Wednesday nights at the Heathkit building, 1555 N. Orange Grove Ave., Pomona, beginning Jan. 5. Sessions will start at 7 p.m.

Persons who complete the 10 week course will be awarded the novice license, allowing them to communicate with other operators across the street or around the world. Nearly 300,000 persons in the U.S. are licensed amateurs.

The sign up session is Wednesday. For further information, contact Ray Shannon, 750 W. Bonita, Claremont, 91711, telephone 621-1966.

Special conference

A special conference for parents, teachers, nurses and others who deal with asthmatic children has been scheduled Nov. 9, at the City of Hope Medical Center Duarte, by the Lung Association of Los Angeles County, the Christmas Seal agency.

Speaker at the 7:30 p.m. event will be pediatric allergist Dr. Roger M. Katz, according to Lung Association San Gabriel-Pomona Valley Regional council chairman Mrs. Jerry Welker of Azusa.

The conference is free to the public.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Christmas Seal office at 332-3442.

Upland slide show

"Canada East" is the title of a slide show tour to be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Willis Fackler Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the mulitpurpose room of Upland Public Library.

The public is welcome to the free show.

Mr. and Mrs. Fackler are a photographic team who like to share their researched travels through slides and movies. They are members of the Los Angeles 8mm Movie Club, the Los Angeles Cinema Club, the Pomona Valley Camera Club and the Euclid Avenue Camera Club.

Their slide show is presented with taped narration and appropriate music.

New hospital board

Charles R. Cook of West Covina, president of the C.R. Ford Tractors, Baldwin Park, has been elected president of the Covina Inter-Community Hospital board of trustees.

Cook replaces Gale O. Stafford who served as president this past year.

Other officers elected by the board were Rodney A. Baker, West Covina, vice president, and John R. Runmey, Baldwin Park, treasurer. Also elected to the executive board was William C. Leech, Covina. Dr. Mayer Blatt, president of the medical staff, will serve on the executive board as well as John D. Williams, hospital administrator, who serves as secretary.

New members to the board include Anthony La Fetra, Glendora; James R. Mulligan, City of Industry; Dr. Miguel A. Garcia and Dr. Jay I. Mulder, Covina; Mrs. Russell Teall, West Covina, past president of the auxiliary, and Fredric R. Kutner, Covina, president-elect of the medical staff.

Continuing board members are Mrs. Norman Keidel, William L. McIntyre Jr., and Dr. Charles W. Higgins immediate past president of the medical staff, all of Covina; Leo C. Nasser, Azusa; Dr. Donald S. Auten, San Dimas; Alfred Munoz, Hacienda Heights; and M.J. (Mel) Young, West Covina.

TWA to the East Coast.

Six reasons why TWA is your best choice from Ontario.

1. Save an hour's drive.
There's no need to drive to Los Angeles International Airport because TWA departs conveniently from Ontario Airport.

2. Early morning scheduling.
TWA's 7:50 am flight gets you to the East in plenty of time for dinner and a good night's sleep, relaxed for the next day's work.

3. Widebody 1011s.
TWA's early morning flight connects in Los Angeles to big, comfortable widebody 1011s for your non-stop flight.

4. One-stop check-in.
Your luggage is checked and your boarding pass and seat assignment are issued to you in Ontario, so you can just breeze through the airport in Los Angeles.

5. TWA'S Night Coach saves you 20%.
TWA's 10:40 pm 1011 Night Coach service connects in Los Angeles to Chicago and on to Boston, and saves you 20% off the regular airfare.

6. Many other Domestic and International connections.
Only TWA can fly you to 22 cities in the U.S. and 8 cities in Europe via Los Angeles.

With all these reasons to fly TWA to the East, why fly anybody but TWA?

So call your Travel Agent or TWA for the best flights East.

TWA from Ontario:
U.S.: Albuquerque, Amarillo, Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Harrisburg, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Louisville, New York, Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Phoenix, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Tulsa, Washington, D. C., Wichita.
Europe and Middle East: Athens, Barcelona, Cairo, London, Madrid, Malaga, Paris, Rome.

Thieves take 2 submachine guns

BERLIN (AP) — Thieves stole two police submachine guns from a locked weapons case built into a locked patrol car inside a locked precinct parking lot, West Berlin police said Monday.

They said the unknown robbers also got away with eight clips of ammunition loaded with a total of 200 rounds.

"Nothing else was stolen," a spokesman declared, adding it appeared the thieves specifically sought to steal the two rapid firing guns.

The patrol car was left parked Sunday night in the police lot in a quiet residential district. The robbery occurred while the two officers assigned to the car were inside the precinct house on a break, police said.

Officials said they suspect two persons were involved in the theft and that the thieves apparently climbed over a fence to get at the car and the weapons left locked up inside.

Shays rebel

Capt. Daniel Shays led an unsuccessful insurrection against Massachusetts because of economic conditions in 1786.

PITCHING IN — President Armen Sarafian of La Verne College pitches in to spruce up the campus during an all-day clean-up campaign. The college president felt that the grounds and buildings needed some renovation so he called off all classes for one day and the entire faculty and student body took up rakes, shovels and paint brushes to give the campus a new look.

Drinking hazardous to hearing

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Warning: a University of Utah professor of audiology has determined that drinking may be hazardous to your ears.

Martin Robinette said results of a six-week study he conducted at Wayne State University show the stapedius muscle of the middle ear, which normally contracts to protect the eardrum from loud noises, doesn't operate as well when a person is tipsy.

In the sessions of the study where alcohol was used, subjects suffered a greater amount of temporary damage to hearing ability, Robinette said.

The tests showed, he said, "a person has a greater risk of hearing loss from noise when there is alcohol in the system."

SPEED READING COURSE

TO BE TAUGHT HERE IN POMONA ONTARIO AREA

POMONA ONTARIO AREA — (Spec.) Golden State Reading Lab will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the Pomona Ontario area.

This recently developed method of instruction is the most innovative and effective program available in the United States.

Not only does this famous course reduce your time in the classroom to just one class per week for 4 short weeks, but it also includes an advanced speed reading course on cassette tape so that you can continue to improve for the rest of your life.

If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's, or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's ever-changing, accelerating world, then this course is an absolute necessity.

In a few months, some students are reading 20-30 times faster, attaining speeds that approach 6000 words per minute.

Our average graduate should read 7-10 times faster upon completion of the courses with marked improvement in comprehension and concentration.

For thos who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.

These free meetings will be held at the following times and locations:

Here are the facts:

- Jim's voting record has been moderate and independent, to the disappointment of self-serving interests . . .
- Jim's franking privilege has not been abused — the last allowable Congressional newsletter wasn't even sent, and $739.05 was returned to the House of Representatives postage account.
- Jim's campaign funding has come from a broad base of people — doctors, dentists, teachers, laborers, small businessmen, political action groups, senior citizens, retirees, farmers, Congressional colleagues. No one "owns" him.
- The sale of Lloyds Public Relations was absolutely legal — we have no financial interest whatsoever in the business.

Seminar 'toughens' seniors

SEATTLE (AP) — Senior citizens are more than "no-deposit no-return bottles you just throw away," says a retired union organizer who's helping the elderly form a statewide lobby to make demands on the legislature.

"It's a sign of the times: Senior citizens aren't about to crawl away and die," said 55year-old Norm Schut in an interview.

"It's the same way the kids got together in Detroit and formed gangs," said retired teacher Frances Mayhew, a trainee in Schut's tough, practical school. "It's getting together with your own kind to meet your own needs."

Schut is teaching 10 seminars around the state this fall for representatives of senior citizen groups and retiree organizations.

He plans to form a statewide coordinating council — a unified voice to take on the 1977 legislature. It also will keep records of legislative voting and attempt to influence 1978 elections.

The council will ask the legislature to provide state aid for local programs for the elderly, including hot meals and health care, tax breaks, cost-of-living increases for retirees, subsidized housing and cheap transportation.

"We've been accepting inferiority and are no longer willing to accept that status," said Oscar Hearde, a member of the state Elder Citizens Coalition board.

Another trainee of Schut's is a woman who's looking for a cheaper apartment for an elderly friend on a fixed income.

"She's one reason I'm glad I'm learning this whole process," the trainee said. "In the past, it's been pretty much a big mystery. I'm learning you can't stand alone. We've got to work together."

Schut said that "like it or not, we have a government of pressure groups. If you want to achieve the goals of any cause, you need to successfully 'work' the political process as a pressure group."

State sets record straight on minimum wage, overtime

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State officials, saying there's confusion about the new $2.50 minimum wage and other new work orders, have issued a compilation of court actions — just to keep the record straight.

Donald Vial, state director of industrial relations, issued a statement Wednesday saying the average employer who wants to live up to his legal obligations is being confused by the court challenges of a few employer organizations.

State Labor Commissioner James L. Quillin said cases have been filed in six counties.

The superior courts in five counties have issued temporary stays, Quillin said. One of those, in Kings County, temporarily stayed enforcement of all provisions — including the minimum wage — in the transportation industry and the amusement and recreation industry.

But Quillin said otherwise, the $2.50 minimum wage and time-and-a half after 40 hours a week are being enforced for all industries and occupational groups.

The other four actions, which stayed only certain work rules in other industries, were described as follows:

—Orange County Superior Court temporarily stayed enforcement of nearly all provisions — except the $2.50 minimum wage and overtime pay after 40 hours a week — for these industries: Manufacturing; canning, freezing, and preserving; professional, technical, clerical, mechanical, and similar occupations; and industries handling products after harvest.

—Kern County Superior Court temporarily stayed enforcement of overtime provisions for industries handling products after harvest, for industries preparing agricultural products for market on the farm, and for agricultural occupations.

—San Francisco County Superior Court accepted a petition to stay enforcement of the section setting meal and lodging values in the state Industrial Welfare Commission's order for the public housekeeping industry, which includes restaurants and hotels.

—Monterey County Superior Court temporarily stayed provisions of commission orders applying to lettuce-wrapping machines operated by one employer.

Senior senator has doubts about surviving election

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "I suppose," says embattled U.S. Sen. Vance Hartke, "that in the realm of politics there are the winners, there are the losers and then there are those of us they call the survivors. I'm probably one of them."

It wasn't always that way for the 57-year-old Democratic incumbent.

Hartke was elected to the Senate in 1958 when he defeated Gov. Harold Handley by 242,000 votes. Six years later, he was re-elected by a healthy margin of 186,000 votes.

But in 1970, Hartke squeaked by Richard Roudebush by less than 5,000 votes and, this year, in his bid for a fourth term, the incumbent is considered an underdog against former Indianapolis Mayor Richard G. Lugar.

Hartke is known for his aggressive political style, one that includes numerous, sharp accusations against adversaries. This year, Hartke has also alluded to his precarious political position and, on occasion, even talked of past errors.

Winding up his presentation at a recent joint appearance with Lugar, Hartke said, for example: "I've been here a long time. I've made mistakes."

And then there is the Hartke radio spot that contains this section:

Announcer: "Ever hear (someone say) Vance Hartke's abrasive? (Pause). Sure. He's got to be. He's tough..."

If Hartke is tough, so are the political problems he faces.

Last January, the Congressional Quarterly linked Hartke's past political success to "good timing" and listed him as "vulnerable" to defeat.

The nonpartisan publication said Hartke's re-election in 1970 was a function of Roudebush's ineffective campaign and added: "For the 1976 election, it is questionable whether Hartke has built up his political strength. Several Indiana sources think he is weaker than ever."

Of Lugar, the publication concluded: "Lugar's reputation as 'Richard Nixon's favorite mayor' was a major drawback in his race in 1974 against (Sen. Birch) Bayh.

Can a man no longer trusted by the Co-Chairman of his National Steering Committee be trusted by you?

California State Finance Chairman Herb Hafif escorts Carter throughout the crowd on the night of the largest single fund-raiser of the Carter campaign.

About the Author

Herb Hafif was selected by the American Trial Bar as the nation's outstanding Consumer Advocate in 1972. He formed the first Environmental and Consumer Protection Committees in the history of the California Trial Bar. He set up the first Womens Rights Committees, led Los Angeles County Blue Ribbon Committees on Court Congestion. He served as president of the California Trial Lawyers Association, was co-founder of the first Mental Health groups in the State of California and was a 1974 Democratic candidate for Governor of California.

A personal warning about Jimmy Carter

By Herbert Hafif

(The former California State Finance Chairman and Co-Chairman of the CARTER NATIONAL STEERING COMMITTEE)

Man's hardest act is to admit his mistakes. It is thus even harder for the Co-Chairman of the Carter National Steering Committee to publicly admit his mistaken support of Jimmy Carter.

I, together with so many of the friends who supported my 1974 campaign for the Democratic California Gubernatorial nomination, gave up our personal lives, our funds, and a good deal of our hearts in a successful effort to get the Democratic Presidential nomination for a man we believed represented a decent new force in responsive government.

Our support was strong enough not to note the mounting evidence that the Carter record and the promises did not quite match the image. We blindly ignored the revelations of Stephen Brill in Harpers, on Carter's traits of ruthlessness and the racist nature of the Georgian's 1970 gubernatorial campaign. Even when fellow Georgian Julian Bond publicly and often said our Jimmy lied, we plowed forward.

We disregarded exposure of the Carter record in Georgia where state employees rose 30% and spending rose over 50% in a single term. And when the editor of the Atlanta Constitution called our Jimmy "one of the four phoniest men I've ever known," we were already too deeply involved in our effort to believe.

We at the top, after all, were being personally reassured by the candidate himself who spoke publicly of never lying, who promised to conduct a campaign of love and compassion.

It was thus a greater shock for us to finally see a slipping Jimmy Carter become a mean, vindictive man, using language and tactics designed to destroy the integrity and person of Gerald Ford, when attacking Ford's policies should have provided target enough.

But lost in the disgust over such tactics lies the real truth about Jimmy Carter, and his campaign, a truth that I now feel compelled to speak to, and that is the real purpose of this open letter.

It is painful to spend over $8,000 of my personal funds to confess publicly, and in print, that I was wrong, but I keep thinking that if only one of the high-ranking Republicans who knew what Richard Nixon was really like, had sacrificed their personal advantage and party loyalty, the rest of us might have been spared the taint of the Nixon presidency.

I am a Democrat, and I would like to see a Democratic President, but I am now convinced that it would be a disaster if that Democratic President was Jimmy Carter. The reason of course, is not because he has promised all things to all people, nor is it because I witnessed such things as his private scheming to get farmers' money in California during the primary, only to see his change of position to get the farm worker vote after the primary, but rather the reason is because of one very important fact that most have ignored — independent of character flaws, the man is simply not capable by experience or ability to be President of this country.

Perhaps we have become conditioned to deviousness and deceit in politicians. Perhaps we can now swallow lustful ambition for public office. Perhaps we can pragmatically countenance a hypocritical man who would be our "saviour," when all we are looking for is a President, but can we accept the fact that this man and his small Nixon-like crew have neither the knowledge nor the background to run a broad-based, responsible presidency?

It will not be the Democratic party which runs this country, but rather a small clique of people, even more narrowly motivated and far less experienced than the Nixon crew. Hidden behind the smiles and hang-loose joking of the small Carter team is the fact that it is a team experienced only in campaigning with no higher goal, save getting their man the Presidency.

More even than Nixon, here is a man and organization that confuses dissent with disloyalty.

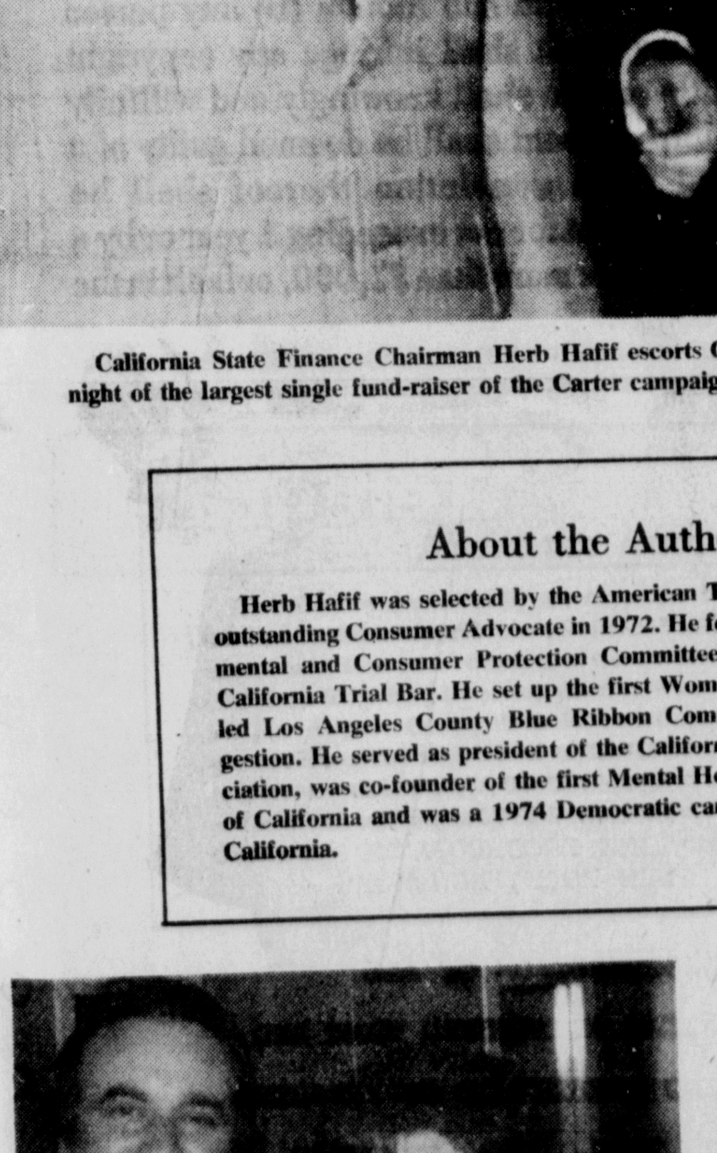

In response to private criticism of staff racism and intolerance, Carter's response is to get rid of the messengers whether they live in California or Ohio. It is no accident that what TIME'S Hugh Sidey called Carter's "seige mentality" on the press is also applied to members of the Democratic party. Everyone is an "outsider" to these people.

In the same way that Nixon ignored the Republican party, Carter has ignored the Democratic party. Good people like California Democratic officials Chuck Manat and Dick O'Neill are given titles but no delegated authority. It is no different for other outstanding Democratic leaders. A man who refuses to delegate even minor authority to good and honorable people, is a man who cannot run a country. Twenty-nine year old "old boys" from Georgia, jealously guarding the palace gates of power are more than reminiscent of Nixon's style, they constitute its substance.

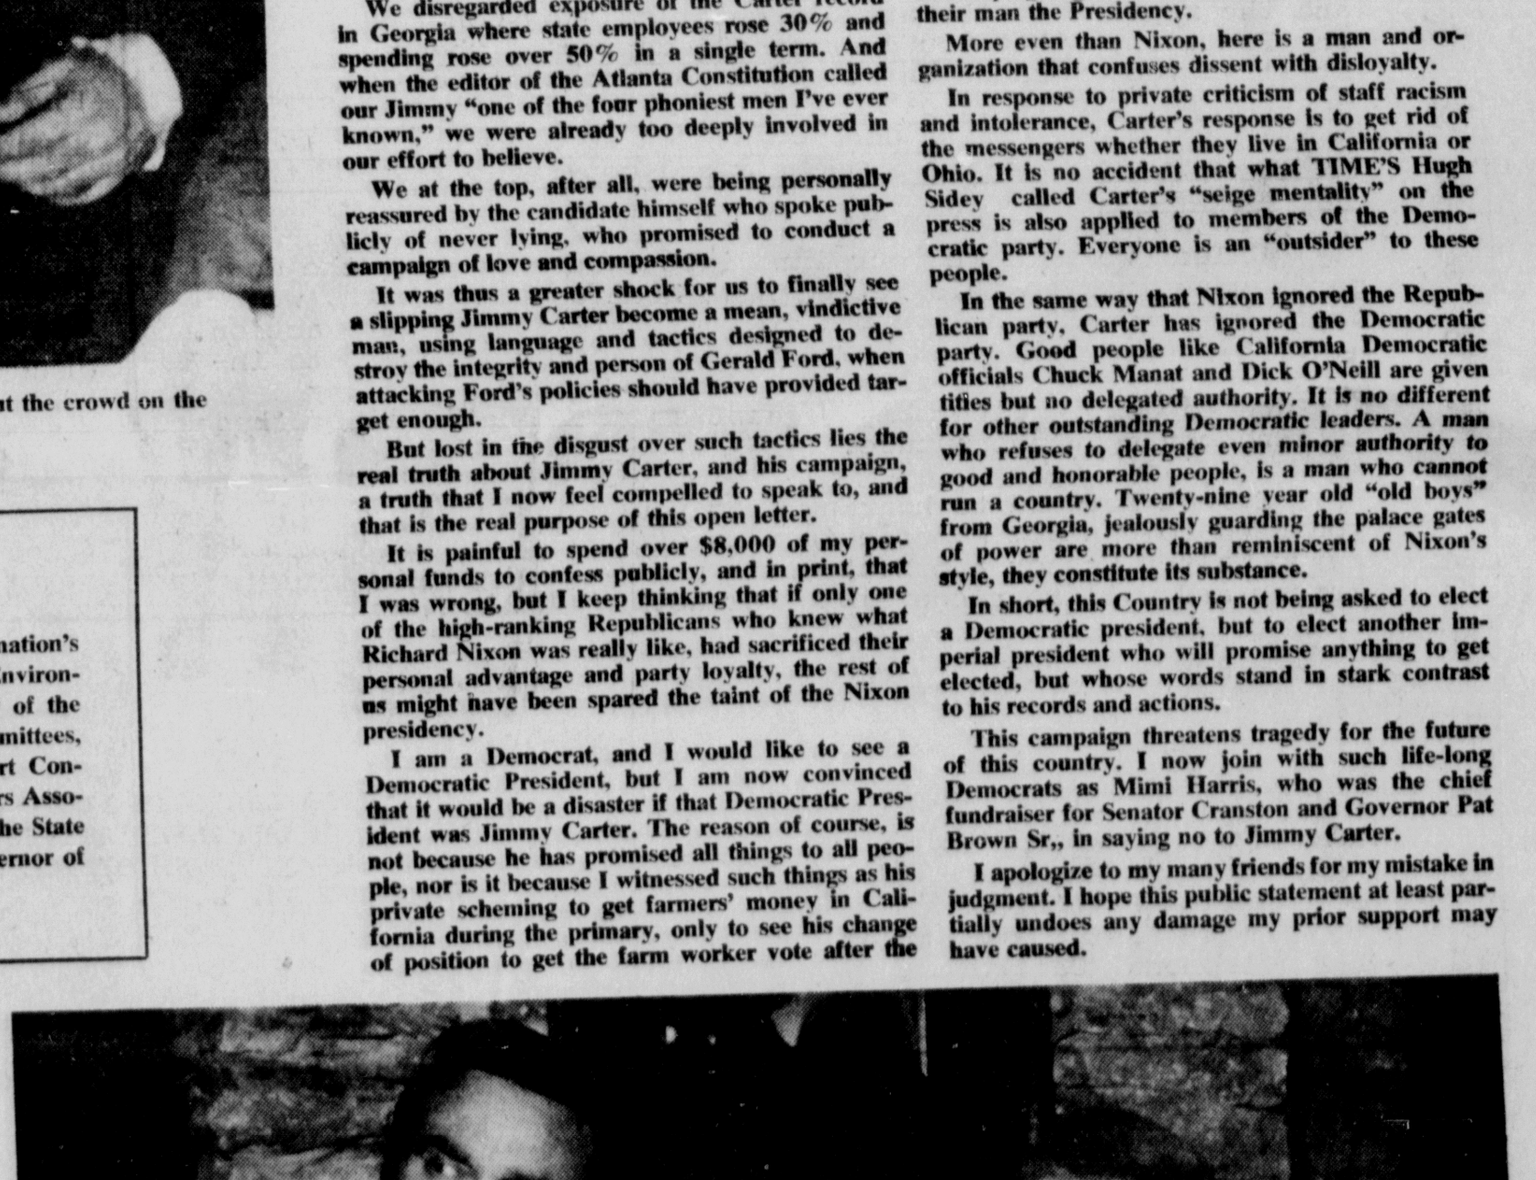

In short, this Country is not being asked to elect a Democratic president, but to elect another imperial president who will promise anything to get elected, but whose words stand in stark contrast to his records and actions.

This campaign threatens tragedy for the future of this country. I now join with such life-long Democrats as Mimi Harris, who was the chief fundraiser for Senator Cranston and Governor Pat Brown Sr,, in saying no to Jimmy Carter.

I apologize to my many friends for my mistake in judgment. I hope this public statement at least partially undoes any damage my prior support may have caused.

Herb Hafif and Rosalynn Carter complete a two-day campaign swing during the California primary.

Herb Hafif meets with a smiling Carter on the night Hafif and several key Carter supporters discuss the growing isolation of the candidate and disturbing hints of racism and disregard of minority positions in the Carter campaign. Smiles and compliments flow — Hafif promised a meeting with Hamilton Jordan to devise a more responsive national campaign structure for the general election — a promise to be broken within three days.

Lloyd Admits Staff Violated Copyright

Brutocao Aide Charges Time Magazine Conspired to Break U.S. Election Law

By ROLLAND BARNES
Tribune Staff Writer

WEST COVINA — Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th, of West Covina, has admitted that members of his re-election committee violated a Time Magazine copyright by using the periodical's name and cover format on a Lloyd brochure.

The charge was made by Stan Harper, executive director of the (Louis) Brutocao for Congress Committee, in a letter to the Federal Elections Commission, in which he also charges Time violated federal election laws by allowing Lloyd to use the logo and format.

Big government, spending issues in 33rd district

Clawson cites bill on reform

DEL CLAWSON

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

"I want to return to Congress because I have a lot of unfinished business," said Rep. Del Clawson, R-33rd Congressional District, now seeking election to an eighth term in the House.

"Part of this unfinished business is our reform bill which will put Congress in a better position to control regulatory agencies which have been encroaching on private business. Businessmen are having a hard time complying with bureauracy of government.

"And, we need a whole new budget process. We've got to stop deficit spending or the United States could find itself in the same fiscal situation as New York City.

"If we continue these deficit spending programs, as laudable as they may be, we're going to find ourself bankrupt. The whole system could collapse.

"I want to see fiscal responsibility and a balanced budget.

"I'm also very concerned about our energy resources. We now are more dependent on foreign petroleum than ever before. We have failed to relieve domestic production from the rigid controls which keep them from exploring any resources we still may have in petroleum. Our whole economy is dependent on petroleum.

"If the foreign oil-producing countries should boycott us today our whole country would come to a standstill.

"We must develop new sources of power, including nuclear, solar and thermal. We need to use the coal available to us today. All of these things the federal government has a hand in today, and we need to use that hand in a productive way, rather than burden the private sector.

"We have already found a way to convert dirty coal into clean gas. We ought to be using every means at our command to do this. We have an almost 500-year supply of coal on hand now.

"And finally," said Clawson, "we need to get Congress and the executive branch of government streamlined and do away with all the duplication that is taking place, reduce the size of government.

"We cannot do that without a complete structural reform. This was tried three or four years ago and we failed to get it through Congress. We hope to accomplish this next session, with the help of our Democraticc colleagues on the other side of the isle."

He was born in Thatcher, Ariz., on Jan. 11, 1914.

The 33rd Congressional District serves Diamond Bar, Walnut, Whittier, La Mirada, Norwalk, Santa Fe Springs and Downey.

There are 197,612 registered voters in the district of whom 53.9 per cent are Democrats and 40.6 per cent are Republicans.

Snyder calls for efficiency

"We need to make government more efficient," said Ted Snyder, Whittier Democrat seeking the 33rd Congressional District seat in Tuesday's election.

"Government has grown bigger, but not better. We need to begin toapply sound management techniques to achieve governmental efficiency.

"A part of achieving that efficiency includes the need to plan comprehensively on a long-range basis. This is a major thing in my campaign.

"I have said from the start that our real emphasis in this district will be the issue of the effectiveness of our representation in the House.

"My opponent has not served the interests of the kinds of communities we have in the 33rd District. Accountability ought to be one of the basics of our elective process in our democracy."

Snyder feels that jobs, taxes and inflation are issues the voters are most anxious about.

"Every citizen who wants to work should have the right to a job. We cannot tolerate nearly eight million Americans out of work," Snyder said.

"Unemployment costs more than we can afford to pay out in unemployment benefits, welfare, increased crime, human suffering and the destruction of American families.

"We must utilize the private sector as much as possible putting people back to work. But if necessary, government must support work that will benefit the nation.

"Taxes," said Snyder, "ought to be fair and equitable. They aren't today. Those who work for a living pay more than their share while those who make money because they have money pay too little.

"Plugging loopholes may help, but it won't solve the problem. I think we are going to have to do a major overhaul of the whole system."

Snyder feels that inflation "hurts us all, but it is especially devastating to our senior citizens and others on fixed incomes. We must adopt strong and anti-inflationary measures in government and throughout our economy.

"Until we win the fight against inflation," he continued, "we must provide shelters from the ravages of inflation for those who now find that the savings of a lifetime are inadequate to meet their simple needs."

Because of the increasing crime rate, Snyder said, "predictions are that we soon must build more prisons. Vigorous law enforcement and swift justice are essential, but they are only a partial solution.

"We must attack crime on all fronts, including support for local law enforcement leaders who need help in maintaining programs of prevention."

Snyder is director of community and public relations at Rio Hondo College.

Source review rules

Air control hearing set Friday in Pomona

The Southern California Air Pollution Control District (SC-APCD) will hold a public hearing Friday in Pomona to take public testimony on a proposed set of "new source review rules" for the South Coast Air Basin.

The hearing will be held in Pomona City Council Chambers, 505 S. Garey Ave., beginning at 9 a.m.

The South Coast Air Basin encompasses Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

The hearing is being held despite the fact that the California Air Resources Board (CARD) already has adopted air pollution rules for the South Coast Air Basin. This action followed a public hearing by that body on Oct. 8 in Los Angeles.

However, as explained by SC-APCD officials, after more than a year of meetings and hearings, it appears that SC-APCD authorities and representatives of business and labor have drafted a set of regulations that are acceptable to all factions.

"Everyone agrees that it would be infinitely more desirable for rules to be drafted and adopted locally rather than being imposed on the area by a statewide agency," the SC-APCD spokesman said.

Nursing talk slated

"Nursing of the Dying Patient" will be discussed in three Monday seminars sponsored by the nursing inservice educatoin department and social service department at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The first meeting this evening will feature a talk by Paul Schurman, professor of pastoral counseling at the School of Theology in Claremont.

Other sessions are planned on Nov. 8 and 15. Topics to be covered include developing self awareness, meeting the patient's spiritual needs and techniques of communication.

For year of dragon

Valley Chinese slate court

Valley residents of Chinese descent will join their counterparts throughout the Southland Nov. 5 to present the first Asian headdress ball — the Emperor's Court — at the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles.

The event is jointly sponsored by the San Gabriel-Pomona Valley Chinese Cultural Association, and the Orange County Chinese Cultural Club.

Elaborate headdress creations by prominent Southern California floral and fashion designers will highlight the evening's festivities.

Focal point of the stage will be an authentic emperor's throne, being constructed under the direction of Richard Pettersen, director emeritus of the Clark Museum at Scripps College in Claremont.

Mrs. Lawrence Lau of Walnut and Mrs. Lock Gee Ding of Newport Beach are coordinators of the event.

To note the Year of the Dragon, the San Gabriel Valley association's dragon will make an appearance at the emperor's court.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the cultural and youth work of the sponsoring organizations as well as the newly organized Chinatown Senior Citizens Service Center in Los Angeles.

Reservations for the headdress ball close Oct. 27. Those who want more information may telephone 595-8920.

For gas company

Crawford named Pomona manager

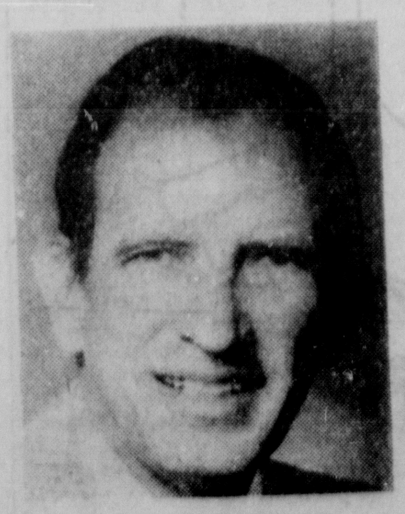

Don Crawford has been named Pomona area district manager for Southern California Gas Co.

Crawford, who has been with the company for 25 years, replaces Ben Wilson who has taken a position as retirement benefits counsel at the utility's Los Angeles headquarters.

Wilson had been a district manager in the valley for five years and is immediate past president of the Pomona Rotary Club.

Crawford will have his office at the division's headquarters at 196 E. Third St., Pomona, will be responsible for the cities of Pomona, Ontario, Chino, Montclair, La Verne and Claremont.

Prior to this assignment, he was appointed district manager in the division's San Bernardino office in March, 1975. Crawford's gas company career has centered in the Inland area. He has both field and office experience in customer services.

A place where voters care

There is one place where voter apathy will not be a problem on election day.

At 2:00 p.m., November 2, almost half the three million American citizens of Puerto Rico will allow themselves to be locked in school classrooms or confined in tents. Inside, they will wait up to two hours until their names are called in alphabetical order.

Then they will sign a register, receive a long paper ballot and go inside a curtained booth to vote for governor, legislators, mayors and councilmen. After everyone has voted, they will be free to go.

There is no law that says Puerto Ricans have to vote this way, except the law of custom. The unique balloting procedure has long been a tradition on the island commonwealth.

Wholesale disinterest in the political process simply does not exist among Puerto Ricans. This year, even as some forecasters predict that a minority of eligible U.S. voters will turn out on November 2, over 80 per cent of Puerto Rican voters will visit the polls, gathering en masse in their precincts.

This kind of turnout is not considered unusual, since fully 95 per cent of voting age citizens in Puerto Rico are registered to vote. This is almost as high as Australia, where although there is a fine for not registering to vote, registration has never exceeded 96 per cent.

There are other signs that participatory democracy is alive and well in Puerto Rico. Each of the four political parties has its own flag, and during the election campaign the party flags snap and flutter over nearly every house and alongside every roadside. Night rallies are well-attended events.

Yet with all their political enthusiasm, Puerto Rican voters have shown themselves to be somewhat conservative. Extremist actions by the New York-center FALN (nationalists) have been universally repudiated on the island itself. the vast majority favors continued close relations with the United States, either through statehood or the present commonwealth association.

Now if only we could import some of that Puerto Rican political enthusiasm to the mainland.

Gross neglect in the air

Under the law, a corporation is considered to be a "person," with many of the attributes, rights and duties of a natural person. But nobody has ever indicted a corporation for murder.

Murder may be too strong a word to describe the crash of a Turkish DC-10 jumbo jet near Paris in March 1974, history's worst air disaster in which 346 people died. It was more a matter of involuntary manslaughter, with contributory negligence on the part of executives in two corporations, McDonnell - Douglas and its subcontractor, the Convair Division of General Dynamics, as well as the Federal Aviation Administration.

As was brought out in congressional hearings in 1974, and as a new book — "Destination Disaster" — by a London Sunday Times investigative team has just recounted in dramatic detail, the designers and builders of the DC-10 had abundant forewarning of the crash.

As early as 1969, engineers were concerned that the plane's cargo door could blow out at high altitudes. This actually happened during a pressure test on the ground in 1970.

In June 1972, in a dress rehearsal of the Paris crash, the door on a DC-10 blew out over Windsor, Ontario. Fortunately, the plane's control cables were not severed, as was to be the case with the Turkish airliner, and the pilots were able to land the plane safely.

Despite this, under a "gentleman's agreement" with McDonnell - Douglas, the FAA did not issue a mandatory directive to correct the flaw.

At least 346 people paid with their lives for the FAA's gross neglect of its duty, and the unwillingness or inability of two corporations to face up to their responsibility to the public.

But economic pressures were substantial, say the authors. Design changes would have cost time and money and the DC-10 was a late comer in the competition with other jumbo jets.

And after all, a corporation is not really a person. Responsibility is diluted, the buck gets passed and it is all too easy to rationalize away engineering data in the face of market "realities."

Yet as one of the authors has stated, the fact that decent men could have made the decisions which made the disaster inevitable, or have failed to make the decisions which could have prevented it, is more disturbing than if it had been deliberately planned by evil men.

Since the 1974 tragedy, the DC-10's cargo door has been redesigned and all jumbo jets under U.S. control must be modified by the end of 1978 so that their control cables will not be damaged by an explosive decompression.

It can only be hoped that all those who were directly or indirectly involved in the disaster have also made some corrective modifications, beginning with their consciences.

Ann Landers

Some couldn't care less

Dear Ann Landers: You settled an argument for us last year and it practically saved our marriage. Now, will you come to the rescue regarding a matter of lesser magnitude? We're fighting again.

My husband's favorite expression is, "I could care less." I say it should be "I COULDN'T care less." Who is right? — Waiting For The Verdict

Dear Waiting: You are. The Harper Dictionary of Contemporary Usage calls the increasing use of the expression "I could care less" an "ignorant debasement of the language." But I'll bet when you tell your husband, he'll say, "I could care less."

Dear Ann Landers: Dr. Thomas P. Johnson, a psychiatrist who works with the San Diego County Probation Department, wrote the following guidelines for parents. I hope you will print them in your column. Thanks, Ann. — A Parent Who Needs All The Help She Can Get

Dear Parent: Dr. Johnson's guidelines are well worth printing. I appreciate your sending them on.

1. Don't disapprove of what a child is — disapprove of what he does.
2. Give attention and praise for good behavior — not bad behavior.
3. Encourage and allow discussion, but remember it's the parents who should make the final decision.
4. Punishment should be swift, reasonable, related to the offense and absolutely certain to occur — it need not be severe.
5. Throw out all rules you are unwilling to enforce and be willing to change the rules if and when you think they need changing.
6. Don't lecture and don't warn — youngsters will remember what they think is important to remember.
7. Don't feel you have to justify rules, although you should try to explain them.
8. As your youngster grows older, many rules may be subject to discussion and compromise. The few rules you really feel strongly about should be enforced no matter what rules other parents have.
9. Allow a child to assume responsibility for his decisions as he shows the ability to do so.
10. Don't expect children to demonstrate more self-control than you do.
11. Be honest with your youngster — hypocrisy shows.
12. The most important factor in your youngster's self-image is what he thinks YOU think of him. His self-image is a major factor in how he conducts himself.

Dear Ann Landers: Is there homosexuality among animals? My friend says it isn't possible. She claims a homosexual gets twisted up at an early age because of the way he relates to his mother or father — or because one was absent or rejected him.

I say she is wrong, basing my judgment strictly on what I've seen.

Please settle this in the paper. If you wrote me a letter she would swear it was a put-up job. Thanks. — Bermuda Fan

Dear Berm: There is indeed homosexuality in the animal kingdom. Anyone who has ever visited a zoo need only observe.

According to the experts, monkeys are the gayest animals of all.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Whomper loves to eat pumpkin

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our own personal pumpkin patch really came through for us. As a result, we've ended up with a pumpkin surplus. We've had lots of pies, of course, and also have used it as a vegetable dish. We've discovered that Whomper, our dog, really loves it. How much squash or pumpkin can you safely feed a dog? — F.F.

DEAR F.F.: Whomper, or rather his digestive tract, can most accurately provide that answer. Most foods foreign to his digestive system including most vegetables, would probably cause diarrhea if fed in large amounts, particularly if they were not introduced gradually into the diet. When used to it, Whomper could probably handle a substantial portion of pumpkin in his diet without ill effects, though this would certainly affect its nutritional balance. Unless your pumpkin pie were exceptionally large, it's likely Whomper could help you wade through it without significant long-term effects. Feeding any such unusual food over a prolonged period, however, could cause a significant nutritional deficiency unless highly sophisticated changes were made in the balance of his rations. Fortunately, the season for fresh pumpkins is short.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What's it like to raise a baby wolf as a pet? We've got room for a big pen in the back yard. — N.S.

DEAR N.S.: It's like a big mistake, for many reasons. First, the wolf is an endangered species which means you can't legally go out and pick one up as a pet. States (and municipalities) are increasingly restricting the keeping of even nonendangered wild species. In any event, raising a wolf cub as a potential pet is an almost impossible task requiring fulltime dedication and considerable expertise. A large pen in the back yard is not the answer for raising an intelligent species of domestic pet, let alone an extremely intelligent wild one.

DEAR DR. MILLER: No matter how much Little Red, my cat, licks that sore spot on her side, it never heals up. What can I do to help? — E.D.

DEAR E.D: You can lead Little Red in to her doctor for some specific help, including ways to discourage her foom from licking that area. The spines on a cat's tongue make it an efficient "brush" when it comes to grooming, but it's anything but soothing to an inflamed skin area. The tendency to clean a sensitive area is instinctive to a cat, but Little Red's rough tongue may actually be the reason that sore spot can't heal.

Don't monkey with earthquakes

Many years ago, as man measures time, I was awakened from a deep dream of peace by the sound of my little girl's rocking chair playing "Rocka-Bye Baby" in the nursery. The moppet sized chair had a music box under one of the rockers, and it would play that dreary jingle when rocked. "What in the hell," I muttered, groping bleary-eyed for the light, "is she doing up at this hour of the dawn?"

Then I suddenly realized that the whole house was shaking in a grisly gavotte, lamps wobbling, books falling off the shelves. It was an earthquake!

I was reminded of that nocturnal recital this week when Stanford University announced that its chimpanzees could predict earthquakes. In spite of your opinion of Stanford undergraduates, the scientists were talking about REAL chimpanzees.

Here's how Stanford works — if that's not too strong a word. They have a School of Medicine which has an outdoor primate facility, what else? ("Facility" does not mean "John." It's not a primate privy.) So a geophysicist gets curious about the chimps going ape at earthquake time, and they call in a biostatistician to check out the pre-rumble monkeying around. The reports are announced to a psychiatrist and a geophysicist from the U.S. Geological Survey. (Have I missed anyone? Any discipline gone unmentioned?)

Stanford is a super place for educating chimpanzees and for measuring earthquakes, since it is practically a-straddle the San Andreas Fault. It may be the first Pac-8 university to be swallowed whole.

Well sir, the biostatisticians, geophysicists and psychiatrists discovered that the day before some recent tremblors in the Palo Alto area, the primates spent a lot more time on the ground than was usual, and they became restless and irritable like the undergraduates of the 60s.

The point, if you're still awake, is that when the chimpanzees in your neighborhood start acting flakey, chances are that an earthquake is soon going to set your plates a-rattling, both those on your shelves and those in your mouth.

The aforementioned biostatistician, Helena C. Kraemer, said, "We believe we have the first scientific evidence that there are animal behavioral changes that precede earthquakes. But she didn't want observers to lay it all on her precious primates. Less expensive creatures like chickens and livestock should also be studied for erratic behavior just before the skyscrapers topple.

Taking a leaf from her book, if the copyright laws allow, I have taken to observing our family dog, a large shaggy creature whose mother clearly had more than a nodding acquaintance with a werewolf. Duffy — for it indeed he — is a friendly, absent-minded canine who doesn't know cats from dogs and who prefers lettuce to hamburger. He barks at elderly ladies and greets masked burglars like long-lost brothers.

Using Duffy as a seismograph is hopeless. He is an earthquake all by himself. When he scratches fleas, the whole house shakes. When he smells bacon frying, every lamp in the house wobbles as he comes crashing down the stairs. If an earthquake hit while he was chewing a beef bone, we wouldn't know it until we read about it in the paper the next day.

So I hope the Stanford scientists are successful in observing their chimpanzees for early earthquake warnings. Personally, I think it would be a lot more fun to observe the Stanford coeds. Forget the earthquakes.

Lovers lane established

The townspeople of Canvey Island, Essex, England, worried about the safety of their young girls who parked with their boyfriends in remote lovers' lanes. How could the little ladies save themselves, if their dates misbehaved overmuch, or if evil intruders showed up? So said citizens set aside right in the middle of town a landscaped parking area especially designated only for couples who want to engage in that felicitous pastime once known as necking.

Those clothing manufacturers who make a study of tape measurements say the average American woman in the last 30 years has grown one inch in all directions. Then, she was 34-25-36. Now, she is 35-26-37.

Why neither the newspaper reporter nor the professional waiter has a life expectancy as long as the average man I just don't know.

LOVE AND WAR

Q. "Ask your Love and War man what percentage of wives admit they were not able to marry their original choices for husbands."

A. He sadly reports that 68 per cent tell the surveytakers that. A high proportion, what? Should be noted, though, that many say they're glad they didn't make the mistake of marrying the primary selection. I gather the best husbands, like the best quarterbacks, are not always the first round picks.

Efforts go on to find appropriate officers for the "My Name is a Poem" Club. Do you approve of the nomination for Corresponding Secretary of Judy Moody of Omaha, Neb.? Personally, I'd prefer to vote for Jerry Berry of Walla Walla, Wash., because he has such a dandy return address.

ANATOMY

No doubt everybody knows the anatomy textbooks in medical schools use illustrations of nude bodies. But were you aware it has been only in recent years that the females have been so illustrated to any significant extent? Most of the patients who visit private practitioners are women and children. But for many a decade their doctors had learned anatomy from pictures of males.

A snake's egg goes right on growing up to as much as a third larger after it is laid . . . Not most but some botanists still contend all the flowers in the world are descended from the simple little buttercup . . . Between the day you were born and your sixth birthday, your brain tripled in size, if typical.

Had that musical giant of Italy called Guiseppe Verdi moved to this country, he most probably would have become known by the translation of his name — Joe Green.

Rapid reply: No, sir, it takes only 14 seconds for a chicken plucking machine to remove all the feathers.

Dr. Lamb

Heat may help leg cramps

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 63 years old. At night I have leg cramps. I was wondering what might cause this and if I can do anything to help. Sometimes I have to get up five to six times a night and walk. I am overweight and have your weight losing diet. I have lost 14 pounds but need to lose 20 more pounds.

DEAR READER — Leg cramps at night can often be helped by making extra efforts to keep the feet and legs warm. You can wear some warm heavy long socks to bed at night. The legs cool off faster than any other part of the body because they are farthest from the heart.

You should have an examination of your legs to see if you have a circulation problem. When the arteries to the leg become obstructed with fatty-cholesterol deposits the circulation can be seriously compromised. If that is the case and the condition is causing severe problems many people can get relief from surgery. A graft is put in to detour the blood around the local obstruction.

The catch is that the obstruction must be localized so it can actually be detoured. If the entire length of the artery is blocked like a dead end street, there are no normal open arteries to detour to.

Losing weight will help in most circulation problems if a person is overweight. Weight loss helps clean out obstructed arteries, lowers blood pressure and decreases the work the body must do with normal physical activity. Others who want the same diet you have lost weight with can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am presently confined in a penitentiary. My problem is that for the past three months I have had a very high pulse rate (100) and after heart tests and X rays the doctors say that my heart is not bad and to stop worrying about it. What I would like to know is why the sudden change after having a pulse rate of 72 for the past 30 years?

I have been wondering if it could be because of how extremely nervous and uptight I have been for the past three months. Please, I'm begging you to give me any information pertinent to this problem.

DEAR READER — I am glad you have had a good examination. That helps to rule out many problems that could cause an increase in heart rate.

Yes, real anxiety, which your letter suggests you have, can really cause the heart rate to increase suddenly. Many people with anxiety have fast heart rates when there is absolutely nothing wrong with the heart. Of course, the anxiety needs to be dealt with. Just knowing that and being reassured that your heart is O.K. may help some.

There are some other causes for fast heart rates that could apply to your condition. Smoking a lot of cigarettes will often increase the heart rate around 10 beats per minute. If you drink coffee or smoke I suggest you quit.

Also, lack of physical activity can lead to a progressively higher resting heart rate. Eliminating coffee and cigarettes as well as getting started on a good physical fitness program may help you a great deal.

What people say

"I keep him on the air because I think he's a good honest journalist. And to illustrate just how honest he is, even when I was the only guy in the business willing to hire him, he still persisted in bad-mouthing me. He once said publicly that 'Wide World of Sports is important if your idea of journalism is Jim McKay yodeling on a mountaintop.' "

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Robert Schuller

Faith may need 'deep feeding'

Sometime ago, a florist came to deliver some flowers to my home and noticed that one of our palm trees was turning yellow. "It needs deep feeding," he said, adding, "Take a long pipe, probe two feet into the ground so it penetrates all around the roots." He went on: "On the surface you might not see anything, but it will feed the undernourished roots. Dig a hole, put the hose all the way down there and very slowly let the water ooze out. Do this every day and you might save it." I did, and the tree is prospering today!

If you are missing joy in life you, too, may be emotionally or spiritually undernourished. The roots of your faith may need a "deep feeding" treatment. Perhaps your religious practices have been the "shallow sprinkler treatment." Try giving your life the vitalizing injection of deep prayer.

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

Oswald: "There's nothing in bridge ethics that requires declarer to look unhappy merely because he sees that his contract is not likely to make. Why tell your opponents anything they aren't entitled to know?"

Jim: "South wasn't at all happy with three notrump and felt that his partner should have bid three spades instead of raising to three notrump, but South didn't mention the matter at all. Instead he took the diamond and promptly led a club toward dummy. East ducked the first and second club leads, whereupon South went after spades and made his contract with four spades, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs."

Oswald: "If South had stopped to tell his partner that he did not like his bidding, East might well have grabbed the first or second club and defeated the three-notrump contract."

Jim: "Actually, a very alert East would have grabbed that second club and beaten three notrump. The fact that South said nothing and just went about his business left East in a slightly somnolent state from which he did not quite recover."

Oswald: "Indidentally, the four-spade contract is not all wine and roses. If West opens his singleton club, the defense can score two aces and two club ruffs and beat four spades."

Ask the Jacobys

We recently answered a question as to which side wins the rubber in a manner to confuse some readers.

The answer is that the side that wins two games is given a rubber bonus of 700 points for a two-game rubber or 500 points for a two-out-of-three game rubber, but if after adding that bonus to their other points they still have less points than their opponents, they have collected the bonus, but lost the rubber.

S. F. voters facing kaleidoscope ballot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Voters here face a traditional kaleidoscope ballot on Nov. 2, with 20 propositions offering diverse changes in city practices, including district election of supervisors, dismissal of striking city workers, and an almost perennial Yerba Buena City Center measure.

Prop. T, the only voter initiative on the ballot, is hailed by proponents as a means to insure city neighborhoods direct representation on the Board of Supervisors.

Opponents of the measure, which include ten of eleven incumbent supervisors, claim the measure would encourage ward politics.

Prop. B would require the dismissal of any city employe who takes part in a strike.

Supervisor Terry Francois said in support of the proposition, "I see no difference between prostitutes and city employes who violate another law — the one against striking."

Vincent Courtney, head of the 8,000-member Service Employes International Union, branded the supervisors' decision to place B and other propositions before voters "the biggest anti-labor event in local history."

Voters will also decide these ballot measures:

—Prop. A authorizes $240 million of Sewer Revenue Bonds for improvement of the municipal sewage treatment and disposal system in accordance with the city's Wastewater Management Plan.

—Prop. C provides for employe dismissal hearings now held by department heads to be convened by contracted hearing officers.

—Prop. D requires the Civil Service to poll salary scales in five neighboring counties and to set the city's prevailing wage rates in the middle range for each typical job.

—Prop. E requires the hiring officer to choose from the top three eligible employes applying for civil service positions. Currently the hiring officer must take the person highest on the list of eligibles.

THERE COMES A TIME WHEN THE MAN AND THE IDEA COME TOGETHER

Louis Brutocao, the son of Italian immigrant parents, has a special love for America. That's the reason he'll make a great United States Congressman!!

LOUIS BRUTOCAO believes that America will solve its' unemployment problem through the free enterprise system . . . not with useless federal projects that are only Band-aids on a serious problem. He advocates a tax credit to any small business who will hire the unemployment and keep that unemployed person on the payroll for one year.

LOUIS BRUTOCAO believes we are falling behind in global power and that the dictatorships of the world only understand strength and determination. For this reason Lou Brutocao feels our emphasis should be on national defense . . . our Navy must be strengthened . . . Foreign aid has failed because you don't buy friends.

LOUIS BRUTOCAO feels that if bureaucrats were going to solve our problems every problem we have would have been solved ten times over. He will be a strong voice for the self-reliance of people, less bureaucracy and domination by those impersonal "people" in Washington who think they know more about our personal and private lives than we do.

LOUIS BRUTOCAO believes that America will only survive with honesty at every level of government . . . he will fight corruption in the Congress whether it is in his party or the other party. He feels that public service must be a public trust . . . and that no Congressman deserves a raise until he lowers the taxes for Americans.

ON TUESDAY SEND LOUIS BRUTOCAO TO CONGRESS. WE NEED A CHANGE . . . WE NEED A STRONG REPRESENTATIVE IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

ELECT

Tryouts set for musical

Valley Community Theater will hold auditions for "South Pacific" at the theater, 132 E. Third St., Pomona, at 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

David Alexander will direct Rodgers and Hammerstein's Pulitzer Prize musical. A former resident of the San Francisco Bay area, Alexander attended the prestigious American Academy of Dramatic Arts, where he performed in "The Crucible," "Anything Goes," "Look Homeward, Angel" and "Twelve Angry Men." He has also directed "The Night of the Iguana" "This Property Is Condemned" and "Barefoot in the Park." This is his first play for VCT.

Auditioners are asked to bring their own sheet music. An accompanist will be provided.

Currently playing at VCT is "The Hot 1 Baltimore." The final performance is Nov. 20. Information and reservations can be obtained at 622-6954.

Costly color

In ancient Rome, Emperor Nero proclaimed that only he could wear a purple fabric colored with extracts from murex shellfish. Seafaring Phoenician merchants made the regal dye and grew rich selling purple wool for the equivalent of $150 a pound.

Ebell program charted Friday

The Ebell Club tea program on Friday will feature Ginny Tyler, a talented actress with an effervescent personality and an amazing ability to mimic voices and sounds for television and motion pictures.

Miss Tyler will share funny experiences, sidelights and anecdotes in a demonstration of her talent at the afternoon event at the Ebell clubhouse.

Featured as the voice of Polynesia the Parrot, she taught Rex Harrison how to "talk" to animals.

Institute planned by scouts

Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council headquartered in Pomona has announced a three-day institute for program and training personnel among councils from 10 western states and the islands of Samoa, Midway, Guam and Wake. The event will be held at Claremont Methodist Church Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The conference, "Towards Tomorrow's Program," will explore ways to expand programs for today's and tomorrow's girls. New materials and national trends are on the agenda as well as an in-depth session about scouting for the younger girl.

Mrs. Marguerite Thoreson, staff coordinator, and May Lou Salyer, volunteer director, have emphasized that the focus of the institute will be on the needs of program and training personnel.

Region 6 director, Girl Scouts of the U. S. A., and Judy Cook, program director for the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., are among consultants directing segments of the event.

Missionary League sets gathering

The St. Luke Women's Missionary League will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, at the church.

Devotions will be led by Mrs. John Morgan. A pre-Christmas craft workshop will be presented by Mrs. David Hendrickson. Hostesses for the event will be Mrs. Paul Gordon and Mrs. Inga Sullivan.

The league is also sponsoring the gathering of new and used toys for the Joe Brown Mission in Mexico. Anyone interested in contributing to the project may call the church office, 624-8898.

BPW plans dinner meet

The La Verne-San Dimas Business and Professional Women's Club members will gather for dinner at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, at Sir George's Restaurant in Pomona.

Williston Wirt of Pilgrim Place in Claremont will give a dramatic reading, "The Life of Governor Bradford." The delegates to the district conference in Anaheim will give their reports.

NEW SIGNS — Pomona city workers Dave Herrera, left, and Joe Orlando bolt the street signs for the Gladstone Street-Harrison Avenue intersection into place. The new signs, a highly reflective blue design that should make them much more highly visible, will go up all over town in the next 18 months. The project is being funded under the federal Highway Safety Act, at a cost of about $140,000. School zone signs will also go up.

Zorn, Seahawks zapped by Rams

L.A. regains first place

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — "Our first appearance in Southern California was certainly disappointing. They whaled the tar out of us."

That was the way former Cal Poly Pomona quarterback Jim Zorn summed up Sunday's one-sided, 45-6, victory by the Rams over Zorn's Seattle Seahawks at the Coliseum.

While it was a disappointment for Zorn and his teammates, it was a good game for the Rams who regained first place in the NFC Western Division from the San Francisco 49ers who dropped an overtime tilt at St. Louis, 23-20.

It appears the race for the division title will be a dogfight right down to the wire. The Rams play Cincinnati (away), St. Louis, the 49ers (away), New Orleans, Atlanta and Detroit (away) to finish out the season.

The 49ers face Washington, Atlanta (away), the Rams, Minnesota, San Diego (away) and New Orleans (away).

For sure there will be no future games any easier than Sunday's easy win over the outmanned expansionists from the Pacific Northwest.

The offensive and defensive lines produced strong efforts. The Ram secondary and linebackers hawked the ball. James Harris played well in his first appearance in two weeks and Pat Haden sparkled again in a mop-up role in the fourth quarter.

Harris completed 14 of 25 passes for 208 yards and two touchdowns. Haden connected on two of three for 26 yards and one touchdown and scrambled for an 11-yard gain when his receivers were covered.

Unfortunately for Zorn, his statistics were as bad as Harris' and Haden's were good.

The left-handed scrambler, who didn't get to scramble Sunday, had a terrible first quarter during which Ram defenders overwhelmed Seattle's offensive line.

In the Seahawk's' first four series, they managed to run only 11 plays from scrimmage and showed a net of minus six yards.

Zorn's personal chart showed four passes, no completions, one interception (and subsequent touchdown) and another near and no scrambles. The score read Rams 24, Seahawks 0.

"We got behind and they came with everything," Zorn sighed. "The two ends (Jack Youngblood and Fred Dryer) waited for me to try to go outside. They just ran straight up field when the ball was snapped and waited for me so I could never get outside. They defensed us well the whole game."

Zorn finished the day with just four completions in 12 attempts for 39 yards. He was sacked four times for losses of 31 yards.

Bill Munson, who relieved Zorn in the first quarter, showed nine completions of 19 passes for 147 yards. He also was intercepted once (by Isiah Robertson) and sacked once.

After relieving Zorn, Munson got the 'Hawks moving immediately and took them from their own 20 to the Rams' 26 including a 44-yard pass. The drive stalled on the 26 and John Leypoldt kicked a 43-yard field goal.

However that was all Munson, himself a former Ram, could get for the Seahawks and when the second half started, Zorn was back in.

Coach Jack Patera was tight-lipped and short with his answers in the post-game interview. But he made it clear that Zorn is still the 'Hawks' quarterback.

"I think the Rams played very well," he said.

"As for our performance, I can't say there are many things we did well today. They did the best job against us of any team we played both offensively and defensively."

Since the Seahawks have played the likes of Dallas, San Francisco, St. Louis, and Washington, that was quite a compliment. But when the subject of Zorn came up, Patera's answers came like blue darts and the air about him crackled with electricity. Patera was asked if he regarded any changes at QB.

"Jim Zorn is our quarterback," he bristled. When asked why, he snapped, "because he is our best quarterback. Jim Zorn has been our quarterback for eight games and Jim Zorn is still our quarterback."

Patera said he made the change (which also included both running backs) because his team simply wasn't moving the ball.

If the visitors weren't, the Rams were. Harris drove them 38 yards in eight plays the first time they got the ball to set up a 20-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey. Jackson picked it took only four plays for another TD with Lawrence McCutcheon sprinting the final six yards to paydirt. Again Seattle was stopped (or couldn't start) and following a 38-yard punt, Harris took the Rams 49 yards in six plays, passing 15 yards to Ron for the score. That made it a 24-0 ball game and it was all over as far as Seattle was concerned.

McCutcheon left the game after his touchdown and did not return after suffering a knee strain. He gained 33 yards in six carries. John Cappelletti did not play the second half but reserves Jim Bertelsen and Rod Phillips were more than adequate replacements.

Phillips, the free agent from Jackson State who sparkled at the end of last season when Bertelsen was felled by a knee injury, wound up as the game's leading rusher with 86 yards in 12 carries.

However, McCutcheon will be needed against Cincinnati next Monday night.

RAMblings — Former Ram Ken Geddes was among the Seattle lame and halt after the game. Geddes suffered a hamstring pull.

Zorn revealed he has purchased a new home in Bellevue, a suburb of Seattle. "I really like it up there," he said. "The people are just great. I'll probably get into some kind of business since I'm making it my permanent home."

Haden continued to play the diplomat. "It was a good game for the team and a great game for that guy over there," he said pointing to Harris. "Shack had a fine game and I'm very happy for him.

Asked about his own performance, Haden grinned and said, "Well, when I went in they were sort of demoralized and we had good field position. (Tom) Geredine made a fine catch frankly."

When Haden went in, he was playing with a lot of other substitutes not the starters. Unless injuries decimate the receiving corps, you won't find Geredine among Harris' receivers.

But, starters or subs, Haden looked brilliant again.

UNDER PRESSURE Ram defensive ends Fred Dryer and Jack Youngblood apply pressure to Seattle Seahawks' quarterback Jim Zorn Sunday just as Zorn fires a pass attempt. Zorn, the former Cal Poly star, did not have a good day, nor did his mates. Rams won easily, 45-6.

Bears knock off Vikings

By Associated Press

Fran Tarkenton and the Minnesota Vikings came in from the cold—and they came in as losers.

Until Sunday, Johnny Unitas had passed for more yards than anyone else in the history of the National Football League. Tarkenton took care of that matter.

And until Sunday, only the Vikings were unbeaten this year. The Chicago Bears took care of that matter, nipping them 14-13 in nippy, windy Soldier Field.

The Bears couldn't kick in that earlier loss, when they missed two extra-point attempts. They didn't have anything to kick about this time.

In Sunday's other games, Dallas downed Washington 20-7, St. Louis edged San Francisco 23-20 in overtime, Detroit dumped Green Bay 27-6, Miami beat New England 10-3, Philadelphia shut out the New York Giants 10-0, Pittsburgh defeated San Diego 23-0, Cincinnati downed Cleveland 21-6, Oakland overhauled Denver 19-6, Los Angeles slugged Seattle 45-6, the New York Jets beat Buffalo 19-14, Atlanta topped New Orleans 23-20 and Kansas City tripped Tampa Bay 28-19. Houston is at Baltimore tonight.

Tarkenton, who scored the only Minnesota touchdown on a two-yard rollout, completed 24 of 46 passes for 272 yards. That gave him 40,421 yards—that's nearly 21 miles—in his career to Unitas' 40,239.

But it was hardly a consolation. "It means nothing," he said. "I wasn't thinking about breaking the record today. Hell, I only needed 91 yards and I knew I would get that sometime."

The other thing the Vikes got on the scoreboard were a pair of 24-yard Fred Cox field goals. What really got them, though, was a 17-mile-an-hour wind.

Neil Clabo, trying to kick into that wind, shanked a pair of punts. Both resulted in Chicago touchdowns. A 15-yarder was followed instantly by a 39-yard Walter Payton touchdown run in the first period. Clabo's 16-yarder in the fourth quarter gave the Bears the ball on the Minnesota 33 and they marched to the game-winning TD, when Johnny Musso ran three yards, fumbled at the goal line and recovered in the end zone.

"I felt sorry for Clabo," said Bobby Parsons, Chicago's punter. "I know how he feels. I work on kicking into the wind every day."

Clabo admitted the wind was a factor but said, "All kickers have bad days." Minnesota Coach Bud Grant added: "Kicking definitely was a factor. Ours was as bad as it has been since I can remember."

And overjoyed Chicago Coach Jack Pardee grinned: "Now the Vikings have lost one like everyone else in the league."

Cowboys 20, Redskins 7

Roger Staubach, playing with a taped broken pinky on his right hand, played better than most quarterbacks with unbroken fingers.

He completed 13 of 23 passes for 152 yards and also ran one yard for a touchdown. Doug Dennison scored from the three and Efren Herrera kicked two field goals as the Cowboys scored their first victory in Washington since 1971.

"It's sore, but it wasn't a factor," Staubach said of the broken pinky. "I had no trouble throwing the ball although I had to grip it differently."

Cardinals 23, 49ers 20

The Cardinals remained one game back of Dallas in the National Conference East on Jim Bakken's 21-yard field goal with 6:42 gone in sudden-death overtime.

St. Louis recovered a fumbled punt by San Francisco's Anthony Leonard at the 49ers' 43 yard-line, then Jim Otis carried five straight times to set up the kick.

"Our line just bulled them out," said Otis. "When it came down to who wanted the game, we wanted it the most."

Lions 27, Packers 6

Ray Jarvis and Greg Landry teamed on touchdown pass plays of 74 and 13 yards, rookie Lawrence Gaines scored on a 26-yard sprint and rookie Bennie Ricardo kicked two field goals in the Lions' rout of Green Bay.

"We were outplayed in all phases of the game—offense, defense and the special teams," said dejected Packers Coach Bart Starr. "Detroit played like we wish we could."

Dolphins 10, Patriots 3

Bill Arnsparger came back to Miami the way he went out nearly three years ago—a winner.

He built the "No-Name" defense into one of the best units in the league before becoming the Giants' head coach. Then he was fired a week ago by New York and returned to head up the Dolphins' defense. It responded with a vengeance against the Patriots.

"Any time you get somebody of his ability, the mere fact that he's there has to benefit you," said safety Dick Anderson.

Bob Griese's 16-yard TD pass to Jim Mandich in the second period was the winning score.

Eagles 10, Giants 0

John McVay came in as a head coach the way Arnsparger went out—a shutout loser. The Giants, who lost 27-0 to Pittsburgh a week ago, were blanked again as their scoreless string stretched to 10 quarters. Mike Boryla flipped a 13-yard TD pass to Harold Carmichael for the Eagles.

Steelers 23, Chargers 0

Pittsburgh limited San Diego's sometimes-potent offense to just 124 offensive yards, 44 of them on the ground, and the Steelers blew open a close game with three touchdowns in the final period. Terry Bradshaw, out for two games with a neck injury, returned to action and scored the first TD on a one-yard plunge.

Bengals 21, Browns 6

Running back Boobie Clark, who has often complained about his lack of use in Cincinnati's aerial-oriented game, couldn't complain after what he did to the Browns. He rushed for 100 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Quarterback Ken Anderson kicked in with a 69-yard touchdown pass to Isaac Curtis.

Raiders 19, Broncos 6

Oakland struggled for three quarters against second-place Denver before Ken Stabler broke a 6-6 tie with a 31-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff.

"A victory meant a three-game lead and a defeat would have meant a one-game lead. Figuring that out didn't require a lot of math. We're in pretty good condition now," said Coach John Madden of the Raiders.

Jets 19, Bills 14

The Jets, who had beaten only Buffalo through their first seven games, did it to the Bills again. Richard Todd, starting in place of injured Joe Namath, tossed a 20-yard TD pass to David Knight.

Falcons 23, Saints 20

Scott Hunter entered the game in the second half and passed for touchdowns of 17 yards to Alfred Jenkins and five to Haskell Stanback that wiped out New Orleans' 14-0 lead, then Stanback scored on a one-yard plunge to snap Atlanta's four-game losing spin.

Chiefs 28, Bucs 19

Mike Livingston's pair of third-quarter touchdown passes woke up Kansas City's sluggish offense aganst Tampa Bay, offsetting a pair of Steve Spurrier touchdown tosses for the winless Bucs in the fourth period.

Soph breaks NAIA record

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Eastern Montana sophomore Duke Williams set an NAIA single-game rushing record with 409 yards in 43 carries Saturday as the Yellowjackets whipped Montana Tech 35-14 in Frontier Conference football.

The old NAIA standard was 371 yards by Jim Baier of Wisconsin-River Falls against Wisconsin-Stevens Point on Nov. 5, 1966.

Williams scored four times on runs of 71, 10, 31 and 5 yards, helping his club to a 23-0 lead before Tech's Bill Barbee hit Bob Riehle with a five-yard scoring pass.

Lakers even record with good 2nd half

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Coach Jerry West was a little concerned with his Lakers' play during the first half, and the see-saw battle with the Detroit Pistons made him edgy.

"I told them at the half that we needed a stronger effort in the second half, and we came out blowing," a smiling West said Sunday after his Lakers broke the game open with a 37-point third quarter en route to a 121-101 victory over Detroit.

"We really turned the heat on in the third quarter, and played the type and style of game that I enjoy," West said after his team had evened its record at 3-3.

Los Angeles first-year coach also said playing at home helped the Lakers, who've won both their games in the Forum this young National Basketball Association season.

"The homecourt advantage means so much to teams like us who are not overpowering," West remarked. "We had two or three stretches in the third period when, if we had been on a visiting court, things might not have gone our way. The crowd definitely played a part."

Los Angeles got more tangible support from forwards Cazzie Russell and Don Ford during the third-period blitz that saw the Lakers break away from a one-point edge, 56-55, at the intermission.

Russell scored eight of his game-high 23 points in the third stanza, and Ford pumped in 11 of his total of 19.

Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, playing his usual dominating role in the middle, added 21 points.

The Pistons' Bob Lanier helped his team stay close the first half, pumping in 14 points, but he was held to just four points in the second half. Detroit guards Eric Money and Chris Ford each contributed 14 points in the losing cause.

Pac-8 race heating up

By The Associated Press

Sophomore Theotis Brown of UCLA had a Ricky Bell-type game, Bell of Southern Cal had some problems, but the two Los Angeles schools remained neck-and-neck in the Pacific-8 football lead.

The 220 rushing yards of Brown, who carried 35 times, and the 123 added by teammate James Owen all were needed by the Bruins who beat Washington in Seattle for the first time in 18 years, 30-21.

Bell was held to 78 net yards on 24 carries and lost his national rushing lead, but a sore ankle was partly responsible, along with California's defense. His sensational backup man, freshman Charles White, took over in the second half and finished with 91 yards in the Trojans' 20-6 victory over Cal.

"I can't tell one from the other," Cal Coach Mike White said of USC's tailbacks. He added, "The best defense we saw up until today was Oklahoma's. USC is every bit in that class, and better."

UCLA, third-ranked nationally, and fourth-ranked USC are each 4-0 in the Pacific-8. Stanford is 3-1 after its 24-3 victory over Oregon State and the Trojans visit Stanford Stadium next weekend.

"Stanford is the best passing team we've faced," said OSU Coach Craig Fertig. "USC is bigger and more physical. It should be a donnybrook."

Guy Benjamin passed for three touchdowns, with Tony Hill making the 14th and 15th touchdown catches of his career to break a Stanford record, and Duncan McColl made two key fumble recoveries for the Cardinals against Oregon State.

In the only other Pac-8 game, Jack Thompson of Washington State hit Dan Doornink on a two-point conversion pass with 19 seconds remaining to make the Cougars 23-22 victors over Oregon. Only one Pacific Coast Athletic Association game was played, and Coach Jim Sweeney's second-place Fresno Bulldogs used three quarterbacks in their 35-7 victory over Pacific.

PCAA leader San Jose State trounced Santa Clara 50-15 with the help of Steve DeBerg's three touchdown passes, Hawaii's Norris Birdsong ran for 111 yard as the Rainbows downed the PCAA's Fullerton State 27-7, Long Beach State broke a 7-7 tie on John Washington's 79-yard pass reception and beat Wichita State 21-14, and San Diego State came from behind in the third quarter on Steve LaPlant's 37-yard field goal and Charlie Crews' touchdown to beat Texas-El Paso 27-16.

UCLA has Oregon and Oregon State, who have only one Pac-8 victory between them, to play before the Nov. 20 Los Angeles Coliseum showdown with Southern Cal. The Trojans, after the trip to Stanford, will be home against Washington.

Bell has played less than four periods over the past two weeks but expects to be ready for Stanford. He sprained an ankle Saturday, a week after suffering a hip injury.

"The sprain wasn't that bad, but Coach (John) Robinson said there was no sense in my hurting it anymore," he said after turning the football-carrying chores over to White Saturday.

Duane Bobick not happy with showing

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Heavyweight contender Duane Bobick might be ready to try to step up in class and fight Ken Norton, but the former Olympian was not happy with his latest performance.

Bobick, after winning a nationally televised 10-round decision Saturday over Fred "Young Sanford" Houpe, said, "That wasn't one of my better performances. I couldn't get untracked."

Trainer Eddie Futch discussed a possible bout against England's Joe Bugner and mentioned a bout against Norton.

"I think in a year, Bobick could be ready for a title challenge," said Futch. Norton, outpointed by Muhammad Ali in the most recent heavyweight title fight, talked about the possibility of fighting Bobick.

"I need a fight to get back on the track," Norton said.

The unbeaten Bobick won his 38th pro fight, but he lost the first three rounds to Houpe, of Oakland, who went into the ring with a 12-0 record.

Then Bobick's body blows took their toll, as he outweighed his rival 214 to 195. Bobick, from Bowlus, Minn., and now managed by former world champion Joe Frazier, won on all cards.

College bowl picture confused

By Associated Press

If the college football picture has you confused, imagine how the bowl people feel. Of all the vacant berths that don't automatically go to conference champs, only Pitt in the Orange Bowl against the Big Eight king seems set.

Of the so-called big four bowls—Rose, Orange, Cotton, Sugar—that apparently leaves two open spots—one in the Cotton, one in the Sugar—with four teams in the running...and two of them going to be shut out.

The four attractive teams are the Michigan-Ohio State Big Ten loser, the UCLA-Southern Cal Pacific-8 loser, undefeated Maryland and once-beaten Notre Dame.

"The picture is getting a little clearer, but it's still pretty mixed-up," says one bowl official.

Invitations can't be officially extended until Nov. 20 but bowl scouts have been doing almost as much campaigning as Ford and Carter and there's no law against speculation.

If the status remains quo— i.e., the rankings don't change too much over the next few weeks—look for second-ranked Pitt and Tony Dorsett to wind up in Miami. The Orange Bowl payoff, roughly $1 million per team, trails only the Rose Bowl, which, of course, has the Big Ten and Pac-8 champs locked up.

Dorsett, the all-time rushing king, ran for 241 yards and two touchdowns in boosting his career total to 5,447 as the Panthers downed Syracuse 23-13. Pitt has an 8-0 mark and doesn't figure to be severly tested by Army or West Virginia before the bowl deadline.

The Panthers are idle Nov. 20, finishing against tough Penn State Nov. 26. By then, though, their Miami reservations should be signed and sealed.

The Big Ten and Pac-8 losers might be more attractive to the Cotton and Sugar Bowls than an unbeaten Maryland team. The fifth-ranked Terrapins also stand 8-0 following a 24-14 triumph over Kentucky but they are hampered by a patsy schedule and an injury to star runner Steve Atkins.

With the Cotton and Sugar Bowls competing head-to-head for the national television audience, names like Michigan, Ohio State, Southern Cal, UCLA and Notre Dame probably would be more saleable than Maryland...and the Terrapins know it.

"I've never seen a team wanting to go to a bowl as bad as Maryland," says one bowl official. "They're sending releases, phoning around and inviting folks up to see them."

The Terps bounced favored Florida in last year's Gator Bowl and are after bigger and better things.

"If we go to a bowl game," says quarterback Mark Manges, "we'll go to win the national championship, not to prove we belong in the Top Ten."

But Ohio State and Michigan boast famous, headline-making coaches, Southern Cal has a super runner in Ricky Bell and Notre Dame and UCLA are, well, Notre Dame and UCLA.

Top-rated Michigan and eighth-ranked Ohio State remained deadlocked for the Big Ten lead with lopsided victories. The No. 1 Wolverines routed Minnesota 45-0 while the Buckeyes pulled away from a 12-7 halftime struggle to crush Indiana 47-7.

Meanwhile, third-ranked UCLA and No. 4 Southern Cal continued their battle for Pac-8 honors and the Rose Bowl's host spot. The Bruins turned back Washington 30-21 as Theotis Brown galloped for 220 yards and three touchdowns while Southern Cal defeated California 20-6. Both teams have 4-0 league records.

Notre Dame, ranked No. 11, had a rougher time than expected in defeating Navy 27-21 and the once-beaten Irish can control their own bowl destiny. A victory over Alabama on Nov. 13 probably will mean a major bid; a loss, with Southern Cal remaining to be played in Los Angeles on Nov. 27, and they can probably forget it.

"Notre Dame is the real swing team in the whole thing," says a bowl veteran. "If they're 9-1 with USC to go, I think one of the big bowls will gamble on them."

If they lose to Alabama, it's unlikely the proud Irish will say yes to anything smaller than the Gator Bowl...and even that might depend on the caliber of the opponent.

Sixth-ranked Texas Tech remained unbeaten—and tied for the Southwest Conference lead with No. 14 Arkansas—by coming from behind to beat No. 15 Texas 31-28 on Billy Taylor's touchdown plunge in the final period.

Arkansas kept pace with Tech for the host spot in the Cotton Bowl by whomping Rice 41-16 as Ron Calcagni scored one touchdown and set up two others. Tech and Arkansas meet on Nov. 27.

Seventh-ranked Georgia took a break from Southeastern Conference action—the SEC champ goes to the Sugar Bowl—and trimmed No. 20 Cincinnati 31-17. Meanwhile, No. 12 Florida, the SEC leader, ran its league mark to 4-0—Georgia is 3-1— with a 24-19 decision over Auburn. Georgia and Florida hook up next Saturday.

The frantic Big Eight scramble was reduced from a five-way tie to a mere triple deadlock among ninth-ranked Nebraska, No. 16 Oklahoma State and No. 19 Colorado. Nebraska drubbed Kansas 31-3, Oklahoma State squeaked past No. 10 Missouri 20-19 behind Terry Miller's 228 rushing yards after trailing 16-0 in the third period and Colorado bumped off No. 13 Oklahoma 42-31. The setback made defending national champion Oklahoma a two-time loser for the first time since 1970.

No. 17 Alabama appears to be out of the SEC chase for the first time in memory with a 3-2 league record but the Crimson Tide impressed the scouts with a 34-17 triumph over No. 18 Mississippi State. Representatives of the Gator, Liberty and Peach Bowls clambered to congratulate Bear Bryant after that one.

"They should have after a win like this," roared the Bear, who won't be determining the top-level bowl set-up this year. But the Crimson Tide probably will be somewhere in the post-season picture—the Gator, Liberty, Fiesta are interested—for the 18th year in a row.

"Alabama is a very interesting team," is the way one bowl official puts it. "If they get by Louisiana State and Notre Dame the next two weeks they'll be a very hot team."

The Big Eight and Southwest Conferences figure to provide plenty of teams for the 12-bowl field. For example, Southern Methodist's Ron Meyer, a 36-0 loser to unranked Texas A&M, says the twice-beaten Aggies are "an awesome team...the best team in the Southwest Conference."

Colorado State threw the Western Athletic Conference, which provides the host team for the Fiesta Bowl, into confusion by handing league-leader Wyoming its first WAC setback 19-16. The Cowpokes have a 4-1 mark to Brigham Young's 3-1 and Arizona's 2-1.

Cavs' Fitch is tough to please

By The Associated Press

Bill Fitch is a hard man to please. Maybe that's why his Cleveland Cavaliers are a hard team to beat.

Always the perfectionist, Fitch was not even happy after a 106-92 victory over the New Orleans Jazz Sunday night.

"We only played seven good minutes," said Fitch after unbeaten Cleveland's fifth victory of the National Basketball Association season. "There are a lot of areas we're going to have to be better in. We had too many turnovers (16). That's what really rankles me."

Despite the impressive margin of victory, the Cavs almost faltered. They dropped their guard in the last quarter and lost most of a big lead before regrouping.

This lack of killer instinct upset the highly-critical Fitch.

"The worst thing to do is get a belt-and-suspenders attitude with a 15-point lead," Fitch said. "You should keep running, but you've got to be smart."

One thing Fitch couldn't complain about was the rebounding. For the fifth straight game, the Cavs topped their opponents in that department—this time by a 57-48 margin.

"There's no team in the league deeper than we are," noted Bobby Smith, Cleveland's high scorer with 17 points.

In other NBA games, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Detroit Pistons 121-101 and the Seattle SuperSonics topped the Atlanta Hawks 126-112.

Led by Smith, Cleveland put seven men in double figures, offsetting a 27-point performance by the Jazz' Pete Maravich. The Cavaliers hit 11 of their first 12 shots, jumping into a 25-11 lead with 4:37 left in the first period.

Maravich scored 14 of his game-high total during a third quarter spurt that brought the Jazz within 66-58, midway through the period. But center Jim Chones connected on two quick jumpers for the Cavs, who took a 13-point lead by the end of the third period and coasted the rest of the way.

SuperSonics 126, Hawks 112

Forward Bruce Seals scored 21 points, leading Seattle over Atlanta. The victory was the SuperSonics' third straight Seattle Coliseum triumph this season and their 19th consecutive regular-season victory at home over two seasons.

Oak Tree meet in final week

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The 23-day Oak Tree meet at Santa Anita heads into its final week today, with Any Time Girl crowned queen of the 2-year-old fillies.

Attention now focuses on Saturday's $350,000 invitational handicap, The Champions.

Stakes winners King Pellinore, Riot in Paris, Honest Pleasure and possibly Festive Mood are among the probable starters in the 1¼-mile Champions.

Washington-bred Any Time Girl scored an upset in Sunday's Oak Leak Stakes, winning $73,140 out a purse of $121,900. It was the richest purse in the West for the 2-year-old distaff set.

Any Time Girl was bred in Washington's Yakima Valley by owner Wilbur Stadleman, a fruit grower.

It was her third stakes triumph, as she paid $23 to win.

Telferner, seeking her fourth stakes win, faded in the stretch and finished fourth as the solid favorite.

Any Time Girl raced wide in the stretch — so wide she seemed bent on collecting the autograph of actor John Wayne as he waited in the winner's circle to crown the victor.

Lady TV was second, and Glenaris was third in the field of eight.

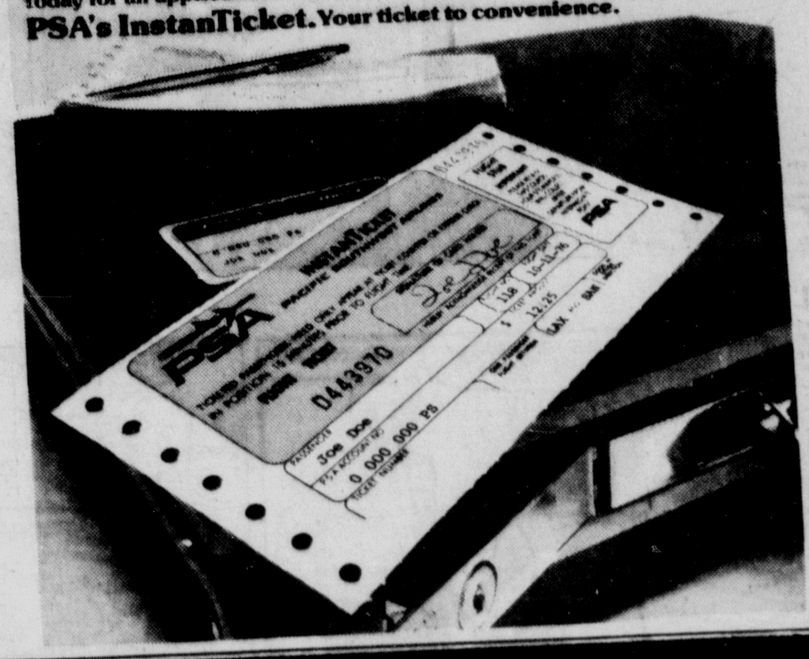

Vagabonda won Saturday's Las Palmas Handicap for older fillies and mares. Favored Bastonera II was second, and Accra II was third.

Blazers' Neal healthy again

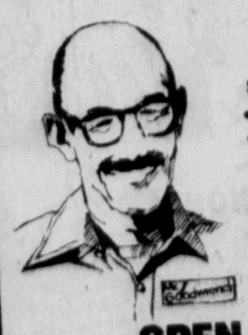

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Forward Lloyd Neal, sidelined with preseason knee surgery, will resume practice with the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association later this week.

Q. "WHY DOES THE MOON HAVE PHASES?"

KEVIN DOUCETTE
RAYNHAM, MA

A. THE MOON'S ROTATION AROUND THE EARTH CAUSES THE PHASES. AS THE MOON CIRCLES THE EARTH, MORE AND MORE OF THE SUNLIT SIDE CAN BE SEEN FROM THE EARTH.

DICK ROGERS

As we watch the moon night after night, it seems to change its shape. These different appearances are called phases.

The moon s rotation around the earth causes the phases.

The moon gives off no light of its own. It reflects the light from the sun. The sun can light up only one half of the moon at a time.

The phase that we see from the earth at any time depends on how much of the lighted side is turned toward us.

When the moon is between the earth and the sun, its dark side is turned toward the earth. At this time, the moon is almost invisible. It is called the new moon.

A thin crescent appears as we begin to see part of the sunlit side. Each night the crescent gets a little larger. After a week, it is a half moon.

At full moon, the moon has circled far enough for us to see all the sunlit half.

As it completes its journey around the earth, the moon again passes through all its phases.

BONK!

Children fascinated by real life Willie Wonka

OAKLAND (AP) — The hands on the chocolate clock read 10:30 a.m. Below them, a corporate president dressed in a purple velvet tuxedo, ruffled shirt and top hat sits pondering his customers' requests:

"Dear Bubble Gum King, Could you make a candy that's carbonated so it pops in your mouth?"

"Dear Willie Wonka, Could you make a gum that never loses its flavor and turns colors when you chew?"

At first glance, it may seem unlikely that these juvenile flights of fancy will ever make it to the marketplace. But then, this is the United States Chewing Gum Manufacturing Co., "where accidents become products," and it may all come true.

After all, nearby machines painted like rocketships and choochoo trains are turning out powies, puckeroos and purple poppers. And despite three degrees (law, economics and business administration), the 34-year-old executive introduces himself as "Uncle Al, the Kiddies' Pal" and explains his workstyle by saying, "I like to play."

The purple-garbed president, Allan Silverstone, is playing the candy game quite well. Since buying U.S. Chewing Gum two years ago, his flamboyant marketing has tripled sales and produces daydreams that include an anticipated $250,000 in profits this year.

All this is a far cry from investment banking, Silverstone's previous calling. But he found the financial world of a plush Beverly Hills securities firm "frustrating and boring" and wanted "a business I could have fun with."

So, Silverstone opened a candy and gumball machine store called The Penny Arcade in Beverly Hills, then "acquired one of my suppliers, moved up here and started turning the (candy) industry on to new things."

The creative process was somewhat haphazard. When a batch of giant gumballs came out slightly streaked, Silverstone decided they looked like prehistoric eggs. He marketed them as "Pterodactyl Eggs," complete with hatching instructions, and stores sold more than 250,000 of them at $2 each in less than six months.

Then a batch of eggs came out lumpy and a supervisor was about to discard them.

"Wait, that's non-melting ice cream," said Silverstone, rushing out for cones to verify the size. "Non-Melting Ice Cream," with a reusable plastic cone, is now on the market in 31 flavors.

Silverstone's serendipitous success has caused some ripples. Children, perhaps understandably, associate him with the fun-loving candymaker played by Gene Wilder in the movie, "Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory." But, Quaker Oats, which owns the rights to the character, objected through their lawyers and Silverstone now tells visitors, "I want you to understand that I'm not Willie Wonka. I hope that clarifies my position on the matter."

Such questions are probably above the head of the third-grader who heard of Silverstone's real-life candy factory and wrote:

"My teacher says as soon as she gets her plane fixed, she will fly us to your factory. I don't believe her but there's always hope."

Pomona project to be displayed

Activities and programs of the secondary mathematics component of Pomona Unified School District's Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) project will be displayed at the 17th annual conference of the California Mathematics Council, Southern Section, next Friday and Saturday in Anaheim.

Pomona's project was selected for display as an example of an exemplary program. It may be viewed in the north lobby of the Convention Center from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days.

It includes a slide presentation of a typical day in the life of an ESAA secondary math student, a display of games, computers, worksheets, filmstrips and learning centers used to teach math concepts and an explanation of the total program.

Charles Alviso, Denis Hegarty, Gwen Johnson and Frances Primus, ESAA resource teachers, will be on hand to discuss the program and answer questions.

Plans, specifications, and proposal forms for bidding this project can only be obtained at the office of the Chief Engineer, Transportation Building, Sacramento, California, and may be seen at the offices of the Chief Engineer at Sacramento, and the District Directors of Transportation at Los Angeles, San Francisco, and the district in which the work is situated.

The successful bidder shall furnish a payment bond and a performance bond.

The Department of Transportation hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in consideration for an award.

Minimum wage rates for this project as predetermined by the Secretary of Labor are set forth in the special provisions. If there is a difference between the minimum wage rates predetermined by the Secretary of Labor and the prevailing wage rates determined by the Department of Transportation for similar classifications of labor, the Contractor and his subcontractors shall pay not less than the higher wage rate.

Pursuant to Section 1770 of the Labor Code, the Department has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages in the county in which the work is to be done, to be as listed in the Department of Transportation publication entitled Equipment Rental Rates And General Prevailing Wage Rates, dated October, 1976.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF OPPORTUNITY FOR A DESIGN HEARING AND THE AVAILABILITY OF THE DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL STUDY FOR THE IMPROVEMENT AND WIDENING OF FIRST STREET FROM CLAREMONT BOULEVARD TO INDIAN HILL BOULEVARD IN THE CITY OF CLAREMONT, CALIFORNIA.

PROPOSAL

The City of Claremont proposes to improve First Street between Claremont Boulevard and Indian Hill Boulevard. Included in the improvement is the reconstruction and widening of First Street to four lanes between Claremont Boulevard and College Avenue. Also included is the construction of a landscaped median on First Street between College Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard. Funds to finance a portion of the proposed improvement have been requested from the Federal Government under the Federal-Aid-Urban program.

PURPOSE

The proposed street improvement will replace a badly deteriorated pavement and increase the capacity and safety of First Street by adding travel lanes.

INFORMATION

An environmental assessment of the impact of the improvement was made and a determination of non-major action was prepared by the City of Claremont with the concurrence of the Federal Highway Administration. The determination of non-major action is available for review at the City Engineer's office, City of Claremont, 207 Harvard Avenue, Claremont, California 91711. Copies of the determination of non-major action are available upon written request. Written comments regarding the determination of non-major action from any group or individual should be mailed to Paul E. Cook, City Engineer, at the above address prior to November 14, 1976. Information concerning the project can also be obtained from the City Engineer's office or by telephone at 624-4531.

HEARING

If, after obtaining information about the above proposal, a Design Hearing is desired to discuss any or all aspects of the proposed improvement, it may be requested in writing by any interested agency or member of the general public. The hearing will provide the public with an opportunity to consider and comment on the above proposal. Written requests for a hearing should be submitted no later than November 14, 1976.

NOTICE OF JOINT PUBLIC HEARING BY THE POMONA REDEVELOPMENT AGENCY AND THE POMONA REDEVELOPMENT COMMISSION ON THE PROPOSED REDEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR THE MOUNTAIN MEADOWS PROJECT AREA.
CITY OF POMONA

Notice is hereby given that the Redevelopment Agency of the City of Pomona and the Pomona Redevelopment Commission will hold a joint public hearing on the proposed Redevelopment Plan for the Mountain Meadows Project Area in the City of Pomona on Monday, November 22, 1976 at the hour of 8:00 P.M. in the Council Chambers of the City Hall at 505 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, California.

Legal description of the boundaries of the area designated in the proposed Redevelopment Project for the Mountain Meadows Project Area is as shown below:

That certain parcel of land, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California being a portion of the Rancho San Jose as per map recorded in Book 2, pages 292 and 293 of Patents in the office of the County Recorder of said County, described as follows:

Beginning at the most northerly corner of Lot 4 of the Naranja Val Vista Tract as per map recorded in Book 36, pages 18 and 19 of Maps, in the said County Recorder's office; thence southwesterly along the westerly line of said lot and its southwesterly prolongation to the intersection with the center line of Val Vista Street (50 feet wide) as said street is shown on said Tract map; then northwesterly along said centerline to the intersection with the centerline of Dudley Street (shown as an unnamed roadway lying westerly of and immediately adjacent to the westerly line of lots 7 and 12 of said Tract); thence southerly along said centerline of Dudley Street and its southerly prolongation to the intersection with the centerline of the San Bernardino Freeway (Interstate Route 10) as said intersection is shown on the California State Department of Transportation Right-of-Way Map Number F1868 from San Dimas Avenue (Post Mile 42.4) to Dudley Street (Post Mile 44.2); thence westerly along said Freeway centerline to the intersection with the centerline of Ganesha Boulevard as said Boulevard existed on January 1, 1976; thence northeasterly along said last mentioned centerline to the intersection with the centerline of McKinley Avenue (formerly Walnut Avenue) as said Avenue and point of intersection shown on Los Angeles County Surveyor's Map Number B-1391 (Ganesha Boulevard from Arroyo Avenue to Walnut Avenue) on file in the office of the County Engineer of said County; thence southeasterly along said centerline of McKinley Avenue to the intersection with the northeasterly prolongation of the easterly line of that certain parcel of land described in the deed to Ora and Clair Enquist and recorded on October 5, 1955 as document number 842 of Official Records in said County Recorder's Office; thence south 22 degrees 15' 40" West 214.09 feet more or less said prolongation and said easterly line to the most southerly corner of said last mentioned parcel of land; thence south 59 degrees 37' 50" East 316.73 feet to the intersection with the westerly line of Lot 18 of the El Pariso Tract as per map recorded in Book 28, Page 60 of Maps in said County Recorder's Office, said last mentioned intersection being monumented with a 2" pipe as shown on the map of Tract Number 8147 recorded in Book 121, Pages 76 and 77 of Maps in said Recorder's Office; thence southwesterly along said westerly line of Lot 18 to the northwest corner of Lot 60 in Tract Number 9687 as per map recorded in Book 136, Pages 67 to 70 inclusive; thence continuing southwesterly along the west line of said Lot 60 to the southwest corner of said Lot 60, said southwest corner also being the most northerly corner of said Lot 4 of the Naranja Val Vista Tract and the point beginning.

A general statement of the scope and objectives of the proposed Redevelopment Plan for the Mountain Meadows Project Area is as follows: The general objective of the Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Plan is to eliminate blight within the Project Area. Specific objectives to be accomplished by this plan are:

1. The elimination of those conditions which are causing economic disuse and dislocation in Project area.

2. The assemblage and provision of land which is suitable for use of new residential developments which will improve economic conditions in the Project Area.

3. The enhancement of the visual image of a major area of the City of which the community can be proud.

4. To establish landscaping and structural conditions on the reuses in accordance with modern and competitive development practices.

5. Providing for the assembly of parcels which are adequate in size, configuration and contain reasonable access to streets and utilities so as to encourage new construction through private investment, thereby enhancing opportunities for the development of the Project Area into a viable, master planned residential entity.

On the day and at the hour and place above specified, all persons having any objections to the proposed Redevelopment Plan or who deny the existence of blight in the proposed Redevelopment Project Area or the regularity of any of the prior proceedings may appear and show cause why the Redevelopment Plan should not be adopted. Those persons who wish to express support for the Plan may also appear and be heard at that time.

INTEREST: The bonds shall bear interest at a rate or rates to be fixed upon the sale thereof but not to exceed eight percent (8%) per annum, payable annually the first year and semiannually thereafter.

PAYMENT: Said bonds and the interest thereon are payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the principal office of United California Bank in the City of Los Angeles, California, and at the paying agents of the District at The Northern Trust Company in the City of Chicago, Illinois, or at Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. in the City of New York, New York, at the option of the holder thereof.

REGISTRATION: The bonds will be coupon bonds registrable either as to principal only or as to both principal and interest, and the form of registration may be changed, or the bonds discharged from registration, all in accordance with provisions in the resolution providing for the issuance of said bonds.

CALLABLE: The bonds maturing on or prior to November 1, 1987, shall not be subject to call or redemption prior to maturity. All bonds maturing on or after November 1, 1988, or or any of them, may be called before maturity and redeemed, at the option of the Board of Directors, on November 1, 1987, or on any interest payment date thereafter prior to maturity (hereinafter sometimes called the "redemption date"). Bonds called prior to maturity shall be redeemed at the principal amount thereof, plus a premium equal to one-fourth of one percent (¼ of 1%) for each twelve (12) month period or portion thereof from the date of redemption to the maturity date thereof. All or any of the bonds subject to call may be called for redemption at any one time. If less than all of the bonds are redeemed at one time, such bonds shall be redeemed only in inverse order of maturity years and by lot within each maturity.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The bonds are to be issued to finance the acquisition, construction, improving and financing of water treatment and distribution facilities to serve Improvement District No. 3 of the Walnut Valley Water District.

SECURITY: Said bonds are issued pursuant to California Water Disfrict Law (Division 13 of the Water Code) and shall be paid from an unlimited annual assessment upon taxable land within Improvement District No. 3 or charges which, in the discretion of the Board, are fixed and collected in lieu thereof and all land shall be and remain liable to be assessed for these payments.

LEGAL INVESTMENT: Said bonds will, before the delivery thereof, be certified for investment under and pursuant to the provisions of the Districts Securities Commission Law, Division 10 of the Water Code.

TERMS OF SALE

Interest Rate: The maximum rate bid may not exceed eight percent (8%) per annum, payable annually the first year and semiannually thereafter. Each rate bid must be a multiple of one-twentieth of one percent (1/20 of 1%). No bond shall bear more than one interest rate, and all bonds of the same maturity shall bear the same rate. Only one coupon will be attached to each bond for each installment of interest thereon, and bids providing for additional or supplemental coupons will be rejected. The rate on any maturity or group of maturities shall not be more than two percent (2%) higher than the interest due on any other maturity or group of maturities.

Award: The bonds shall be sold for cash only. All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds hereby offered for sale and each bid shall state that the bidder offers par and accrued interest to the date of delivery, the premium, if any, and the interest rate or rates shall not exceed those specified herein, at which the bidder offers to buy said bonds. Each bidder shall state in his bid the total net interest cost in dollars and the average net interest rate determined thereby, which shall be considered informative only and not a part of the bid.

Highest Bidder: The bonds will be awarded to the highest responsible bidder or bidders considering the interest rate of rates specified and the premium offered, if any. The highest bid will be determined by deducting the amount of the premium bid (if any) from the total amount of interest which the District would be required to pay from the date of said bonds to the respective maturity dates thereof at the coupon rate or rates specified in the bid. The net cost to the District on any
